FURNITURE EMPORIUM.

The Golden Ball Boot and Shoe Store is the oldest established in Miramichi. It is now fifteen years since we commenced business exclusively in the above line, and we can now point with pleasure, to hosts of patrons, who have invariably, purchased from us, during that length of time. The reason is plain. We buy entirely from the best manufacturers, consequently our goods give satisfaction. We might purchase cheap, shoddy goods (that are only meant to sell and not to wear) but by pursuing that policy, it would be impossible to retain our customers. The best goods are the cheapest in the end.

We have full lines of

Infant's, Children's Misses', Youth's, Boy's Women's and Men's Boots Shoes, Slippers. etc.,

at the lowest possible price compatible with good quality.
Also a large assortment of

SARSAPARILLA

DOUBLE IODIDES.

Space forbids the giving more testimony in this place, in favor of this great medicine. Is not one certificate, however, from an eminent and well-known Physician like Dr Bessey, of Montreal, sufficient to establish its superiority over the numerous mixtures called Blood Purifiers offered by Druggists and others?

T. C. STRATTON, Esq.

Montreal, Feb. 1st, 1877.

I cannot but regard the formula from which Dr. Channing's Sarsaparilla is prepared, as one of the best possible combinations to constitute an effectual remedy, for the cure of Blood Impurities. So far as my experience leads me with this remedy, I can testify to its great value in the treatment of all Strumous and Cachectic affections, as Glandular Enlargements, and a wide range of skin affections; as a reliable preparation for general use as a blood purifier, I know of none equal to it, combining as it does, all the imputed virtues of Sarsaparilla, and several other valuable remedies, with the extraordinary alterative properties of the "Double Iodides," and of none that can be more highly recommended as safe, certain and reliable, and I have every confidence that such a remedy for general use, taking the place of the many worthless nostrums of the day, will be a great boon to suffering humanity, and its use will be attended with the most satisfactory results. It should be invaluable to persons beyond the reach of medical advice, and will, no doubt, become popular with Medical men throughout the country.

Respectfully yours,
W. E. BESSEY, M.D
Beaver Hall Square.

NOTE.—Dr. Channing's Sarsaparilla is put up in large bottles, with the name blown in the Glass, and retails at $1.00 per bottle, or Six Bottles for Five Dollars. Sold by Druggists generally, and most Country Stores. Be sure, and ask for Dr. Channing's Sarsaparilla and take no other. If not readily obtained in your locality, address the General Agent.

CHATHAM. - - - AUGUST 31, 1882.

The London "Times" Contempt for Canada.

(From "The Times," July 28.)

"We print this morning the address to the Queen concerning the affairs of Ireland recently adopted by the Senate and Commons of Canada, together with the reply addressed to the Marquis of Lorne by Lord Kimberley. The fact that such an address had been voted was mentioned in English newspapers at the time; but the announcement scarcely produced the sensation which was presumably expected. The public owes to the valuable institution of Parliamentary papers the rescue from imminent oblivion of a document which is really interesting and even amusing in a very high degree. It opens, in accordance with the best precedents, with an earnest desire on the part of the Canadian Parliament to renew the expression of their 'unswerving loyalty and devotion' to Her Majesty's person and Government. That is so entirely innocent and even praiseworthy a desire that every well-wisher to Canada will profoundly regret the extremely unfortunate manner in which her representatives have attempted to satisfy it. Had their aim been to 'dissemble their love' we hardly know how they could more effectually have compassed it than by sending such an address at such a time. Just when Her Majesty's Government is engaged in a severe struggle with anarchy and sedition in Ireland, Canadian loyalty and devotion assume the form of a public and formal recommendation that rebellion and treason should be legitimized by concession of the demand for Home Rule. At a time when the Government had avowed itself unable to answer for the preservation of the semblance of order without imprisoning the ringleaders of the Irish conspiracy, and exactly three days before the murder of two of the Queen's servants in the Phœnix Park, Her Majesty's loyal and devoted subjects at the safe distance of three thousand miles from the centre of disturbance take upon themselves to pray that these gentlemen may be allowed to enjoy the 'inestimable blessing of personal liberty.' English ideas of loyalty and devotion have certainly suffered an extraordinary inversion in crossing the Atlantic, if they can inspire such reckless and presumptuous interference with problems of whose true character Canadians have little opportunity of informing themselves. The respectful phrases in which these uncalled for recommendations are couched cannot blind anyone to the fact that they amount to a vote of censure upon Her Majesty's Government, and of encouragement to its avowed enemies. We are at a loss to determine whether the circumstance that the Address is simply an electioneering dodge to catch the Irish vote, ought to be regarded as an aggravation of or an excuse for the offence. If the more charitable view be taken, it condemns the Canadian Parliament as guilty of a levity of thought which must seriously detract from the value of any opinion it may form.

"Lord Kimberley has treated this remarkable expression of loyalty and devotion with well-deserved severity. After acknowledging on Her Majesty's behalf the conventional phrase of the exordium, he deals with the Address itself in a single sentence. He says:—'Her Majesty will always gladly receive the advice of the Parliament of Canada on all matters relating to the Dominion and the administration of its affairs; but with respect to the question referred to in the Address, Her Majesty will, in accordance with the Constitution of this country, have regard to the advice of the Imperial Parliament and Ministers, to whom all matters relating to the affairs of the United Kingdom exclusively appertain.' Official diction does not often approach so closely to the incisive directness of the domestic snub—'Mind your own business;' but it must be admitted that a statesman rarely has to deal with anything so closely resembling the familiar impudence of the domestic busybody. We are not aware that Canada has as yet established any overwhelming claim to offer advice to the mother country. The Canadian Parliament is probably a useful body in its own sphere, which may not unjustly be compared to the Metropolitan Board of Works. But if it has produced any prodigy of statesmanlike capacity, the usually energetic colonial trumpeter must have sadly neglected his functions. Colonial personages come over here from time to time to disport themselves in London society.—They usually appear more or less impressed with the wholly unfounded notion that everybody is looking at them; and when they get a chance to talk at a public dinner they descant with an amusing air of importance upon the burning questions of some little community which has no foreign relations at all and no domestic problems except of the simplest character. With charming simplicity they will describe how well they manage things, and they will let it be understood that a moderate amount of wisdom would, in their opinion, suffice to organize English affairs on their more perfect models. The truth is that a colonial training is the very worst conceivable, so far as qualifying a man to meddle with Imperial politics is concerned. The intelligent English schoolboy—not of Lord Macaulay, but of everyday life—has a better comprehension of the complexity of life in an old country like this than is easily attained by the Prime Minister of a country of sheep runs or railway lots. When our Canadian friends offer suggestions about the Irish difficulty they meddle with a problem which puzzled English statesman before a lumber raft floated on a Canadian river. Their utter want of cognate experience ought alone to teach them modesty. Were they even competent to judge, their relations to the mother country ought to teach them a somewhat more reverent form of 'loyalty and devotion.' Our colonies owe us a great deal, and they make a remarkably small return. We nurse them through their puling infancy, we insure for their youth the opportunity of tranquil and undisturbed growth; and our reward usually is that as soon as they reach something approaching manhood they display their independence by putting prohibitive or restrictive taxes upon our commerce. Our behaviour to them is largely regulated by a kind of paternal feeling; their behaviour to us is shaped upon commercial principles—usually false ones. They expect us to defend them and to regulate our fleets and armies accordingly; in return they buy from us whatever they cannot get as cheaply elsewhere. They might at least treat us with the respect and courtesy we receive at the hands of our peers.

"It is curious to notice the almighty dollar emerging from the laboured paragraphs of the Canadian address. The emigration agency appears among the high politics of that ambitious document in a manner reminding one of the 'business carried on as usual' which an American widow appended to the epitaph of her deceased husband. The address points out to Her Majesty that 'the Dominion of Canada does not receive that proportion of emigrants from Ireland which might reasonably be expected,' and that this is due not, of course, to the climate or the administration of Canada, but to the 'feelings of estrangement towards the Imperial Government,' which many Irishmen cherish. Her Majesty, in short, is to grant Home Rule in Ireland in order to divert the stream of emigration to the north of the lakes, or, as the Address more grandiosely puts it, 'in order that your Majesty may not be deprived, in the development of your Majesty's possessions on this continent, of the valuable aid of those of your Majesty's subjects who may feel disposed to leave their native land to seek more prosperous homes.' There is something really delicious about this very Irish request, and one does not know whether most to admire the coolness of the proposition, the groundlessness of the underlying assumption, or the illusory character of the proffered reward. Yet, audacious, as the proposal is, we venture to say that if Canada could only give sufficient guarantees that she will absorb the population of Ireland, the Government would give its most serious consideration to almost any terms she can make."

The relaxing power of Johnsons's Anodyne Liniment is almost miraculous. A gentleman whose leg was bent at the knee and stiff for twenty years had it limbered by its use, and the leg is now as good as the other.

Jacob Loockman, Buffalo, N. Y. says, he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "cured him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

A Bright Bangor Barber.

Mr. M. Martin, an intelligent young colored man, a resident of Bangor, Mich., came to this city for the purpose of collecting $15,000 from the Louisiana State Lottery Company, due him as the holder of one-fifth of ticket No. 85,003, Class G, which won the capital prize of $75,000 in the drawing of July 11th. He had been investing in lottery tickets at intervals during a year, and had once before struck it for $100. He presented his ticket, he said, and was given a check on the New Orleans National Bank for the full amount, and the funds he invested in two bills of exchange on New York. He proposed to enlarge and refit his barber shop with a portion of his money, but had not decided on the investment of the remainder. He, however, remarked, "I will certainly put it to a good use."—New Orleans Times—Democrat, July 23.

The New Story.

Not a tale of failure or disappointment; not the old story of the victim of caustic applications and the evils attending their use; but the new story of success of freedom from pain and consequently absence of spots left in the flesh. PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR gives inspiration for happier reports, and sufferers from corns need not hesitate to try it. Sold everywhere by druggists and dealers in medicine. N. C. How to Keep From Drowning.

The human body weighs a pound in the water, and a chair will carry two grown persons. That is, it will keep the head above water, which is all that is necessary when it is a question of life and death.—One finger placed upon a stool or chair, a small box or a piece of board, will easily keep the head above the water, while his feet paddles to propel toward the shore. It is not at all necessary to know how to swim to be able to keep from drowning in this way. A little experience of the buoyant power of water, and faith in it, is all that is required. We have seen a small boy who could not swim a stroke, propel himself back and forth across a deep, wide pond by means of a board that would not sustain five pounds weight. Children, and all others, should have practice in the sustaining power of water. In nine cases out of
