Town and Country.

To-morrow will be Good Friday.

Flour $5 per bbl. at the Model Warehouse.

The University closed to-day for Easter holidays.

The Legislature prorogued at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Railway Bill was carried through the Assembly by a vote of 32 to 6

The fire department was called out on Friday and Saturday for two small fires.

Messrs. Whitman Haines and Fred Hall, have about completed their contract for repairing the bridge which crosses the river at Woodstock.

There is a report in circulation that an Alderman has recently been making a haul out of the City in a rather unique and startling way.

The "S-ch H," commenced her regular trips between Fredericton and St. Mary's last year on the 8th of April. The previous year on the 24th April.

☞ Mr. D. Lucy has for sale at his Lumber Yard, a large quantity of Shingles, Lathes, Clapboards, and Planed Flooring, which he sells at low rates.

Mr. C. W. Beckwith, City Clerk, won Mr. Taylor's oil painting of the Blue Mountains of the Tobique at the drawing in the Parliament Buildings, last night.

The Bills to authorize the York Municipal Council to erect County Offices in the Court House, and to provide a lock up in Stanley, have passed the Legislature.

The Bill authorizing the introduction of Water Works and Sewerage system into the city by the City Council has become law. The Company's bill was thrown out.

The Fire Department of the city has purchased from the gutta percha and Rubber Manufacturing Co., of New York, 950 feet of hose—750 feet for the steamers and 200 feet for No. 3 hand engine.

The County Court Bill passed the Assembly by a vote of 25 to 11 on Monday, and the same evening was agreed to in the Legislative Council without discussion. In this vote Messrs. Killam and Sayre were with the Government and Mr. Elder against it.

The book on "Insects, injurious and beneficial," published by Johnston & Co., and freely distributed, has been highly appreciated. A thousand copies have been asked for by members of the Legislature to send to their constituents.

We would call attention to the advertisement of the "Riverview Nursery," Hampton, King's County, in another column. The strawberry plants are among the best and Mr. Fairweather may be relied upon to send out only what he proposes to do.

Hon. Mr. Perley has been presented by his colleagues in the Government with a nice oil painting of three black bears in consideration of his connection with the destruction of those animals, under the Bear Bounty Act, which has been revived and continued through the hon. gentleman's influence.

There will likely be abundance of candidates in Carleton Co., in the approaching local elections. The present members, Messrs White and Leighton will seek re-election. Besides these Messrs. B. N. Shaw, of Hartland, J. R. Tompkins, of Florenceville, and Wm. M. Connell, James Watts, W. W. Hay and W. B. Belyea are spoken as probable candidates.

On the Clerk of the Pleas matter Friday evening, the Government were sustained by a vote of 25 to 13. Mr. Sayre voted with the Government, and Mr. White of Carleton was conspicuously absent when the division was called. Hon. Mr. Fraser's able speech at the close of the debate will be found in another column.

The engine "City of Fredericton," which passed through the fire at the Railway works last fall, is again on her old route, having been thoroughly overhauled and refitted and put in first class working order. The work was done by Mr Robt. Donaldson, one of the employees of the road, who is deserving of much credit for the satisfactory way in which he has performed it.

The popular clothing firm, Thos. W. Smith & Son, are now doing a large and steadily increasing business. As will be seen by their advertisement, they are prepared for the Spring and Snmmer demands. They are ready to get up, at the shortest notice, seasonable suits after the latest fashion plates for costumes, from the nobbiest English, Scotch, and Canadian Tweeds. For those who want an immediate outfit, they will find it in the Messrs. Smith's large stock of boots and shoes and ready made clothing, etc.

We have received a copy of "Meliora," an Oration delivered by William Elder, Esq., A. M., before the Alumni of the Mount Allison Wesleyan College, Sackville, on the 1st of June, 1880. In a word, it is an eulogium on institutions of learning, and a exposition of the grand part that true knowledge and science have had in the past, in redeeming the world from ignorance, superstition and cruelty, and will have, in the future in ameliorating, elevating and refining the conditions of human life. It is a scholarly production well worthy of being preserved in the form in which it is now presented.

At a Special Meeting of the City Council on Friday evening, the following assessment was ordered for the ensuing year:

Public Works,	$4,000
Roads and Streets,	3,000
Poor,	2,500
Street Lamps,	1,300
Administration of Justice,	1,000
Fire Department,	3,400
Debentures,	5,300
Schools,	11,500
	$32,000

The total amount assessed last year was $30,000

Monday's Herald says that James Bishop's barn, on the Fraser & Winslow farm, on the Old Road, was broken into by parties unknown some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, and a span of horses stolen. There is no trace of the robbers, and one of the horses was found lying dead on the road this morning. From facts learned since writing the above, it appears that the animals were stolen on Saturday night. On Sunday Mr. Bishop followed them up the road and found them late in the day at Burden Wheeler's place. They had evidently been driven very hard and received cruel usage, for on the way home one of them dropped dead.

Among the land companies to whom have been issued letters patent under the Joint Stock Companies Act is "The New Brunswick and North West Colonization Company" with a capital of $150,000 in 1500 $100 shares. St. John is to be the chief place of business. The names of the incorporators are Simeon Jones, banker; John Livingston, journalist; C. H. Fairweather, merchant; W. H. Tuck, barrister; Howard D. Troop, shipowner; W. H. Thorne, merchant; E. McLeod, L. R. Harrison, G. W. Burbidge and William Pugsley, barristers; and A. B. Sheraton, merchant, all of St. John; O. T. Stone, Winnipeg; R. R. Call, Chatham; Alfred Markham, of King's Co., and E. B. Winslow, of Fredericton.

In York, Messrs. Fraser, Blair, Colter and Thompson will be in the field again, and the only new men who may be named definitely as candidates up to the present are Ald. W. Wilson of Fredericton, and Mr. Leverett Estabrooks of Lower Prince William, who was nominated in 1878 but retired before election day. The present feeling would seem to indicate that the only change in the representation will be by Mr. Thompson giving place to Mr. Wilson, who is acknowledged to be a strong man in the constituency. The Attorney General is said to stand very high among his constituents, and there will be a warm struggle between him and Mr. Blair, the leader of the Opposition, as to who shall lead the poll, while many would not be surprised to see either Mr. Colter or Mr. Wilson attain that position. Some wise ones think that Mr. Thompson will not again offer, but will the[illegible] his influence for Mr. Wilson, who is his brother-in-law, and who is also connected with Mr. Blair by marriage. People feel that the election of all these gentlemen would savor too much of "a family compact," so the supposition that Mr. Thompson will decline to run would seem a reasonable one.—Chatham World.

THE COMMON EXPRESSIONS, "I feel so dragged," "My food don't digest," "I do not feel fit for anything," which we so often hear during the Spring and early Summer months are conclusive evidence that the majority of people require at that season especially a reliable medicine that will strengthen the organs of digestion, stimulate the circulation of the blood, and "tone up" the debilitated constitution. Hanington's Quinine Wine and Iron, and Tonic Dinner Pills, taken acco ding to directions, produce buoyancy of spirits, vigor of mind, and give lasting strength to the whole system. Beware of imitations. See that you get "Hanington's," the original and genuine. For sale by all druggists and general dealers in Canada.

Fatal Railway Accident.

A sad accident occurred at Grand Lake Station on the Intercolonial Railway, last Thursday morning, by which Conductor Jas. Geldert was almost instantly killed. An eye witness of the affair gives the following account of it:—

Conductor Geldert came down from Truro in charge of a special train composed principally of empty cars, with three loaded cars and a van at the end of the train. The train lost time at different points, and had stopped at Grand Lake station. They were about starting and the engine was backing the train half-a-dozen car lengths, preparatory to starting, when the brakeman on the van in the rear saw Conductor Logan's special coming upon them at a rapid rate, just round a sudden bend in the road. He opened the door of the van and shouted to Geldert and then jumped clear. Geldert was reclining as though he had been sleeping, and seemed to start up as the brakesman called to him, but not in time to escape. The engine of the rear train struck the van, telescoping it and capsizing several of the other cars. Geldert's body was thrown through the bottom of the car and was found on the road, but one leg was torn completely off and carried four or five car lengths along the road. A mattress was procured and Geldert was transferred to it. He was alive and conscious and realized that death was inevitable. He turned over on his back without assistance and asked them to raise him up. They did so, a shudder passed through the body and he was dead. He could not have lived over twenty-five minutes from the time the accident occurred.

A brakeman on Geldert's train at the inquest testsfied as follows:—

We left Truro on Wednesday night at 11.40 with a special train for Richmond. When near Grand Lake we were run into by Logan's special. We were not in motion when the trains struck. I saw Logan's special when about eight car lengths from our train. I ran to the rear of the train and told Geldert to look out for himself. I think he was just getting up. He made no answer. I saw him before the trains struck and saw him move before I jumped from the train. When I called him Logan's engine was about five car lengths from us. The next time I saw him was on the side of the track. I saw him struggle and turn over on his back. He held up his head and said "God have mercy on my Soul," several times. He asked me to raise him. We sent for a mattress and while placing him on it he died. He lived from twenty to thirty minutes after the accident. He bled but little. When speaking to me after the accident his voice was quite strong.

The evidence shows that Geldert's train was heavily loaded and stuck at Grand Lake and that Conductor Geldert neglected to protect it by sending out signals as required by the rules af the service.

Geldert left Truro an hour and forty mindtes before Logan, but made poor time, the load being heavy and the rail icy. It is thought Geldart was asleep, as there was a considerable delay at Grand Lake, and the failure to send out signals is otherwise unaccountable.

Condnctor Geldert had been on the road about nineteen years, and was one of the best known and most generally popular men on the line. He leaves a widow and family in Truro.

The esteem in which the deceased was held by the Railway employees may be judged from the fact that flags were floating at half mast on all stations of the Intercolonial for several days after his death.

The following was the verdict returned at the inquest:—"The Jury are of opinion that the deceased came to his death owing to danger signals not being placed in position on his train, it having been stopped over the time specified in the regulations, and strongly condemn the system of making, or allowing, men to work more than one day and night without rest. No blame is attachable to Conductor Logan or the hands on his train."

The Clerk of the Pleas Matter.

The Hon. Attorney-General's able Vindication.

At the close of the debate on the Clerk of the Pleas question, last Friday evening, Hon. Mr. Fraser delivered a most eloquent and telling speech in vindication of his own and the Government's position in the matter. There were crowded galleries, and it was evident that the occupants, as well as a large majority of the members of the House, were in warm sympathy with the hon. gentleman and were persuaded that he was speaking with an honest conviction. It was one of his best parliamentary efforts, and was greeted with hearty applause. He said:—

I may say that I stand here in somewhat of a delicate position, and feel, to a certain extent, embarrassed, not because I have done anything wrong, but because I will have to deal with matters that I would rather not bring before the House. When I say this, I do not mean that I wish to conceal anything, for since I have been in public life my acts have been open to the public gaze; and if I speak with warmth on the present occasion, I hope I will be pardoned, because my reputation is at stake. I did not attend the committee meetings, for I did not fear the truth, and desired that the whole truth might be made known, and I merely attended to give my evidence when subpœnaed. I wish to-night, however, to give an explanation—not to make myself right, for I think I am already right in the opinion of this House—but to show that I have done nothing that would be dishonorable to the character of any man. When the leader of the Opposition made reference to the matter during the debate on the address, I did not understand to what he referred; but when he moved the resolution, I saw the whole thing, and I saw that this was not the matter, of a day or a moment with my colleague, and when I saw what he meant I informed my colleagues of the facts of the whole matter, and it is unnecessary for me to say what they said to me. I do not hesitate to say that this charge was aimed by my colleague at me, his political opponent. I was told last fall that at this session something would be brought to light that would condemn one if not more members of the Government. Then I did not understand what was meant, but when this resolution was made I saw that it was the shell that was to blow up the Government, and I was prepared to meet it. When I entered the Government first I had no desire to enter public life, but I was urged to do, and certain things in my private life made me desire to drive care away by entering politics, and to abandon the resolve I made in 1866, never to enter public life again. I first went on a trip to the old country, and when I returned I found myself in a sea of trouble, which I endeavored to meet on firm principles, for it is not the man who shifts here to-day and there to-morrow that will succeed, but the one that is guided by principle throughout all his actions. (Applause.) The leader of the Government, the late Mr. Hatheway, a man who, despite his faults, will always be regarded as having had the interest of the country at heart, was my friend, and when I entered the Government the question of the clerkship of the Legislative Council was before the country and we had to deal with it. In 1872 Mr. Hatheway and myself had a private sitting with the Council, and we gave assurances that Mr. Botsford would restored by a fixed time, and it was agreed on their part that in the meantime they would recognize Mr. Bliss as clerk. Before that fixed time arrived Mr. Hathaway died and I was made Provincial Secretary. The session of 1873 approached and no arrangement was finally concluded. I was called upon by the Council to fulfil my engagement, and, as I had given my pledged word to it, I felt bound to carry it out, and in 1873 Mr. Botsford was gazetted Clerk of the Council and Mr. Bliss Clerk of the House. I could not bring my mind to arrive at the same conclusion about the arrangement as Mr. Bliss did, but he subsequently called upon me to fulfil his view of the matter. I accept his statement that he was not aware of the fact till 1879, but it does not change my view of it. Mr. Babbitt says Mr. Bliss' attention was called to the fact that his account was overdrawn in 1874 The amounts accumulated and finally I closed the matter, and from that time down to the present time have paid amounts to Mr. Bliss out of my own pocket. I do not throw any blame on Mr. Bliss, but I was determined, rightly or wrongly, that he should not suffer on account of any misunderstanding with me.

The leader of the Opposition says he does not understand my magnanimity, but I do not regard my acts as magnanimous, but I will always do, and have always done, what is right by my neighbor. When my honorable colleague made the charge in this Assembly, he thought he was going to bring me up as a public delinquent and show that my hands were soiled with public money. If that was the case, and if I wanted to cover up anything, did I not take a strange way of doing so, when I always gave Mr. Bliss cheques in a public way on Mr, Babbitt? I never drew a cheque as Receiver General myself, but put everything in the hands of Mr. Babbitt, who is a young man of the highest honor, the honest son of an honest father. It was whispered that if I did pay the money I covered it up in my travelling expenses, or got other members of the Government to do so. Does any one in this House, or city or Province believe such a thing? Public men may do things that are irregular, but in the name of heaven do not let us cry down the name of our public men, for we have never had a scandal in this Province involving moral turpitude. While the inquiry was directed to the office of the Clerk of the Pleas, any one can see that its object was to involve a political opponent in political delinquency. Had I made such a charge and had it turned out as this has done, I would have acknowledged that in the matter on which I founded it I was misinformed. Mr. Bliss was receiving $400 in the office of Clerk of the Pleas, and it was agreed as part of the arrangement that he should receive $600, and Mr. Carman was directed to pay the $200 extra out of the fees of the office. There was nothing unusual in this as other clerks were paid in this way out of fees arising in different offices. There was no desire to conceal anything, and the accounts were always rendered. The member for Westmoreland (Black,) who sets himself up as a paragon of all that is right and as the pink of perfection, says we broke the law, but I will show by and by that he is not so particular about breaking the law where Westmoreland is concerned. The accounts of the office were rendered as they had been for over thirty years, during the administration of a Tilley, a Wilmot, a Beckwith, and a Gillmor. My attention was not called to the fact that there was anything irregular during the six years that I was Provincial Secretary, that the accounts were not laid on the table, but I disavow any intention of holding them back; they were alway on file and could always be obtained. To return to the member for Westmoreland, who says we broke the law in not having the returns made quarterly. The law was the same in 1851, and why should he blame us when other provincial secretaries and governments have done as we did? The member for Westmoreland has himself asked for payments that were contrary to law.

Mr, Black—Never.

Mr. Fraser—Will he deny that he asked me for a grant for an agricultural Society contrary to law during recess?

Mr. Black—I claimed that restitution should be made to a society as a matter of justice.

Hon. Mr. Fraser—He was asking the public officers of the country then to do what is now hurting his feeling so very much. He says everything must be paid for by warrant, but when he gets to be Provincial Secretary will find that it is impossible to do so, for it is impracticable to issue warrants for small amounts. I can tell my honorable friend that if the Province had paid a dollar of interest on the amounts advanced to Mr. Bliss I would have refunded it, but not one cent of interest was paid on that amount, and not one dollar was lost through me. I do not see how the member for St. John (Willis) can escape from the position he is in, for as a member of the Government he cannot divest himself of a responsibility of the acts of the Government when he was in it, and he is bound to defend them on all occasions. The member for Carleton was also a member of the Government, and I ask him and the member for St. John how they can vote to condemn something done while they were in the Government? The member for Westmoreland said he could not understand about the suspense account, but for four years past the suspense account has been laid on the tables of the House, and that gentleman has himself commented on it during the previous sessions. This has been to me an unpleasant matter, for to a sensitive man it is unpleasant to talk about personal transactions, and not because I have done anything wrong. The fullest opportunity has been given to probe the matter to the bottom, and while I would have been glad had the vote been taken last night, I could not permit the discussion to close without saying what I have. I can stand before this House, before the people of New Brunswick, and before my own constituents and truly say that my hands have never been soiled by one dollar of the Province of New Brunswick. (Great applause.)

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Nov. 11, 1878.
Mr. James H. Robinson, St. John, N. B.

Dear Sir,—By, I may say, almost an accident, early this spring, being confined to my room for nearly three months, and during this time I was under the combined care of three of the most emment physicians of Charlottetown, and by them and my friends given up as beyond all power to help me. Dr. Baxter, of Monction, having occasion to call upon me on business, very naturally observed my state of health, and after fully describing my trouble, which by the doctors attending me was pronounced Dyspepsia or Indigestion, in fact I was so bud I could only eat brown bread, and that after being made at least three days, while tea, coffee or milk I dare not touch, and a slice of dry toast would invariably give me the utmost distress. Dr. Baxter recommended "Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion," and I feel that I owe the public a debt which can only be paid by saying to all similarly afflicted, "Go thou and do likewise;" try "Robinson's Phosphorized Emulson." To-day I am hearty and strong, and can, without fear, indulge in all the luxuries of a first-class hotel,

Yours, etc.,

Alabastine.

A NATURAL material for finishing Walls, Ceilings, Rough Plaster, New Smooth Sand Finish, a solted Hard Finish, Painted Walls, Wood Ceilings, Wall Paper, Brick, Rough Boards Canvas, etc. Superior to Kalsomine. Ready for use by adding hot water. Can be mixed by any one. Any housekeeper can apply it without the aid of skilled labor. Alabastine is a valuable discovery. It constitutes a permanent finish for Walls, assimulating with the plaster, and does not rub off. It does not deteriorate by age; in this respect it is unlike all other preparations of a similar character. Alabastine is a disinfectant, and renders apartments healthful. Cracks in the walls can be filled by mixing the Alabastine thick, which cannot be done with Kalsomine. Five pounds of Alabastine will cover 50 square yards, or 450 square feet, two coats.

Sole Manufacturers of Miller's Patent Shifting Rail.

These Shifting Tops have no rival, as a glance at the cut will show for itself; it is so simple. It requires only one person to take it off or put it on, and when off no one would think a Top had been on, as no unsightly ends are sticking out. When the Top is on it is as firm as a rock. It can be put on any carriage in use. Persons ordering Buggies or Canopy Top Carriages should see that they have this Rail, as it will be greatly to their interest.

These Tops were awarded a Diploma at the Provincial Exhibition in October, 1880

Particular attention given to orders. Repairing done in the best manner, and at the shortest notice
