Town and Country.

Another election in York.

Skating at the Rink Saturday afternoon.

The snow blocade has delayed our Ottawa letter.

The military will soon shed their ulsters and bearskins.

Read Messrs. Park and Adams' Speeches on the Stumpage business.

Who said Mr. Blair didn't back down in the Stock Farm question?

Hon. F. Wood, M. L. C., has been called home by the death of a brother.

Mr. J. C, Risteen's new double tenement is advertised to rent elsewhere.

Mr. Julius Morrison is home from Baltimore, and will remain permanently here.

Prof. Sterne is to give an Organ Recital in the Marysville Church to-morrow evening.

Rev. Mr. Tippett has been invited to remain another year as pastor of the Methodist Church, here.

A committee of the Legislative Council, is investigating matters in connection with the Fredericton Bridge.

The FARMER has a new story which will be commenced week after next. Subscribe now and get it from the start.

Mr. Wetmore's speech on the Stock Farm matter was an able effort. An abstract of it is published elsewhere.

Lieut. Henry Montgomery Campbell, of this city, has been gazetted Captain of C. Troop, King's County Cavalry.

"They say," the York election will not be held till June. Mr. Blair wants the Stock Farm business to cool off a bit.

Read the advertisement of John Woodward, who offers for sale the household and other effects of the late Judge Weldon.

Dr. Tuck, Q. C,, has been appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court, vice Weldon, deceased, and his elevation is popular with all parties.

The FARMERS "pen portraits of prominent politicians," are read by everybody. Mr. Hanington and Mr. Quinton, make their bow today.

There is to be a Parlor Concert at Mr. D. Hatt's, tomorrow evening, when a most attractive literary and musical programme will be presented.

A colored lad named McIntyre, has been sentenced by the Police Magistrate, to two months in jail, for stealing a gold watch and chain from Mrs. J. H. F. Randolph's residence. The property was recovered.

Mr. D. F. George's schooner, the "Mary George," was wrecked off the Maine coast, last Wednesday. She was uninsured. Mr. George has gone to Tennant's Harbor, where the wreck was towed to, to look after his property.

Hon. B. R. and Mrs. Stevenson, of St. Andrew's, were in town last week. They started for home Saturday, but were snowed up, however, at Fredericton Junction for 26 hours, with a large party, among whom, was the Metropolitan, and did not reach home until Monday evening.

Mr. John Penny, through his agents, J. A. & W. VanWarl, desires to acknowledge his thanks to the Liverpool, London and Globe and London and Lancashire Insurance Companies, who through their Agent, Frank I. Morrison, so promptly paid his insurance claims, amounting to $3,800, on "Brayley House," paymeet being made immediately on proofs being filed.

If is proposed to bring a party of twenty or thirty boys and girls from the "Childrens Emigration Home," at Birmingham, England to Fredericton, early in June next. Mrs. Maunsell will be happy to receive the names of applicants for children, and to supply information concerning them. The homes preferred for these children, are those of farmers. Address Mrs. Maunsell, "The Barracks."

The snow blocade last week completely disorganized the railway and mail service. Only one mail arrived here from Wednesday night till Sunday. There has been no Upper Canadirn mail for a week, but one is expected today. The storm throughout the Maritime Provinces was the severest experienced for many years, and many of the railways are still unopen. It was Wiggin's prophecy, and he has re-established his reputation.

During the heavy storm on Thursday, as the new engine of the Miramichi Valley road, attached to a train, was forcing its way through the piles of snow, near Cowperwaithe's, about 11 miles up the Nashwaak, it was precipitated over the embankment, a distance of some fifteen feet. The fireman of the engine escaped unhurt, but Mr. P. A. Logan, the driver, received some injuries about the back, but not of a serious nature.

THE UNIVERSITY OF N. B.

Some extracts from the President's Annual Report.

A Quotation Suggested by the Slipper Episode.

"It is well known," says President Jack in his annual report on the University of New Brunswick, laid before the Legislature the other day," that the students in every institution of learning, are naturally disposed to be clanish, and the esprit de corps thus engendered, is worthy of old commendation and encouragement, when directed to noble and honorable ends. But unfortunately, this strong bond of union and sympathy like other good things, is liable to be perverted, and have an outcome not contemplated, as it not unfrequently leads to class combinations, to resist authority, and weaken or subvert discipline. On this subject the remarks of an observant writer in the neighboring States are so pertinent that I may be excused for quoting the substance of them. He says:

"The code of honor which prevails in colleges, proclaims that it is the height of dishonorableness to be a party to the exposure or punishment of any College mate who has been guilty of violating College laws, and it is well known that the most conscientious Christians in College, are sometimes so unwilling to help the faculty in detecting rascality, that they will themselves undergo even expulsion, rather than betray their comrades.

The underlying assumption which prompts even the deserving and conscientious to such a course of conduct, is, that students in the same institution, stand by one another under all circumstances, that as against the faculty they are a unit; that the faculty on the one hand, and the students on the other, stand in a relation of hostility. No sober man, even though a College student, will deliberately avow it as his own in this unqualified form, though it really lies at the bottom of the whole of this code of honor which few are bold enough to disregard. The simple fact is, that the students come to college to avail themselves of the good offices of the Professors. They pledge themselves to observe the laws of the College. Their primary allegiance is to the authorities of the college. If anything like treason can be committed in College, it is committed by those who violate their pledges and engage in transgressing the regulations of the institution, whose privileges they are enjoying. No student puts himself under any special obligations to his fellow students. No such special obligations exist, except in the nebulous principle which floats in the College atmosphere, and is sedulously inculcated, especially by those who get any benefit from it, namely, the disorderly students.

ARE VIRTUALLY UNDER A PLEDGE, TO

It never seems to occur to the well meaning and conscientious students, that they are of the violators of law and order, and that the only practical result of the miscalled code of honor, is to made it easy for rascals to practice their rascality, and hard for the faculty to do the work entrusted to their charge. What is needed is, that all the really conscientious students, who desire that the College shall be kept rid of disgraceful conduct, shall avowedly, publicly, boldly and admittedly break loose from the code of honor, and give their fellow students to understand that the violators of law, and order cannot count upon them as virtual accomplices, but that on the contrary, when by their testimony and influence they can help the authorities in preserving order, and in bringing wickedness to light they will do it. Let this be done, and we shall see an end of these periodically recurring scrapes and woes. The Christian students, all students who respect themselves, and desire the reign of decency and order in College, have it in their power to do themselves real honor, by trampling underfoot, the principle by which they have been simply enslaved, and boldly avowing that in case of disorder, they are on the side of the law-enforcing faculty, and not on that of the lawbreaking students. Let us by all means have law and order associations in our Colleges."

CONTINENTAL BROILS.

The complications of Great Britain, France, Russia, Egypt and China.

A Collation of War Rumors.

The eighteen provinces of China contain 250,000,000 people.

Two hundred and fifty sick and wounded sailed from Suakin for England.

War preparations are going on with unabated vigor at Woolwich.

The British troops will make their summer camps further down the river from Korti.

The warlike preparations in India have evoked great enthusiasm among the natives.

Two hundred extra navvies are going to Suakin to hasten the construction of the railway to Berber.

Two swift British cruisers have been ordered to proceed at once to the Pacific Ocean to watch Russian vessels.

The London Post understands that all Russian officers on furlough have been ordered to rejoin their regiments.

The Government has ordered that all untrained soldiers be put though a complete musketry course forthwith.

A report is current that the British Admiralty has offered a tempting sum to Dom. Pedro for the Brazilian ironclad Esmeralda.

The loss of the Chinese in their defence of the positions around Kelung, which were besieged and captured by the French, was about 1,200.

Reports brought from Khartoum by trustworthy native spies state that the people of that city are famishing and are on the verge of starvation.

The Government has suspended for a year the discharges of soldiers eligible for the reserve force and also transfers from the army in India to the reserves.

There are 50,000 men in India ready for service at any moment. The military authorities are confident of their ability to repulse an attack on Herat without assistance from England.

Recruiting is in active progress in India to supply the reserves and make up for the drain caused by members of the reserve force being drafted into regiments for active service.

Mr. Gladstone announced in Parliament that Colonial offers of military assistance in the Soudan had been received from New South Wales, Canada, Victoria, South Australia and Queensland.

The Calcutta Government is going to send a battery of mountain guns, a battery of heavy artillery, and five thousand Snider rifles with 250 rounds of ammunition for each as a gift to the Ameer of Afghanistan.

General Wolsely has received $465,000 in reward for his military services. The bounty given him for the victory of Tel El Kebir was $150,000; for his Ashantee victories, $125,000, and for his Indian services, $190,000.

Orders have been sent to the arsenals at Bombay and Bengal to prepare all kinds of ammunition. The details for two army corps have been completed. Each will number 1,500 officers, 35,300 men and 11,800 horses.

Gen. Wolseley has ordered the evacuation of Korti. Cases of typhoid fever, dysentery and sunstroke are increasing among the troops. The heat is intense. The troops will proceed to entrenched lines at Debbeh, Aari and Dongola.

The Berlin Gazette says that Russia is devoting a large portion of recent loans towards improving her naval strength. Ten men-of-war are being constructed, five of them of the largest type of war ships: three are plated cruisers and two are torpedo rams.

It is reported at Calcutta, that orders were received from England on the 21st inst., to concentrate from 20,000 to 30,000 men at Quetta and Allahabad. Orders were also issued to mobilize two army corps aggregating 25,000 men with two strong divisions as a reserve.

It is intended to send 25,000 men to Pischen while the weather is cool; Gen. Roberts will have command, and the Duke of Connaught and Gen. MacPherson will act as divisional generals. There is great enthusiasm among the Sikhs and recruits are coming forward by hundreds.

Sir Thomas Brassey, in moving the navy estimates £13,000,000, which passed, said the total strength of the navy, including reserves and pensioners, was 86,000 men. The number on the active list was 57,000. In the event of war the Admiralty had other and immense resources in the merchant service.

A despatch from Hong Kong says that the French are unable to make a forward movement from Langson. The country around it devastated and there is the greatest difficulty in obtaining supplies. The Chinese constantly harass the French troops. It is reported that the French lost 900 men at Thupenquen, the Chinese have 5,000 reinforcements there.

Late advices from Massowah state that the rebels, who had been reinforced from Berber, attacked Kassala but were repulsed. The governor of Kassala states that he can hold out for some time, and will burn the town rather than submit of the rebels. It is supposed he has received a fresh supply of provisions.

The Mahdi's forces are mainly organized on the system of the early Caliphs, says an Arabic journal. Each company consists of ten "brotherhoods"—i. e., a band of ten men under the command of some senior in age, or of a private who has distinguished himself. Ten companies form a regiment, commanded by an emir and his lieutenants, every company flying its own linen flag with the Mahdi's device of two crossed swords, while each regimental flag differs in colour. Promotion goes by gallantry, and thus any brave private may in time become an emir. When the False Prophet leads in person, he is escorted by a staff of ten emirs, ten aides-de camp, and four mounted standard-bearers (bairakdars.)

THE BRITISH ADVANCE.

Fighting near Suakin.

The whole force started from Suakin, on the 19th inst., at 7 o'clock with a day's tations and five hundred rounds of ammunition to each man in the direction of Hasheen, when about five hundred of the enemy were seen on the hills. The mounted infantry and scouts, supported by the main body of all the corps, marching 600 yards behind, advanced to the base of a range of low hills near Hasheen. The Indian contingent and cavalry during this movement scouted and skirmished on both sides of the line of march along the entire front. The scouts on reaching the summit of the hills discovered the Arabs massed in the valley, they remaining in sight until the British advance reached the ridge of hills. The Hadendowah tribes of hostiles then rushed from ambush in which they had lain and made an attack, and succeeded in this rush in getting within ten yards of the British line before the latter opened a regular fire, which the enemy promptly replied to. Four of the infantry were killed, among them was Lieut. O'Connor whose horse had been shot from under him. The object of the reconnoisance having been attained, the British retired, the Arabs showing no disposition to follow.

Gen. Graham telegraphs from Hasheen on the 20th inst., as follows;—

We moved out from camp at 6.15 o'clock this morning, leaving the Shropshire regiment to guard it. On reaching the first hill, at 8.30 A. M., we found that the enemy had retired and occupied another hill a mile and a quarter distant, After a short halt the Berkshire and marines were ordered to clear the hill, the Indian contingent and guards supporting. This was done very effectually; the enemy being driven off the ridge and streaming south towards Tamai, were charged by squadrons of the Indian lancers in the bush. The cavalry then retired toward the guards. In the valley they were shelled by the Royal Horse Artillery, while other parties moving round our right were engaged in the bush by the Fifth Lancers. Meanwhile a zareba with four entrenched posts on a hill commanding it is being formed. The advanced troops have all returned to this position and will return to our camp, leaving the East Sussex Regiment with two Krupp guns and four Gardeners, and water tanks and signal appliances at the entrenched position. Our killed are two officers and two men of the British, and five Sepoys. The wounded are two officers and 26 men of the British and one officer and 10 men of the Indian contingent. The number of rebels is estimated at 4,000. The engagement lasted five hours. The Arabs carried off all their dead and wounded. To-days fighting was of a noticeably different character from that of any preceding engagement. The Arabs maintained a steady rifle fire, retiring slowly from each position held by them and avoiding close quarters.

Later particulars are to the following effect: At end of the engagement the Arabs retreated slowly towards Tamai. The Arab loss in killed and wounded is estimated at 600; the loss of the British, 40. The marines drove the Arabs from the hills and forced them to retire to the plains; then the Indian troops charged upon the Arab position, but were out-flanked, and an unsuspected body of Arabs succeeded in getting behind their line. The Indians found themselves between two fires and they fled. During this retreat they were closely pressed by Arabs who hamstrung the horses and speared the riders. The Bengalese fell back in confusion upon the English Infantry and the guards, who had been formed in a hollow square, leisurely retired, while the Arabs were yelling that they had regained their lost position. At this juncture the artillery came to the rescue, and a brisk fire of small shot from machine guns and shells from Krupp field mortars drove the Arabs from their position. The honors of the day are due to the Irish Lancers, who charged the line of battle by a desperate charge and retrieved the fortunes of Gen. Graham's command when they seemed almost hopeless. The British troops have returned to their former camp near Suakin.

The British advanced in a hollow square the guards on the right, infantry in front, Indian confingent on the left and cavalry scouting in front and on flanks. After seizing Col. Baker's old zarebra on the first hills the troops advanced though the pass, debouching upon a wide plain encircled by craggy hills of volcanic formation, and found the enemy on the hill to the left. Thunders of musketry then began; the enemy soon retired, some to the right, but the main body to the left, with the intention of cutting off the British rear. The Bengal cavalry started to checkmate this move, and a desperate fight ensued. The cavalry retired at 8 o'clock, greatly exhausted with their long engagement under the blazing sun.

Surprised by Arabs.

While detachments of the English and Indian infantry were making zareba, seven miles southwest of Suakin, on the morning of the 22nd inst., they were suddenly surprised by a rush of Arabs who had been concealed in defiles west of Hasheen. The English formed a square as quickly as possible, but the camels, mules and horses were driven back in confusion on the troops, causing a stampede and, amid clouds of dust, the Arabs penetrated the south and north sides of the square. Meanwhile the marines and Berkshire regiment, who were on the east and west sides of the square, maintained a continuous fire, holding the enemy at bay while a charge of cavalry and the fire from the guns of zareba checked the onslaught which, at the outset, threatened serious disaster to the British. The Arabs glided and crept in all directions among the animals. The Haddendowas swarmed from the bush like magic and attacked the zareba fiercely on all sides. Camels and mules were hamstrung by the Arabs and scores of camp followers cut up. The Indian troops held their own gallantly as soon as they were able to close the square again. The Hussars brought in the wounded though menaced by the Arabs' camel force. The desert is dotted in every direction with runaway animals. The enemy numbered 4,000. Their fanatical courage won great admiration. They rushed to what seemed certain death repeatedly without faltering. Hundreds of dead and wounded lay around the square. The enemy's loss must be fully 800 men. The British, especially the marines behaved admirably. Desperate sheikhs, waving their banners and with hordes of followers, charged the marines before they had been reformed, but were unable to penetrate their line. The sheikhs fought to the last gasp but lost their banner, which was captured by the marines. The English losses, as far as known, are 2 officers and 23 men killed and 33 wounded.

The following day the troops under Gen. McNeil left the zareba where the battle was fought and advanced about 11 miles toward Tamai, where they constructed another zareba the enemy making no opposition. It was found impossible to encamp near the battle fiel owing to the fetid emanations from the bodies of the enemy's dead and the carcases of camels and horses.

CARD.

I would take this opportunity of thanking my many friends, who have so kindly favored me with their insurance business, and would now intimate, that I have transferred the business to my nephew, Mr. Frank I. Morrison, who has been with me for a long time and solicit for him a continuance of the liberal support I have enjoyed so long.

As the Insurance Companies I have represented for so many years, signify their willingness to transfer their Agencies to Mr. Morrison, my friends may rely upon their business being placed in some of the best and largest British companies, that enjoy the confidence of business men everywhere.

Mill for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale, that property on the Nackawick Stream, known as the "PINDER MILL." It is in the Temperance Vale Settlement, lying between the River St. John and the N. B. Railway. The mill and machinery is nearly new, having been built in 1876. The water power is one of the finest in the Province. The powerful driving wheel is so arranged that it never freezes, which enables the Mill to run as easily in winter as in summer. The machinery comprises Rotary, Shingle, Clapboard, Lath and Planing Machines, well supplied with belting and all in good order. The buildings consists of Mill, one large and four small dwelling houses, Blacksmith shop, Granary, Carpenter shop and store, besides two large barns and various small buildings. Pure soft spring water is introduced into the large dwelling from a never failing spring only a few yards distant. The water is also conducted to the barn yard.

The farm contains about five hundred acres, a large portion of which is in a high state of cultivation. Sufficient lumber has been got out last winter for the 1884 seasons work. This is now ready for driving, and will be sold together with the above premises on easy terms. For further particulars, apply to
