Poetry.

MAN'S MISSION.

Human lives are silent teaching—
Be they earnest, mild, and true—
Noble deeds are noblest preaching
From the consecrated few.
Poet-priests their anthems singing,
Hero-sword on corslet ringing,
When Truth's banner is unfurled;
Youthful preachers, genius-gifted,
Pouring forth their souls uplifted,
'Till their preaching stirs the world.

Each must work as God has given,
Hero hand or poet soul—
Work is duty while we live in
This weird world of sin and dole.
Gentle spirits, lowly kneeling,
Lift their white hand up, appealing
To the thrones of Heaven's King—
Stronger natures culminating
In great actions incarnating
What another can but sing.

Pure and meek-eyed as an angel,
We must strive—must agonise;
We must preach the saints evangel
Ere we claim the saintly prize—
Work for all—for work is holy—
We fulfil our mission solely
When, like Heaven's arch above,
Blend our souls in one emblazon,
And the soul in diapason
Sounds the perfect chord of love.

Life is combat, life is striving,
Such our destiny below—
Like a scythed chariot driving.
Through an onward pressing foe.
Deepest sorrow, scorn, and trial,
Will but teach us self-denial;
Like the Alchymists of old.
Pass the ore through cleansing fire.
If our spirits would aspire
To be God's refined gold.

We are struggling in the morning
With the spirit of the night,
But we trample on it scorning—
Lo! the eastern sky is bright,
We must watch. The day is breaking;
Soon, like Memnon's statue waking
With the sunrise into sound,
We shall raise our voice to Heaven,
Chant a hymn for conquest given,
Seize the palm nor heed the wound.

We must bend our thoughts to earnest,
Would we strike the idols down;
With the purpose of the sternest,
Take the Cross and leave the Crown.
Sufferings human life can hallow,
Sufferings lean to God's Valhalla—
Meekly bear, but humbly try,
Like a man with soft tears flowing,
Like a god with conquest flowing,
So to love, and work, and die.

Mary Kelly's Letter to Her Teacher in London.

Mary Kelly was an ignorant, neglected, ragged little Irish girl. She was playing idly in the streets of London one Lord's-day afternoon, when she was accosted by a lady, who kindly and earnestly invited her to accompany her to the Ragged School. The child rudely refused, but the lady would take no denial, and at last prevailed.

The girl continued to attend, but seemed to have no desire to learn, and only came with the perverse determination to disturb the school, and give as much trouble as possible.

This state of things continued for two whole years, when Mary's parents removed to Ireland, taking her with them. She parted from her friends at the school with the same apparent hardness that had characterized all her previous conduct. Her kind teacher took leave of her with the greatest kindness and tenderness, giving her all the good advice in her power; never expecting to hear of her again. However, to her surprise and delight, after an interval of five years, she received from her old scholar the following letter:—

"My Dear Teacher,—It is five years since you met me in Gloster Street, and invited me to go with you to Jurston Street Sunday-school. At the first I was not willing to go, but you would not go without me. You said, Come for once; and so I went with you. You may remember what a monster I was, caring for nothing. Surely you must have wondered what could induce me to come so regular. I do not know myself, unless it was to disturb the school; for as soon as I came into the class, there could be no more order. In vain did you beg of me to attend to the instruction; my heart was as hard as a stone, and as cold as ice, yet nothing could have kept me from coming. Sometimes I have been afraid to look at you, for some of the girls used to say if I did go on so, they were sure you would not come again. But, blessed be God, you were always there, so that I never had any other teacher. During the two years that I was in the school, no change whatever took place in my character; my conduct was shameful. I do not know how you could have borne with me with so much patience.

"At the end of two years, my parents were obliged to return to Ireland. O, my dear friend, never shall I forget that night, when I told you I was not coming again. How affectionately you talked to me! If I had been one of the most attentive scholars in your class, you could not have been more kind to me. You marked some chapters in my Bible, and begged of me to read them when I could not come to school; and when you bade me farewell, it was the first time in my life that I felt any real sorrow for my past sin. I thought I would give all the world if I could but stop one month longer with you.

"In the course of the week we left London, and I could not rest day or night: I could think of no one else but you. One day I thought I would make away with myself. Hell appeared open to receive me! Just as I was going to take some poison that I had prepared, I thought I heard you call me, and say, "Where is your Bible?" I laid down the poison, and got my Bible; and the first place that I opened, where you marked, was John iii. 16—'God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.' Although I had so often heard that passage before, it now appeared as if it were the first time; I turned to some other place that was marked, and I saw before me, 'This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief.' This appeared just my case. I kneeled down, and prayed to God for the first time in my life. I was much comforted. I threw the poison away, and from that time I found mercy and was able to call God 'Abba, Father.' "'I suffered much persecution from my friends; but, blessed be God, He helped me through it. I knew what a sinner I had been—therefore could pity and pray for them. I had once nearly lost my Bible. The priest, having learned that I had one, came and demanded it; I said that I would part with my life first. He said it would be worse for me if I did not give it to him. At last I thought I would bury it. One night, after all were safe in bed, I got up, took my Bible, went down the yard, dug a hole, and after committing my best companion to the Lord, laid it in the grave and covered it up; so that no one could find it. For three weeks, I went every night for two hours to read it, being the only time I dared look at it. At length I heard that a lady wanted a servant. I went to see her. She told me I might come as soon as I liked. I got my Bible, and went at once. She was a member of a Protestant church. This was a mercy indeed for me. Three months after I became a member of the church to which she belonged. I am still in the same place, and a good place it is. "I must also tell you that my father and mother come to the same place of worship, and I believe them to be Christians. Their home, that used to be like a little hell, is now like heaven. It would do you good to see my father surrounded with fifty or sixty poor men and women, holding a prayer-meeting on Sunday evenings, some coming four or five miles, and some six miles; never forgetting to pour out their prayers for a blessing on Jurston Street Sunday-school. "A few days ago, a friend said to my father, 'You will never forget that school.' "'Forget! oh no, never, till my God forgets to be gracious.' "Please to give this 2s. 6d. to the Bible Society as a small, but sincere token of my love to my Bible, which is as dear to me as my life is.

"Pray remember me with many thanks to Mr. Clark and Mr. Williams, and all the friends of Jurston Street School. You will wonder how I should know where where to send to you. My brother has been living in London till a few weeks since. I begged of him to go to the school and find you out. He went and watched you home, and then took the direction down, and brought it with him; and I determined to write as soon as I had an opportunity. The lady who carries this has come to London on her way to America; she will tell you anything about me that you wish to know. She is a friend of my mistress. Now, my beloved friend, I must bid you farewell. God bless you for ever and for ever, is the prayer of yours sincerely. Mary Kelly."

"Ireland."

This touching and simple narrative may well encourage all who are labouring to bring sinners to Christ, and especially Sunday School teachers; seeing that God is thus able to make the seed grow up after many days, and to bring forth an hundred fold. It should also encourage the young, however bad, to come to Jesus. You cannot be too bad to come to be forgiven, to be accepted. It is hardly possible for any one to be more desperate and hardened than Mary Kelly was, and yet we see how she was brought to Jesus, how she walked with him, and how her conversion was blessed to her relations and neighbours.

Dear reader, turn to Jesus now, and you may be as greatly blessed as Mary Kelly was.

Twelve Questions for a Wet Sunday.

1. If it were any other day, would I be kept at home by the weather?

2. Did I ever stay away from my business, from a party, from an amusement, for such a rain or snow as this?

3. If it were a public meeting for some other purpose than Divine worship, would I think it too bad a day to go out?

4. Would I go to church if I could make of save a dollar by it, or gain a customer?

5. If my own church be distant, is there none that is near where I may be sure of finding a vacant seat to-day?

6. If I am afraid of spoiling my best clothes, had I not better go in common dress, than lose the benefit of the meeting, and neglect of duty?

7. Have I not overcoat, overshoes, and umbrella, that will keep me from taking cold, and preserve my Sunday dress from injury?

8. Am I not nearer to the church than many who are never kept away by bad weather?

9. If every one should find an excuse for absence as easily as I do, what would be the appearance of our churches on the Lord's day?

10. Is it not dishonor to my Maker; if for reasons that would not influence me in worldly matters, I keep from the united worship of the sanctuary?

11. Is not a wet Sunday at home a more dreary day than one that is diversified by going out to church?

12. Am I willing that my children should learn by my example that they may go to school, to market, to store, to shows, in all weather—but not to church?—Presbyterian.

Conversation.

The following conversation, says the Christian Intelligencer, took place on a steamboat between a pious Presbyterian minister and an elder in a country church:—

Minister—What is the state of your church?

Elder—Very discouraging. We are without a pastor. Our people take very little interest in the church.

M.—How long have you been without a pastor?

E.—More than a year.

M.—Are you an elder in that church?

E.—Yes, sir.

M.—How is your Sabbath School getting along?

E.—We have no Sabbath School. The teachers did not attend punctually, the children got tired, and the school was broken up.

M.—(Sighing)—Did you say that you are an elder in that church?

E.—Yes, sir!

M.—Why, how are your prayer meeting attended?

E.—Very poorly; few attend, we have them but seldom, and there is no interest in them.

M.—(Sighing very heavily)—Oh! oh! Did you say that you are an elder in that church?

E.—Yes, sir!

M.—Well! Why I wonder that you are alive! I wonder that God has not killed you!

The sequel of the story is that the elder went home "with a load on his conscience, and it was not long before his poor church had a minister, Sabbath-School, Prayer-meeting, and prosperity." We hope that this incident will be pondered by some Class-leaders in the United Brethren Church. —Religious Telescope.

LEFT BY THE TRAIN.

See that man who is just too late, or the other who was setting quietly at his breakfast when he heard the departing signal. Neither can believe he is in fault. Oh, no! his watch is right. The conductor hurried the train; the agent's watch is out of order. He feels as if there had been a conspiracy to delude and vex him. He is positively fretted; he blames every body except himself, and he only is to blame. Good humor may be restored, as he reflects,—"It cannot be helped, I must take the next train;" but very great and permanent evils may result. He has learned a lesson, and will be in time to-morrow. Let us moralize on this very usal event.

1. There has been error. His watch was wrong after all. He did not take care to set it by the true standard. Men fail of success because they adopt wrong principles. They fail to become people of God, because they will not consult his standard. They blame the bible, the church, the ministry; any thing, any body, every thing, every body, rather than self.

2. Our sincere belief that we are right will not save us. God has a certain fixed, and immutable, and holy law. If we follow its teachings, we shall be safe; but if we follow our own notions, he makes no provision for our faults; we are left to suffer.

3. There are favoured times for obtaining God's favour. When the Spirit strives and calls, and the word is sinking into our hearts, in the accepted time and the day of salvation, we should be ready. While we are tarrying and halting, the hour may pass. We flatter ourselves that our time will answer,—that we shall not be too late; and ere we are aware, the accepted hour may pass away unimproved, and when we call he will not answer.

4. And here the illustration fails. There will be no other train for the finally impenitent. The negligent traveller can go to-morrow; but, alas for the negligent sinner! his to-morrow may never come. Then,

While God invites, how blest the day,
How sweet the gospel's charming sound!
Come, sinner, haste! O haste away,
While yet a pard'ning God is found.

☞ PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTH AMERICA.—HEALTH AND PEACE BE MULTIPLIED.—There is no doubt as to the certainty of the cures performed by Dr. LEAY'S ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE and advice, in the following complaints:—Consumption cured if in any reasonable time, before the Lungs become disorganized; Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilious and Liver complaints; cure is warranted, provided the advice given is strictly complied with. The following testimonials ought to convince the most prejudiced of the value and efficacy of the ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE. I shall here insert a few names of the many certificates in my possession: Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. John Crawford, Mr. George Dunham, residence Indian Town. These persons were afflicted with Dyspepsia—Mrs. Jones, for several years, her case being despaired of, the Anglo-Saxon Medicine and advice completed a cure in each case. Mrs. Jane Sime, and Mr. John Walsh, of Straight Shore, afflicted with Dyspepsia and Liver complaint, have been restored to good health by the use of a few bottles of the Anglo-Saxon Medicine and advice. The following persons from Carleton—Mr. James Dunham, consumption, Mrs. David Thomas, seven years with Dyspepsia, which terminated in consumption; Mrs. John Baker; dyspepsia and inflammation of the lungs; Mr. Edward Watters, confined to his bed for eight weeks with inward ulcers. These persons, by the use of the Anglo-Saxon Medicine, and advice, have been restored to good health. Mrs. Henry Evans, of this City, dyspepsia and inflammation of the lungs; Mr. William Sim, of Edinburgh, Scotland—complaint, dyspepsia—had the best medical aid in that city, but to no effect; emigrated to Canada, in hopes of being benefited from the climate; consulted with physicians in Montreal, but no lasting benefit from their skill; removed to this City; tried all the remedies recommended for that distressing complaint, but, alas, his case was desperate, until he happened to alight on my advertisement in the Morning Courier. He gave the Anglo-Saxon Medicine a trial, and it has restored him to good health. Now fellow-citizens, and subjects of North America, I am willing you should exercise your own judgment; try all the good medicines in the market; if they should fail, please give my medicine a trial as a last resource.

Hundreds in this City and its environs can testify with heartfelt thankfulness the benefits from the ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE. This day, March 15th, a gentleman from Greenwich, King's County, Mr. William Lawson informed me of a wonderful cure performed on a young woman Miss Ann Elson, who had for a year a scrofula complaint in her ankle—Astonishing to relate, half a vial of the Albion Liniment effected a cure. The Liniment and Anti-Cholera Medicine did not fail in one instance during the Cholera of 1834.

These Medicines I am prepared to warrant to cure the following complaints: Erysipelas, Canker Sores, Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Painful Nervous Headache, Bites of Animals, Frost Bites or Chilblains, Sprains and Strains, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Burns, Contraction of the Muscles, Flesh Wounds, no matter how severe, will heal in forty eight hours; Inflammations of all kinds, whether of the Bowels or from wounds; Sore Throat, Colds, Pains in all parts of the body, Worm Fits in Children, rubbed in on the chest and bowels; White Swelling, King's Evil, Scurvy, Itch, all kinds of Sores and Ulcers. The mystery that attends this Liniment is daily coming to light from all parts of the country where it has been introduced.

Office, removed to No. 77 Princess street.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.—The Greatest of the Age.—MR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds, a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOR, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases and never failed except in two. He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two or three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.

Two or three bottles warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three or four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the very worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed, growing in the pastures, and along old stone walls should cure humor in the system; yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it has to start. There are no ifs nor ands about it, suiting some cases, but not yours. He has peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston, and knows the effects of it in every case. It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. He gave it to children a year old; to old people of sixty; and has seen poor, puny looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to perfect state of health by one bottle.

To those who are subject to a sick headache one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief in catarrh and dizziness. Some who have taken it have been costive for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound, it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings, but you must not be alarmed—they always disappear in from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it—on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you will feel yourself like a new person. I heard some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man listened to.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can, and enough of it.
