UNDER FIVE FLAGS.

It Takes That Many to Run Small But Turbulent Crete.

To the southward, its green clad, snow capped mountains rising from a turquoise sea, lay Crete, the island of mythology and massacre. It was a picture of sunshine and animation of vivid colors and strange peoples such as one seldom sees except in some gorgeously staged comic opera.

But even as this was in my mind, says a writer in The Travel Magazine, a gun boomed out from a crumbling bastion, and five little balls ran up five flagstaffs standing in a row on the uppermost ramparts and broke out into five flags.

The morning breeze caught up their folds and held them straight out, as though for our benefit, so that we could make them out quite plainly. Four of them were old friends that I had encountered on all of the seven seas—the union jack and the tricolor and the St. Andrew's cross of Russia and the red, white and green banner of Italy—but the fifth flag, which flew somewhat higher than the others, was of unfamiliar design. The single blood red square, however, bounded by the Greek cross and bearing the gleaming star of Bethlehem, told its own story, and I knew it for the flag of Crete.

I knew that there was deep significance in the design of that unknown flag and in the position of the four familiar ones that flew below it, for they signaled to all the world that the Turk had been driven out, never to return; that Christianity had triumphed over Mohammedanism and that the cross had indeed replaced the crescent; that the centuries of massacre were now but memories; that peace in the guise of foreign soldiery had, for a time at least, found an abiding place in Crete, and, most significant of all, that the strange flag with the single star would be upheld if necessary by the mightiest array of bayonets and battleships in all Christendom.

Canea, which is the seat of Government, is the most picturesquely cosmopolitan spot west of Suez. It is equidistant from the shores of Europe, Asia and Africa, it has a mild and equable climate, living is cheap, there is a large garrison of foreign soldiery, there are no extradition treaties in force, and trouble of one kind and another is always brewing.

Like a magnet, therefore, Canea has attracted the scum and off-scouring of all the Levant—needy soldiers of fortune, professional revolution makers, smooth spoken gamblers and confidence men, Egyptian donkey boys, out at elbows; dragomans who speak a score of tongues and hail from no one knows where—all that rabble of the needy, the adventurous and the desperate who follow the armies of occupation and are always to be found on the fringe of civilization.

Fighting Seabirds.

The penguin, a notable diver among seabirds, wins his mate by right of conquest, the male birds fighting for the possession of the females. These curious birds have regular duel grounds, where relics of innumerable combats, in the shape of feathers, lie scattered about. In the centre is the fighting arena, clear of all debris. The penguin's feathers and blubber form an efficient shield against their opponents' beaks, so the weapon used is the short flipper, the only wings the birds possess.

The fight begins with the two combatants walking solmenly round each other, waiting for an opportunity to grip. Once this is done the flippers come into play and the fighters shower blow after blow upon each other. There is no record as to how these fights end, but it is a safe supposition to say that they are seldom fatal. The force of the blow from a penguin's flipper is such that three or four of them will draw blood from the human hand.

Giving Away £5 Notes.

Lord Petre, who died in London a few days ago, was known as "Mr. Petre" in the neighborhood in North London in which he had lived for some time in quiet, modest apartments. His death ended a romantic and curious career. He married a famous American hostess in London twenty years ago, but later on renounced society and severed himself from all his friends, spending a roving life in England and America. It was only about a fortnight before his death that the real identity of "Mr. Petre" was discovered by the people of the house in which he lived, through a letter arriving by post addressed to Lord Petre. One of the late peer's eccentricities consisted of extravagant acts of generosity. It was no uncommon thing for him to stop his car at sight of a poor woman with a baby selling matches in the gutter, astonish her with a present of a £5 note, and drive away without waiting to be thanked.

CONDEMNS MASONRY

Archbishop Bruchesi Regrets Growth of Secret Orders.

OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH

Roman Catholic Prelate Warns His Congregation Against Joining Masons, Oddfellows and Knights of Pythias—Are Enemies of Catholic Church, He Says—Amusements on the Sabbath Day.

Montreal, May 25.—Archbishop Bruchesi, in the course of a pastoral charge delivered at Longueuil yesterday, referred to the growth of several Masonic lodges in the province. He regretted to say there were French-Canadians who were members, and that recruiting was going on. The archbishop reminded his hearers that the consequence was the members of lodges who were mostly affiliated with the Grand Orient of France were not in communion with the Catholic Church.

Unfavorable reference was likewise made to the Knights of Pythias and the Oddfellows from a Catholic point of view. The archbishop, referring to Sunday's service, said he noticed on his visit a falling off from the former observance of he Lord's Day, it being now more and more a man's day for pleasure and amusement.

Arrested For Smuggling.

Sarnia, May 25.—Jacob Dolgoff was arrested at the tunnel charged with trying to smuggle silk goods into Canada. The customs collector believes he is one of a number of foreigners who carried on a systematic scheme of smuggling along the border from the States into Canada. Immediately after Dolgoff's arrest a man giving his name as Purdee offered bail to any amount, which the magistrate refused.

Percy Dolgoff of Toronto, a brother of the man arrested, will undertake to produce invoices to show that the goods seized had been regularly passed through the customs at Toronto.

Tot Loses Leg Under Car.

St. Catharines, May 25.—At Merritton Saturday afternoon Marie, the six-year-old daughter of Wm. Bradley, was run over by a trolley car and sustained injuries, which resulted in the amputation of the left leg below the knee and the three middle toes of the right foot. The child had been spending the day with her grandmother and had been to a candy store.

St. John's, Nfld., Harbor Is Open.

St. John's, Nfld., May 25.—The ice blockade, which has shut the entrance to the harbor for the last week, was raised Saturday. Two vessels reached port. One of them, the steam tug J. B. Gravel, from Glasgow for Montreal, was somewhat damaged, was short of coal and was leaking.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

SINGING EVANGELIST CURED BY ZAM-BUK.

Wife also reaps Benefit

Mrs. Birdie Ellis Johnston, of 168 Christina Street, Sarnia, Ont., gives the following testimony of what Zam-Buk has done for herself and her husband:

"Some time ago my husband was touring through Michigan on the car, "Herald of Hope," as a singing evangelist. The minister in the car had a son, who in some manner contracted a serious skin disease, and my husband unaware of it, caught this from him. He was all broken out in sores, which gave great pain, and he tried first one remedy and then another, but none of them did him any good.

"When all else had failed, we finally decided to try Zam-Buk, and see if this balm would succeed in healing the sores and stopping the itching and irritation. I am pleased to say that a few applications of Zam-Buk effected a complete cure.

"About the same time sores also broke out all over my back, and spread rapidly, until my back seemed one big sore! This was very painful, and as Zam-Buk had proved so beneficial for my husband, I determined to give it another trial. My nurse rubbed my back well with Zam-Buk. We continued with this treatment, and in a remarkably short time, considering the seriousness of the case, my back was quite cleared of the awful sores.

"On still another occasion I had need to use Zam-Buk. While cooking something on the stove, I happened to burn my finger very badly. I applied Zam-Buk, and bound up the finger. In the morning the pain had ceased, and the burn healed nicely."

For burns, bruises, eczema, ringworm, blood-diseases, and all kinds of eruptions, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, scratches, ulcers, piles, salt rheum, prairie itch, etc. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

His Wealth for Poor.

London, May 25.—Rev. Edward Lee Hicks, canon the Church of England, popular clerical figure in Lincoln Cathedral, has developed astonishing socialistic tendencies. Addressing a labor meeting he said:

"As a follower of one who had not where to lay His head, I have to consider how far I am justified in living on the unearned increment from the wealth I happen to have inherited. It is a hard problem, but I intend to face it."

It is understood that Canon Hicks intends to surrender the whole of the income from his private fortune. He has arranged to sell his automobile and part with his carriage and he will live entirely on his salary. His private means he will devote to the alleviation of suffering and want.

Would Depose Gouin.

Montreal, May 25.—There is a story going the rounds that at a recent caucus of Government supporters, or at least a good number of them, at Quebec, a resolutions was adopted asking the Prime Minister to retire.

It is also stated that Sir Henri Taschereau, Chief Justice of the Superior Court, has expressed a strong desire to retire, and should his wish be granted, Sir Lomer Gouin will be appointed in his place. The leadership of the Quebec Liberals would then likely go to Hon. Mr. Taschereau, who was assaulted by Oliver Asselin a few nights ago.

Rubber Interests Merged.

Montreal, May 25.—The American Rubber Co. has secured a substantial interest in the Canadian Consolidated Co., but the control remains as before, in the hands of D. Lorne McGibbon and his associates.

It is understood that there is no foundation for the rumors to the effect that S. H. C. Miner would join hands with the Consolidated interests. Mr. Miner is applying for a charter, and is about to begin work in rubber plant alongside his large rubber footwear plant at Granby.

Woman Accidentally Shot.

Windsor, May 25.—Mrs. John Atkinson, who, previous to her marriage, resided in London, was accidentally shot and killed at the home of her husband in Flint, Mich., on Saturday morning.

An ancient shotgun, in the hands a neighbor, was discharged, the whole charge penetrating Mrs. Atkinson's body.

Atkinson was nearly crazed, and had to be forcibly restrained from doing himself violence.

Should Seek the Sinner.

Denver, Col., May 25.—Less "stately treating," and more democracy; less lounging in the luxury of the church waiting for the sinner to approach, and more evangelism among the lowly, were the keynotes sounded at the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church. The leader in advocacy of this doctrine was John Convers, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee on evangelistic work.

Priests Capture Thieves.

Chicago, May 25.—Two thieves, while stealing golden candelabra from the altar of Holy Angels' Roman Catholic Church were captured by two priests who beat the thieves into insensibility.

THE GOLDEN BRIDE OF 1909.

The Wonderful Shower of Golden Gifts at a Baltimore Wedding.

New York, May 21.—Every year American society produces some "Golden Bride." This year the Golden Bride has been won by a New Yorker, T. Suffern Tailer. She was Miss Harriet Stewart Brown, eldest daughter of General Alexander Brown, of Baltimore, one of the most brilliant and beautiful women in that city. General Brown, her father, is the head of the banking firm of Alexander Brown & Son. Mr. Tailer was divorced from his first wife, Maude Lorrillard, who is now Mrs. Cecil Baring.

Miss Brown made an exceptionally handsome bride, for, to her matchless complexion and perfectly chiseled features, were added a tall and exquisitely proportioned figure.

Never was a bride so showered with gifts as Mrs. Tailer. There were 450 gifts in the great hall when the family stopped counting, and even then a variety of more than magnificent gifts had to remain outside—an instance, the imposing residence at 21 West Fifty-first street, in New York city, presented to her by the groom.

Then there was the check her banker father gave her—said by some to have been for $100,000 and by others for $500,000—which could not very well figure among the exhibits. And the $11,000 automobile, presented by Oscar G. Murray, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—it could only come as far as the curb. As for the other automobile given her, an electric car, the gift of New York friends, it remained in Baltimore. In the rose-colored damask drawing room her father's magic wealth was able to install a special pipe organ for the occasion of her wedding, and an alter and chancel, and every other detail requisite to transform it into an impromptu church.

The bride wore a chain of diamonds two yards long, composed of 250 flawless gems, which were presented to her by the Peabody-Kidder Banking Company, of New York, he bridegroom's business associates.

To take its place, when occasion serves, there was a rope af splendid pearls, with diamond clasps, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Huhn, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Her prospective husband had merely done the solid, substantial thing when he gave her the mansion in New York City; he did the more gallant, bridegroom office in presenting her with several diamond ornaments, every one of which, when it was worn, should remind her of the donor.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Tailer, helped her father insure her against want when they gave her a check, in addition to his, that called for $100,000. They also gave her heaps of fur rugs, there were tiger, polar, grizzly and cinnamon bear and lion skins, all mounted with the heads, while minor rugs, such as leopard and jaguar, came from other acquaintances in number sufficient to make an Indian prince chafe in rivalry.

Incidentally to her marriage with Mr. Tailer the bride acquired a son, his by his former marriage; and the taste of the rising generation fixed upon a phonograph equipped with multitudinous records.

Of gold there was more than plenty; sets of gold plates, gold spoons, gold desk furnishings, gold trifles, such as wrist bags, a gold loving cup, a gold umbrella handle, gold and porphyry lamps, a gold coffee set.

Of silver there was almost an avalanche. Silver services of various kinds, silver salvers and silver platters, silver compotes, silver candlesticks, silver dinner dishes, silver baskets, silver boxes, silver trays antique silver pieces, a case of flat silver containing thirty dozen pieces of the old Mayflower pattern—it was as though examples of all the silver in the world had been assembled to make this particular bride certain that no emergency or occasion could arise that would find her lacking in equipment for a setting of silver appropriate to it.

If her social activities in New York should bear out the promise of her activity in Baltimore society, the new Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer is likely to find use for every bit of silver, gold and pearls and diamonds that has fallen to her lot.

A DANGEROUS DISEASE.

Owing to its tendency to spread to all parts of the system, Catarrh should be checked in its incipient stages!

Catarrh commences generally with a slight cold, and because slight, it is often neglected. But the seed that has been sown brings forth a dangerous harvest—perhaps it is the harvest of consumption, which is the harvest of death.

Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic, antiseptic remedy that is breathed in through the mouth, and, after permeating all the respiratory organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical—so prompt and efficient. Relief is instantaneous, throat and nose cleared in a few moments by the penetrating vapor from the Inhalor. Ferrozone, taken in conjunction with Catarrhozone, purifies the blood, cleanses it of all poisons, and builds up the system so that Catarrh cannot exist.

You are sure to receive lasting benefit from Catarrhozone if bothered by Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung Trouble, and used for Colds in the head it has no equal.

Remember that Catarrhozone is both a local and constitutional treatment, and is warranted under all circumstances to give satisfaction. Money refunded if it fails.

Two months' treatment, consisting of a beautiful polished hard rubber Inhaler and large bottle of liquid for recharging, together with a box of Ferrozone tablets costs but $1; trial size, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it today.

THE FOUR D'S.

Charles Spurgeon once said that there were three great enemies to man—"dirt, debt and the devil." He might have added one more d and included dyspepsia. The evil results of this disease could hardly be exaggerated. It's effects are felt in mind and body, and are so far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the Jackdaw of Rheims which was cursed in "eating and drinking and sleeping, in standing and sitting and lying." The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most marked in aggravated and chronic cases of dyspepsia. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quantity of digestive fluids, and this at once removes that craving or knawing sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the torpid liver and gives the blood-making glands keen assimilative power. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures ninety-eight per cent. of those who use it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are superior to all other laxative medicines when the bowels are obstructed.
