Women seldom tease men they do not love.

It takes a master-stroke to smooth down a rebellious schoolboy.

Not necessarily after a bird—the man who goes out for a lark.

It stands to reason that ocean grayhounds are not ordinary barks.

Women never stutter. When they want to they can say "yes" without a stammer.

Any person can get there, but the question is what is he going to do after he arrives.

It is a wise child that goes out of the room when the old man smashes his thumb.

Sober reflections are liable to be accompanied by great thirst and a hat two sizes too small.

When man pictures a heaven for himself he always has his own mansion right in the center of it.

A boy's investment in green apples makes him understand what it is to be cramped for money.

Young housekeeper: "Have you some fine salt?" Grocer: "Yes, ma'am." Young housekeeper: "Is it fresh?"

It is a terrible wrench to one's confidence in human nature when your family physician says he's sorry to find you ill.

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—Prince Peter of Coburg, grandson of Dom Pedro, late Emberor of Brazil, suddenly went crazy Monday.

It has not yet occurred to the dictionary-makers to classify "phonograph" as a feminine noun, simply because it talks back.

"Ah, she murmured, as her father hustled two would-be visitors from the front door, "I think I hear the rustling of the leaves."

Possibly the future politician's earliest impulse to smash the slate is when as a boy he has to go back to school after vacation.

Helen: "If papa doesn't like George why is he so cordial?" Tom: "He says it's such a saving of the gas for him to visit often."

Walking is said to be the best exercise for brain workers, and it is worthy of note that brain workers can seldom afford to do anything else

"Why is it that they call the summer trips, outings?" "I don't know, unless those who take them usually find themselves so much out."

"Jim's" occupation in the penitentiary is painting buckets. He handles the brush familiarly and acts as if he had been at the painting business before.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—In the case of Charles Loughe, Edward and John Stewart, christian scientists charged with the manslaughter of Robert J. McCausland who died under their treatment, the Judge ordered the jury to acquit the prisoners on the ground that McCausland insisted on receiving their treatment.

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—A number of men, all more or less intoxicated, were scuffling together in Sherbrooke, when Francis Xavier Caya, a farmer of Compton, was thrown to the ground by Joseph Frapeid. He struck on the back of his head and never spoke afterwards. The coroner's jury returned verdict accidental death.

F. A. DYKEMAN, Commercial Traveller, St. John: "I have been troubled with dyspepsia and billious attacks for some time and have tried many things for relief. Five doses of your K. D. C have done more for me than all other medicines I have tried. My mother has been a sufferer for twenty years. I procured for her some of your K. D. C. and after taking only a small quantity she enjoys better health than she has had for many years."

A correspondent to the Chronicle in Russia says that human sacrifices are still perpetrated by some of the pagan tribes nominally under Russian rule, and he describes the horrors of the annual sacrifices to the god of their tribe by the Tartars of the Malmurck district. A peasant was recently hanged by his feet to a tree and his head half severed from his body. The breast was then cut open and the heart was plucked out, with which the face of the god was rubbed.

It does not speak well for the constitated authorities of New Brunswick that the reign of terror which has resulted in the destruction of Buctouche should have existed so long. The vicinity, it seems, has been in the hands of a set of lawless scamps who plundered, robbed, and it is said, even murdered indiscriminately. Law-abiding citizens were powerless, and the law gave them no protection. For plunder the town was deliberately burned, and the fire bugs openly carried off whatever valuables they could lay their hands on.—Fredericton Gleaner.

Where are all the farm implements used during the past summer? On too many farms they are where last used, or if not there, drawn up in front of house or barn, exposed to all kinds weather. This explains why more farm impliments rust out than wear out, and as they cost money it is practically the same as leaving money exposed to thieves Rust is a more expert thief of metals than are the ordinary thieves of other property; but he may be kept from deprecating by putting tools under shelter, and with their iron parts covered with tallow or other animal grease.
