These pictures were of widely divers topics and furnished both education and amusement to crowds on each night. It is already getting to be a habit and many await the coming of Wednesday and Saturday evening, in pleasant anticipation of a treat. We only hope that the management makes them better each night and success will follow as a natural result.

Government highway trespass notices adorn many of our telephone poles now, and many of the automobile owners feel that they have a grievance, in that they are obliged to keep off the roads while loaded vans of all sorts go about unscathed at their pleasure. All are genuinely hoping that the dust may soon fly.

William Gartley has sold his property in Centreville south to Stanley Pryor and is busily looking at farms for sale over the American border. On Sunday, April 2, our Primitive Baptist pulpit was filled by Rev. A. Hatfield. His text was taken from Isaiah 6: 1, and some of the congregation took great interest as the same subject was printed in one of our Canadian papers not many days ago, but being handled in the talented manner that we received has caused some thought and given rise to the chief topic of discussion among the listeners.
