POETRY.

"I STILL LIVE."

THE LAST WORDS OF HON. DANIEL WEBSTER.

"Still I live!" The leaves were falling
Round the mansion where he lay;
And A mournful voices calling
Waved the summer's pride away;
While the moaning sunset of ocean
In its greatest beauty run
Breaking with a ceaseless motion
Like the fleeting hope of man.

"Still I live!" O strong and glorious
Were those prophet words of cheer;
For whether, in truth victorious,
Greatness hath its worship here,
Fame never its high ovation,
Humanity its lofty birth,
He shall win from every nation
An undying name on earth.

"Still I live!" The flesh was failing,
All in vain the mortal's skill;
Light in that deep eye was paling
And the mighty heart grew still.
Yet the soul, in God adoring,
Clad in arcana fire and bright,
O'er the body's ruin soaring,
Mingled with the infinite

Where no sleeps, that mists of glory,
Mankind's mourning shades can say;
And his sceptre of mighty story
Darkened on that funeral day;
But the love that deep hearts bated
Caught such balm as heaven can give;
For an angel's pinion glistened,
At the echo—"Still I live!"

In Babylon my first was made,
By such as idole dumb create;
And worship to me being paid,

POISONED BY EATING A WORM.—QUICK DEATH.—A small boy was poisoned to death in Munson, last week by eating a part of a worm in an apple, dropped it, and complained it did not taste good. In a short time his mouth began to swell, and in two hours he was dead. His parents picked up the apple, and upon examination, found in it a worm, known in common parlance, as the thousand-legged worm. We did not learn the name of the boy.—(Clarion (Co.) Democrat.

THE GREAT REMEDY.

Sharp's Balsam of Hoarhound and Aniseed.

An never failing cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Shortness of Breath, &c.

The extraordinary celebrity which this simple, pleasing, and effectual medicine has attained, may be seen by the following proofs, or certificates, all from persons well known:—

Mr. J. G. Sharp—

Since you appointed me agent for the sale of your valuable Balsam of Hoarhound and Aniseed, I have been repeatedly informed by those who have used it, that it is without doubt one of the best medicines they have ever had, for the complaints in which it is recommended.

R. D. M'ARTHUR.

To Mr. J. G. Sharp—

Sir,—One of my children has been suffering for years under a severe Cough. The usual remedies were applied without effect. Having heard of Mr. J. G. Sharp's "Balsam of Hoarhound and Aniseed." I obtained some, and after the use of about 8 oz., or one vial of this extraordinary mixture, the cure was complete.

J. G. CAMPBELL,

April 23, 1852, City of Saint John,

Mr. J. G. Sharp,

Had, a few weeks ago, a very bad cold. Being recommended to try Sharp's Balsam of Hoarhound and Aniseed, I got a quarter dollar bottle, and found it not only a pleasant but a most useful and effective medicine. It is pleasing to take, and a first rate cure.

April 23, 1852, City of Saint John.

For the last sixteen years I have suffered from Asthma so bad that I was often confined to bed to prevent suffocation. I tried every means during that time, that an usual or ordinary medicines could produce, but without effect, until I obtained some of Sharp's Balsam of Hoarhound and Aniseed, (which was recommended to me,) and after using two bottles, I found the relief so long sought for.

Prospectus of the Fifth Volume of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

THE Fifth Volume of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN commences on the 11th September, and as a great proportion of our readers usually commence their subscriptions at this point, we take occasion to extend them our gratitude for the encouraging and liberal support bestowed on our humble efforts, and to re-assure them of our determination to advance it still higher in the scale of utility, and, if possible, in their own estimation. We aim at an honorable independence in discussion upon all subjects, and, in some instances no doubt, our readers may have been surprised at our determined opposition to highly lauded discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Time tries all things, and it is with some degree of pride that we revert to the efforts made through the columns of the Scientific American, to establish sound views respecting several conspicuous miscalled discoveries. Since the commencement of this Volume, that peerless Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations closed its gorgeous display, affording a delightful episode in the eastern page of the world's history. Above and beyond all criticism it has passed away, leaving a world-wide influence, beneficial to every branch of industry, and although not profusely represented by gew-gaws and tinselry—the character of our country shone forth with magnificence in all the elements of substantial utility. Acting under the stimulus suggested by the success of the Great Exhibition, the enterprizing citizens of New York have determined to construct a Crystal Palace of no mean dimensions, and as this is likely to become an important feature in our history, we shall endeavor to present our readers with descriptions and illustrations of such novelties as may be deserving attention.

The format form of the Scientific American will be preserved as most suitable for binding and preservation. The paper will be of the best texture, and we shall aim to store its pages with practical knowledge in every branch of the Arts and Sciences. Invention claims important attention, as one of the fundamental agencies in the world's advancement; hitherto we hope to have satisfied our readers by our weekly summary of "New Inventions." The Weekly List of Patent Claims, officially reported for our columns, is a distinguishing feature, which must commend itself to every one interested in Patents.

We need the co-operation of our readers to enable us to publish a journal, worthy of their support at two dollars per annum. We have never appealed to them in vain, and the Premiums offered for the largest list of subscribers will, we presume, encourage their efforts. All subscriptions are payable in advance. We repeat our caution against Travelling Agents, as none are authorized from this office.

Sharp's Compound Anti-scorbutic Syrup, or Blood Purifier, has been for years back, a popular article, and when first introduced, it gained a great Reputation, and was extensively used in Chronic Rheumatism, and other Cases of Long-standing and Inveterate Scurvy, Obstinate Cases of Cutaneous Eruptions, Indolent Ulcers, Diseases of the Joints, Pains in the Bones, Lumbago, and Pains about the Loins, Swelling of the Legs, Gravel, Dropsy, Jaundice, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirits, and Nervous Complaints, and in fact, in all those cases where a simple but powerful Medicine is required to purify the blood, and restore the system to a healthy state, it has been of many years standing.

This article, prepared by John G. Sharp, has performed wonders, and many persons who have for years been tortured with every thing that is dreadful, have found in it a cure. Sharp's Oriental Hair Wash, for stopping, beautifying, cleansing, and preserving the Hair.

This article is of unequalled efficacy for preventing Baldness, for eradicating Scurf, for preserving the Hair, preventing it from turning Grey, and for giving it a most agreeable Perfume. It is not a Dye, but a Cleanser, but it has been found to darken the Hair, and restore it to its original colour, when used for a short time. It is also a most powerful Tonic, and has been found to be a most valuable remedy in cases where the system has been at many years standing.

This article, prepared by John G. Sharp, has performed wonders, and many persons who have for years been tortured with every thing that is dreadful, have found in it a cure. Cases of Scurvy, of long standing, which had resisted every other medicine, have been cured by it, and others who have been given up by some physicians, as incurable, have been made healthy and vigorous, and enjoyed good health, after using from 1 to 2 or 3 bottles. Prepared and sold by John G. Sharp, Member of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain. N. B.—Dose, a Wine Glass full, three times daily.
