"Isn't it splendid?" she replied, moving over about a hair's breadth; "won't you sit down?"

MORE MONEY FOR PUBLIC MEN.

To all lovers of peace it is encouraging and comforting in the extreme to note the pleasant harmony that is marking the closing hours of the present stormy session of parliament. All ill-feeling, all the unfriendliness and spite engendered during months of acrimonious debate are apparently buried and dove-eyed Peace roosts on the gallery rail and beams with fond admiration on the love feast.

Look for instance at yesterday's session. Much important business was under discussion, business involving the annual expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars, such business as usually provokes much sharp criticism—yet there was not one discordant note, nothing but sweet accord and unanimity, such as would put a Quaker prayer meeting to shame. The result of this absence of jangling was that money amounting to about $750,000 yearly was voted in an hour or so, a proceeding which under other circumstances might have occupied days.

Of course the expedition and the harmony might have something to do with the fact that the money voted by the members was directed toward their own pockets. For of the thousands of dollars added to the public expenditure yesterday every dollar went toward increasing the pay of public servants, some of whom deserve it and very many of whom do not. The members raised their own salaries from $1,500 to $2,500, raised the premier's from $8,000 to $12,000, gave a salary of $7,000 to the leader of the opposition, voted a $3,500 annual pension to all retired cabinet ministers who have held office five consecutive years and increased the salaries of high and county court judges all over the Dominion. And there was not a word of dissent from Grit or Tory.

It is unlikely that any serious protest will be encountered to most of the new expenditure, even among the taxpayers. The thousand dollar increase in the sessional indemnity is not unreasonable. The average session is nearly twice as long today as it was when the present indemnity was fixed and the calls upon a member's time, energy and purse are much more numerous than then. It is only fair that his compensation for time lost to his private business should also increase.

Other new expenditures which should meet public approval are the proposed increase of the premier's salary and the creation of a salary for the leader of the opposition. It is not consonant with the dignity of Canada that the head of her government should have in his gift offices much better paid than the one he himself holds or that he should be dependent to any extent upon his party or his friends. The other item is even more excusable. Under present conditions the leadership of the opposition demands practically the whole of a man's time and as it is vital to the interests of the country that the position of chief critic of the government should be well filled, it is altogether fitting that the country should contribute something to the living expenses of that man.

As to the increase in judicial salaries there should be no opposition. No public position needs better men than the bench and in order to induce leading lawyers to doff the barrister's gown for the judge's robe it was necessary to make the financial descent less precipitous that it is now.

But there may be fair ground for criticism in the act which makes all men who serve one short term as cabinet ministers pensioners on the country for the rest of their lives. While there is British precedent for it and room for argument in its favor the taxpayer will learn slowly to look complacently at the annual payment of thousands of dollars to men who are giving nothing in return and many of whom are not in actual need of the money. If more was needed to induce good men to become cabinet ministers it might have been better to put it in the form of increased salary. However, the question will certainly never become a party issue.

ANOTHER TRIAL WANTED.

The Sydney papers are demanding a repetition of the mail transfer test, though, as the Post points out, last week's experiment proved that the Sydney route will give maritime merchants their English mails two days earlier than the St. Lawrence route and will cause no delay to Montreal and points west. But the Sydney people claim a saving of twelve hours to Montreal can easily be made both in the outward and inward service and are anxious to have the chance of seeing their claims proven. It is certainly in the interests of all maritime business men that they should get this chance.

ANOTHER JAPANESE TRIUMPH.

A despatch from Tokio dated yesterday says that the Japanese expect to have the Russian battleships Pallada, Pobieda and Poltava, sunk at Port Arthur, above water again soon.

The little brown men are apparently as expert at raising vessels as they are at sinking them. It was only a few days ago that they resurrected the battleship Peresviet and the cruiser Bayan which will soon be members in good standing of the Mikado's navy. Two others were raised earlier in the war, the cruisers Varlag and Koriets, sunk at Chemulpo, but these were so badly damaged that the undertaking of refitting them has apparently been abandoned.

While the warships sunk in the open sea in the last battle are probably irrecoverable, there are several others of various descriptions doing submarine duty in the shallow waters around Port Arthur upon which the Japs are undoubtedly working and which will probably be added to their navy before long. An American exchange points out that the Japs appear to be doing much better in that line than the United States did with the Spanish cruisers forced ashore in the battle of Santiago. There was much talk of floating these at the time, but on account of the distance and difficulties and the condition of the hulls the naval authorities concluded that it would not be worth while. Only one of the armored cruisers was raised and even that one was lost in the voyage to the United States. The only trophy saved from the Spanish fleet in the West Indies is the Reina Mercedes, which is now a part of the American navy.

It must be nice to have a job where you can sit down and vote yourself more salary whenever you feel like it.

THE LESSON OF THE RIVER.

Here you are a-sighin', when the work is half a song;
The river turns the mill-wheel, but it's singin' all day long!
You never hear it growlin' when the rain's a-comin' down,
Or sighin' out its sorrow past the meadow an' the town.

Here you are, a mumblin' of the sorrowfullest words,
When the winds laugh in the blossoms 'round the breasts of singin' birds!
Moanin' in the winter over memories of May,
When the hallelula season it is with you every day!

Get out in the sunshine—see the lilies of the light;
Tell the world, "Good mornin'," an' be thankful for the night;
An' quit a-countin' all the clouds on Jordan's stormy banks,
While Love's banners are a-wavin' o'er the hallelula ranks!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

REV. MR. PROSSER WILL STAY.

His Resignation Was Only a Matter of Form, Repeated, by Church Rule, Every Year.

The Telegraph this morning said that Rev. A. J. Prosser, pastor of Waterloo Street Free Baptist church, had resigned, and that the letter of resignation came as a great surprise to the entire congregation.

One of the deacons of the church, when seen this morning, said that a letter of resignation from their pastor, who is on his holidays, was read last Sunday by Rev. A. B. Cohoe, but that the resignation was only formal. It is one of the rules of the church, he said, inaugurated a few years ago, that each year three months before the end of the church year, the pastor should send in his resignation and give the church an opportunity to act upon it.

It was in accordance with this custom that Mr. Prosser's resignation was read. As, however, he gave no reason for departing, he is probably willing to remain with them. As for the congregation, although a two-third vote is necessary to choose a pastor, there is little doubt, with Mr. Prosser's popularity, but that he will be appointed pastor for the coming year. The reverend gentleman will be at home this week, and will likely occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

VETERAN HERO DEAD.

NEW YORK, July 18—General Francis E. Pinto, who was the only surviving commissioned officer of the first regiment New York volunteers which served with distinction in the Mexican war, is dead at his home in Brooklyn. He was 83 years old. General Pinto was with the storming party that placed the first flag on the walls of the Chapultepec.

VALUE OF "OZONE."

The value of 'Ozone" (it is really liqified oxygen) is well known to medical science. It kills the germs of internal disorders. If taken in concentrated form and that means "Solution of Ozone, (the coupon kind)" it ensures a speedy cure for asthma, bronchitis, Bright's disease, kidney trouble, malaria and rheumatism. This stringent remedy needs with it a tonic laxative to secure the best results. Your druggist will give you sixteen ounces of "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" for fifty cents and if you insist on the coupon kind will guarantee a free package of 'Celery King." GERMAN BARON MURDERED.

NEW YORK, July 18—Baron Von Ende, brother of Baron Krupp's widow, has been found dead on his estate in the province of Cordoba, says the Herald despatch from Buenos Ayres, Argentina. The Baron had been killed by two shots, and according to authorities inflicted by himself. However, there is a suspicion of foul play.

Officer McNamee was called into John Donohue's house yesterday to quell a disturbance between Donohue and his wife, and a little later Officer Crawford and Ross were called into Henry Burns' house in Blood alley to quell a disturbance between Burns and his wife.

At a meeting of the Painters' Union last evening a new member was initiated. The union was entertained to gramophone selections by Messrs. Holland and Percival.

The family of Thomas F. Pomeroy, formerly of St. John, who was killed in an elevator accident in Boston recently, are anxious to locate his son Charles. The elder Pomeroy was prominent in the Orange order. Young Pomeroy always made his home with his parents. His mother and his brother, George T. Pomeroy, now live at 70 Brookline street, Cambridgeport, Mass, and another brother, William, lives at 76 Brookline street. The last heard of Charles was about a year ago, when he was located in Fitchburg, where he was employed on the Fitchburg railroad. His brother George says that that was the last time that any member of the family heard from him. He was about 20 years old, 5 feet 6 in height, of light complexion and light hair, weighed 130, and was of slender build.

A letter signed by the deacons of the Baptist Church of Fairville was forwarded yesterday morning to Rev. Frank L. Bishop of Sydney, C. B., extending to him a unanimous call from the church. A letter was received on Saturday from Mr. Bishop. Mr. Bishop will be heard from in the matter before the end of the week, and if the call is accepted by him, it is likely to be at least another month before he would be able to occupy the Fairville pulpit.

The vaudeville entertainments at Seaside Park will probably be discontinued for a while, and possibly may be done away with altogether. Since the vaudeville show has been put on the weather has been anything but favorable and consequently the patronage has not been such as to justify the expenditure necessary to keep the affair going. It is likely, however, that some changes will be made and other forms of amusement will be provided, though just what they will be is not definitely known yet.

Randolph G. Lord of East Boston, a native of Liverpool, N. S., had a remarkable escape from death in Charlestown last week. While at work on a Mystic wharf grain elevator he was overcome by the heat and fell from the staging to the ground, a distance of sixty feet. His collar bone and right arm were fractured and he was bruised, but he will recover. Lord is 35 years of age.

The Salvation Army musical troupe had a successful evening in Carleton last night. A large audience was present and Col. Sharp was in command. All the city officers were present. Two candidates came forward at the close of the meeting. The troupe will be in No. 5 barracks Thursday evening. They have been making a tour of the provinces, and after leaving St. John will visit Campbellton and other northern towns. The officers' annual picnic will be held at Spruce Lake.

T. B. Abbott, a native of St. Stephen, but who for the past twenty-five years has resided in the city of Mexico, is at the Victoria. Mr. Abbott has been spending a month in St. Stephen with old friends, and intends going on the pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre with the party leaving this afternoon. While in the city yesterday Mr. Abbott called on his old friend, Rev. Mr. Chapman, the vicar-general.

Mr. Abbott is proprietor of the Grand Hotel, one of the leading hostelries in Mexica city, ans is also largely interested in mining.

Another chapter in the history of the Dominion Coal Company is about to begin. A new general manager is to take charge, and George Herrick Duggan is to move to Mexico. The new director of affairs (under President Ross, of course) will be Charles Fergie, considered by Mr. Ross as Nova Scotia's greatest authority on coal production.—Glace Bay Gazette.

CHICAGO SUFFERING FROM HEAT.

CHICAGO, July 18.—After 41 persons had been prostrated and ten of them died during the hottest day up to date this summer, a breath of cool air relieved Chicago last night. The relief was short lived. After a few hours the wind veered again and the heat was intense throughout the early morning hours.

Cooler weather is declared to be in store for the latter part of the week.

The maximum temperature of yesterday, 94, equalled the record of last summer, which by an odd coincidence was made on the same day, July 17.

After having crossed the river, and when he had almost reached the side from which he started on his swim, John J. Jardine, of 77 Prospect street, Cambridge, was drowned in the Charles River last week. The men who were with him say that he seemed to be all right when they saw him last, and that when they missed him they thought he was swimming under water to fool them.

It is said that a new semi-weekly newspaper will be started at Fairville in the near future, edited by J. W. Gay, who lately published the Albert County Journal at Hillsboro. A job printing office will also be run in connection with the paper.

The result of the recent dental examinations for New Brunswick have been received. One St. John man was among those who passed and can now, after being duly registered, practice as a dentist in New Brunswick. This is Otto Nase of the north end. Two others, A. J. McKnight, Salisbury, and H. A. Bishop of Harvey, also passed the examination and possess the necessary qualifications for registration among the New Brunswick dentists. M. E. Peters also passed the recent examination, but cannot be registered, as he will not have fulfilled his legal requirements until next year.
