NEW-BRUNSWICK.

In two Books.

BY DAVID FLEWWELLING, CARLETON, S. C.

BOOK II.

(Concluded.)

Still did the "Scarlet Lady" rule the beast—
Sitting on mage waters all her pride;
Awaken the awful vengeance of the Lord.
Light, from the sacred word began to show
Her hideous countenance, besmeared with blood.
Europe arose, and from her torpid limbs
The cursed incubus, strove to throw off.
Long was the struggle; deadly was the strife;
But He, who on the white horse rode, went forth
To conquest. Satan's empire was assailed,
And a new era, thus was ushered in.

Ah, these were halcyon days. The Holy One,
With his two edged sword, cut deep into
The hearts of sinners. In the true light, they Saw themselves justly condemn'd, ruined, lost;
And in a full salvation greatly joyed.
More precious than Golconda's diamonds, then,
The written word; in their own native tongue.
Princes and Monarchs, laid their sceptres down
At Jesus' feet, to learn the law of Him.
Men, of the true "impression"—called of God—
In demonstration of the Spirit's power,
The joyful sound of gospel grace proclaimed.
But Satan raged; and many thro' the fire
Of hottest persecution, passed to bliss.

But now the foe his hellish tactics changed—
With fire and sword no longer he assails,
But with emoluments, and state support.
He seeks, as with a flood, the Church to drown.
And now her sacred domes no more resound
With gospel truth, from holy scripture drawn;
But moral lectures, calm from ethnic tones,
Made Pharisees, and scribes wide the flock.
Meanwhile the "Man of Sin" unweari'd strives
By hellish machinations to destroy
The truth, which God in mercy had revived.
While Besse, Albion's fair regalia wore,
Derin's sons, the "Great Armada" planned.
But at the voice of God the hearing flood
Sunk it beneath its wave. Then down to hell
They dig, and lay the train, with murderous art,
By sulphurous grains, a deadly game to play.
But that omnisient eye that never sleeps,
Brought all their cursed projects to the light.
Again they turn: and of oppression whine,
And for emancipation loudly sue.
O England! O my father land! I mourn
The day, when thou dilst thoughtlessly unbind
The giant foe, our fathers had confin'd
With gentle bands. Who now designs to bind
Thy hapless sons, with slavery's iron chain.
Turn o'er the history of the past, and see,
How deeply stain'd with blood,—thy fathers' blood,
The cursed footsteps of the Scarlet Whore
Displays. Look to the nations now beneath
Her sway; and let the contrast strike thine eye.
How great must that alteration be,
Which demonstration, clear, will not remove!!

Again the Gospel light is seen to dawn
On Britain's favour'd Isle: to usher in
A day, that thousands hail'd with gratitude—
A day which gave "hosannas" to fly—*
Like that bright angel which was seen by John
And blow the Gospel trumpt, and pave the way,
For that last era which our eyes behold.
Waked from that fatal lethargy, indu'd,
By that mercy, which in Leyden sprang,
And from the cursed cup of Lord imbibed,
A noble host is seen; on British ground,
And on Columbia's shore, both in the pale
Of England's church, and in dissenting ranks
Who hasthe to send the glorious gospel wide
O'er heathen lands, that all may hear the sound.
Man now perceives more clearly than before
What by united effort can be gain'd—
Hence sprang those numerous bands of social tie.
To teach, and preach, and sow the precious seed.

Now on the airy heights of Cimbria see
A little band her loving pastor meet;
From her he learns, with pain, the paucity
Of that blest book, so kindly given to man.
The pathos of her simple tale awakes
The heart-felt sympathy of that good man.
O yes, I hear him breathe "What shall I do,
To give the Book of God to my dear land?
I'll seek among the lovers of our race,
United effort for my country's good."
And while he plends the Wales, a voice responds
"Why not the world embrace?" Thus sprang the germ
Of that fair tree of life, whose healing leaves
Bring health, and peace, to nations dead in sin.
And forms the great palladium of our realm.
Truth, here a fruitless title, and Poetry dies.

Now be the progress of the area my theme.
Long had humanity bowed down its neck
Beneath the tread of superstition's foot—
Almost to brute transformed. But when the light
Of reformation dawn'd; then mind began
To take a wider range—to pierce the sky—
The earth to measure, and the ocean plow.
Italia gave the man, who lifts his tube
Toward the midnight sky, and first discern'd
The moons which circle Jupiter around.
Britania boasts the man, who, wrapt in thought,
Saw the ripe apple from the tree descend:
And hence inquired—Why tn. the nadir pone?
Why not fill upward, and the zenith seek?
Or in a horizontal line fly off?
Sure there must be some adamantine chain,
That to a centre binds all matter fast.
That chain he nam'd 'Attraction,' though invisible,
Yet nature's strongest tie. Which settles down
The everlasting hills on their firm base;
And binds the raging ocean to its bed;
While on its heaving bosom rides the bark.
This noble thought immortalized his name.
By slavery now, no longer crush'd, the mind
Expatiates freely, in the boundless field
Of the Creator's works; and classifies,
And names, what his right hand in wisdom made.
With laudable ambition fired, man now,
In the dark mail cot scorns to spend his days;
But in new style the widely done he rises.
The block and stool, to sofas now give place;
And the rich carpet o'er the deal is spread.
The arts progress, and commerce spreads the sail;
Wealth heaps her stores, and one to man is known.
Long had the native power of steam been used,
To drain the mine, and lift the pon'drous oct.
But now its giant strength to ships applied,
Forms a new era in the world's annals.
No longer now, for the fair gale we sigh;
But stir the glowing furnace, and create
The fiery vapor, till the iron ribs
Of the strong boiler can endure no more,
But frets, and roars, and vents its furious breath.
The fists are loos'd, and now the wheels revolve,
And the fine steamer cuts her watery way.

Thought follows thought, in quick succession, now,
For, forward is the watchword of the day.
The fiery steam is to the car attach'd;
With rapid speed the locomotive runs
Along the iron road. But clashing off,
With horrid crash. Then shrieks and dying groans,
With hissing steam commix. Thus man invents
The means of his destruction; to increase
His locomotion—often dearly bought.

But not content with flying without wings,
He borrows lightning from the elements;
And on the telegraphic wire conveys,
From mart, to mart, the wish'd intelligence.

With a few words of counsel to the youth,
I now my panoramic exit make.
Count not on length of days, for were your life
Drawn out coeval with my age, yet still,
The hour would soon arrive that tells your fall.
Dote not on riches—for they fly away,
And leave an aching void. Not all the wealth
Of Crœsus, life's sweet balm can purchase. No,
Without contentment, nothing can delight.
Let not ambition's towering heights allure,
Lest from those heights you fall; and leave to mouse
Forever harrow up your inmost soul.
Let not the harlot, pleasure, tempt your feet
From virtue's path; but shun her crooked ways.
But if with nature's dictates you comply,
And hymeneal pleasure seek; wed not
A name unmoral, for honour's sake;
More vain than vanity is such a thought.
Let solid worth your soul's ambition claim.
And seek to be made useful, in that sphere
Where God in wisdom hath your lot assigned.
Then whether life to ages be drawn out,
Or in the midst cut off—all shall be well.

* George Whitefield.

A Negro Preacher.

A Washington correspondent of an eastern paper furnishes the following account of a sermon he heard preached there the last Sabbath in 1855:

"We attended church, as I'l o'clock A. M., with the colored people at Asbury Chapel. Rev. Mr. M'Gee is the preacher in charge, but he has also another "preaching place," so they are left to pick-up preaching half the time. They say this congregation does not dwindle under this arrangement. We presume as much could not be said of a white congregation under the same circumstances. One of the colored elders of the church led in the pulpit exercises, and Mr. Collins, a young local or licensed preacher gave the sermon; text, Ex. xiv. 15: "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." With but critical knowledge of the meaning and grammatical arrangement of words, still the preacher showed a familiarity with scripture facts and incidents that might well make some of our white grammar preachers blush! His descriptions were graphic and forcible! and if his eloquence was unrefined, it was also untrammeled, showing the grain and color of the granite, if not the polish of the sculptor. When he described Joseph sold, and carried away into Egypt, there were no tearless eyes there; and his portraying the cruelty of the task-masters, stirred the very souls of his hearers into groanings and sighs like these, "Surely," "Too bad," "Shame." Moses in the little ark, was brought so vividly before the mind, that at least a dozen mothers exclaimed, "I'll save him," "Catch him, "Don't let him sink!" He closed his introduction by hudding the Hebrew captives together on the bank of the Red Sea. "Now," said he, "what will you do? The dashing waves of the sea before—the impassible mountains on this side and on that side—and Pharaoh's chariots and men of war pursuing with fury. Here there was a general outcry through the congregation, "Go forward;" "Go forward!" "We'll go forward!" Stop! stop!" said the preacher. "Stand still and see the salvation of the Lord first. If you go on in your own strength, you will all perish in the sea. Do you see Moses? Do you see the rod in his hand? See the waters go back! see the dry ground—see it? Do you see it? Right there, under Moses' rod! Well, now come on!" said he. "Hurry—don't wait—Pharaoh is after you! Don't mind the waves on the side—God has piled them up!" Here followed the greatest excitement throughout the assembly with exclamations, "Oh!" "Here we go!" "Good!" "All safe!" "Yes, all safe," cried the preacher—"but here; look back there. Do you see that old rebel—do you see him and his chariots and men of war? See them plunging, and splashing, and drowning! Well, now mark, that's because God did not say to them, 'Go forward!' Learn from that, brethren, to follow Jesus and not go in your own strength. When you see the rod, and hear Jesus say, 'Go forward,' then put to it for your lives, and you will soon be singing on the opposite bank." He closed by saying, "Brethren, as this year closes, and you begin another, go forward. Don't stop, grumbling about the roughness of the way. Don't grumble at your ministers. Don't grumble at the Lord, but keep low—see where the rod is stretched out, and go forward!"

A MISER.—A man seventy-three years of age recently died in the Indiana penitentiary, of an affection of the heart. He was a miser, was incarcerated for a forgery of $25, and has left a fortune of $100,000. He denied himself the smallest luxury beyond the prison fare, and at the time of his arrest he was tendered counsel, who pledged themselves to clear him of the charge for the fee of $500. To this the old man replied, "if convicted, the sentence would only be for two years, and he didn't think he could make his expenses and two hundred and fifty dollars a year out of the penitentiary, and it would cost him nothing to live there, and he would save that much anyhow!"

Steam Sash and Door Factory,
HARDING STREET.

JOHN E. STUART & CO. would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally, that they have recently taken the Steam Sash Factory in Harding street lately occupied by CLARKE & McALPINE, and formerly by JOHN E. TURNBULL, where they have on hand a large stock, and are continually manufacturing all kinds of DOORS, SASHES, and WINDOW Frames, which upon inspection, will be found of a superior quality, and as such they will be warranted, as it is the determination of the Subscribers to furnish their Patrons with such work as will reflect credit upon themselves and the establishment, and do away with the prejudice that exists against Machine Work. Parties contemplating building will find that they can obtain Doors and Sashes of a superior quality at our establishment far cheaper than they can get them made by hand. Joiners doing business in the country can have Sashes glazed or unglazed, packed to order in such a manner as will ensure their safety.
Remember the stand, Harding street, opposite the South-west corner, Queen's square, and give us a call.

Golden Ball Marble Establishment
Corner of Union and Sydney Streets,
SAINT JOHN N. B.

THE Subscriber would respectfully inform his friends in St. John, and the public generally throughout the British Provinces, that he has removed his MARBLE CUTTING ESTABLISHMENT on Union Street, to a building lately erected by himself on the GOLDEN BALL CORNER, where he is prepared to carry on business on a more extensive scale, in the execution of Monuments, Tomb Tables, Head Stones, Centre Tables, and every description of ORNAMENTAL WORK recognized in his line of business.
Purchasers would do well to call and examine the style of work and prices before purchasing elsewhere; as the Subscriber has fitted up steam power, by which he is enabled to sell at lower prices than such articles can be obtained for in this City, or from the United States. The marble, also, is of the best quality, and the workmanship is as good as can be produced in the Province.
Chimney Pieces can be furnished to suit purchasers.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.—Dr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, Mass., has discovered in one of our common pastures, a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOR, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humour). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its virtue, all within twenty miles of Boston.
Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.
One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.
Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.
Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.
Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.
One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.
Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.
Four to six bottles are warranted to cure outrage and running ulcers.
One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.
Two to three bottles warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.
Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.
Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.
A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.
Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effect of it in every case. So sure as water will extinguish fire, so sure will this cure humor. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another; after a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that opposers to me surprising; first, that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846—second, that it should cure all kinds of humors.
In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day; in April, 1854, I sold over one thousand bottles per day of it.
Some of the wholesale Druggists who have been in business twenty and thirty years, say that nothing in the annals of patent medicines was ever like it. There is a universal praise of it from all quarters.
In my own practice I always kept it entirely for humors—but since its introduction as a general family medicine, great and wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never suspected.
Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was always considered incurable, have been cured by a few bottles. O, what a mercy if it will prove effectual in all cases of that awful malady—there are but few who are seen none of it than I have.
I know of several cases of Dropsy, all of them aged people, cured by it. For the various diseases of the Liver, Side Headache, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side, Diseases of the Spine, and particularly in diseases of the Kidneys, &c., the discovery has done more good than any medicine ever known.
No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can, and enough of it.
DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Adults, one table spoonful per day: Children over ten years, a dessert spoonful; Children from five to eight years, a tea spoonful. As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.
The PRINCIPAL OFFICE for the STATE OF MAINE and the BRITISH PROVINCES is at the Dyspeptic Medicine Establishment of E. E. HAY, 15 and 17 Arcade Square, Portland, Me., to whom all orders should be addressed. Sold by respectable Druggists throughout the United States and British Provinces. Price, $1.
