Poetry.

MY LAMBS.

I loved them so,
That when the elder Shepherd of the fold,
Came covered with the storm, and pale and cold,
And begged for one of my sweet lambs to hold,
I bade him go.

He claimed the pet;
A little fondling thing, that to my breast
Clung always, either in quiet or unrest;
I thought of all my lambs I loved him best,
And yet, and yet—

I laid him down,
In those white, shrouded arms, with bitter tears;
For some voice told me, that in after years
He should know nought of pain, grief or fears,
As I had known.

And yet again,
That elder Shepherd came, my heart grew faint;
He claimed another lamb with sadder plaint,
Another! She who gentle as a saint,
Ne'er gave me pain.

Aghast I turned away.
There sat she, lovely as an angel's dream,
Her golden locks with sunlight all a gleam,
Her holy eyes with heaven in their beam:
I knelt to pray.

Is it thy will,
My Father say, must this pet lamb be given?
O! thou hast many such, dear Lord, in heaven,
And a soft voice said, "Nobly hast thou striven,
But—peace, be still."

O! how I wept!
And clasped her to my bosom with a will
And yearning love—my laugh, my pleasant child;
Her, too, I gave—the little angel smiled,
And slept.

"Go! go!" I cried,
For once again that Shepherd laid his hand
Upon the noblest of our household band:
Like a pale spectre, there he took his stand,
Close to his side.

And yet how wondrous sweet
The look with which he heard my passionate cry,
"Touch not my lambs—for him, O! let me die!"
"A little while," he said with smile and sigh,
"Again to meet."

Hopeless I fell;
And when I rose, the light had turned so low
So faint I could not see my darling go.
He had not bidden me farewell; but O!
I felt farewell,

More deeply far
Than if my arms had compassed that slight frame
Though could I have heard him call my name,
"Dear mother"—but in heaven 'twill be the same,
There burns my star!

He will not take
Another lamb, I thought, for only one
Of the dear fold is spared to be my sun,
My guide, my mourner, when this life is done;
My heart would break.

O! with what thrill
I heard him enter; but I did not know
(For it was dark) that he had robbed me so,
The idol of my soul—he could not go—
O! heart, be still!

Came morning; can I tell
How this poor frame its sorrowful tenant kept?
For waking tears were mine; I sleeping wept,
And days, months, years, that weary vigil kept.
Alas! "farewell,"

How often it is said?
I sit and think, and wonder too, sometimes,
How it will seem when in that happier clime,
It never will ring out like funeral chimes
Over the dead.

No tears! no fears!
Will there a day come that I shall not weep?
For I believe my pillow is my sleep.
Yes, yes, thank God! no grief that clime shall keep,
No weary years.

As it is well;
Well with my lambs, and with their earthly guide,
There pleasant rivers wander they beside,
Or strike sweet harps upon its silver side—
As it is well.

Through the dreary day
They often come from glorious light to me;
I cannot feel their touch, their faces see,
Yet my soul whispers, they do come to me:
Heaven is not far away.

38. On the Death of Capt. Thos. Quirke, by E. Case.
39. A Dialogue, by H. H. Cosman and Wilford Sherwood.
40. Religion a Joy Giver, by A. Crawford, S. Crawford and C. Northrop.
41. Wishes, by A. Price, S. Cosman, S. A. Cosman, and C. Cosman.
42. The Wonderful Gift, by C. Cosman, S. A. Cosman, and S. Cosman.

Singing by the Choir.

43. Sunday-school and Temperance Dialogue, by M. M. Case and Julia Titus.
44. Report of a Committee on Tobacco, by John W. Sharpe.
45. The Final Judgment, by Clarissa Northrop.

An address was then delivered by Douglas McLeod, the superintendent of the Sabbath-school. He spoke of the condition of the school, the time of closing for the winter, and the impression he trusted was made upon many minds. He showed that the human mind was not satisfied without a pursuit of some kind, either in the direction of good or evil, and the final result of such a career in either direction. He then spoke of the different classes in society. The gambler, the horseman, the drunkard, the swearer, and the moral man, and contrasted their state with the children of God, and referred to their indescribable inferiority of position, and showed that the Sabbath-school had in view to assist the Church of God in reclaiming them, and bringing them to the cross of Christ. His address closed with some very pointed remarks in reference to the final judgment of mankind.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of this Sabbath-school, during the last three years under the care of D. McLeod. It has been in a constantly thriving condition. During the past summer a large picnic was held, at which the scholars of the school much delighted those present by the recitation of well-selected pieces. S.

BLISSVILLE SABBATH-SCHOOL.

A concert was held on Sabbath evening, 30th ult. in connection with the South Branch Sabbath-school. The hour for commencing found the children arranged in the centre-pews, and the house densely filled with an attentive audience. After singing and prayer, the concert was conducted in the following manner:

1. No Sect in Heaven, by Wm. D. Smith.
2. Elijah's Translation, by Frances Seely.

Singing.

3. Going Home, by Elvina Seely.
4. John Thomkins, by Bedford Smith.
5. Thanksgiving Day (Dialogue), by Elvina Seely, John Seely, Bedford Smith, Lizzie Seely, Annie Seely and Elmira Seely.
6. Live for a Purpose, by Olive M. Smith.
7. I want to be an angel, by Leonard Slip.
8. Psalm xxiii, by Olive M. Smith.

Singing.

9. King Alcohol's Confession, by Bedford Smith.
10. A Hymn, by Gertrude Smith.
11. Temperance Dialogue, by Elvina Seely, John Seely and Bedford Smith.

Singing

12. Where happiness may be found, by W. D. Smith.
13. God's Family, by Maria Smith.

Singing by Children.

The Wandering Jew; Singing by W. Hoyt, T. Dewitt and O. Merzereau.

14. Choice of Bible Characters, by nine boys and five girls (Dialogue).
15. A Hymn, by Sarah Underhill.
16. A Child's Faith in God, by Guilford Slip.
17. The World for Sale, by Frances Seely.
18. Dialogue, by Louisa and P. A. Kelly.

Short and appropriate addresses were delivered by several brethren, and Thomas E. Smith, Superintendent. Singing by the choir, and prayer by Thatcher Smith, closed the interview; the fruits of which will doubtless be manifested by an increased interest, throughout the community, in the Sabbath-school enterprise. The admirable manner in which the children acquitted themselves under the direction of Thomas E. Smith and sisters, together with the music by the choir (led by Brazilla Webb), rendered it a season of deep interest and profit, which will be long remembered.

JOHN C. SEELY.

GARDENER'S DAUGHTER.

You have all, doubtless, heard of Frederic the Second, of Prussia. He is known among the people of that country as "our old Fritz;" and his statue, on horseback, stands at the entrance of the noble Linden Avenue, in Berlin. Frederic had a wife, Queen Elizabeth Christina, of whom the following anecdote is related.

One beautiful summer day, as the Queen was pacing up and down the beautiful walks in her palace-garden, enjoying the perfumed air, and from time to time pausing to look at the lovely flowers, or listen to the singing birds, she saw upon the grass a little child, playing with the long stalks and the clover heads. This was the daughter of one of the gardeners, a little girl about five years old.

The Queen approached the child, silently watched her play for a few moments, and finally spoke to her. The child replied modestly, but fearlessly, to all the questions asked her. She was, besides, a very lovely-looking little girl. The Queen was so much pleased with her, that the very next day she sent one of her ladies to bring her to the palace.

The parents were quite astonished, but they dressed the child in her Sunday clothes, and gave her into the charge of the Queen's waiting-maid.

When the little girl reached the palace, the Queen was just about sitting down to dinner. She, however, gave orders that the child should be at once brought to her. Stroking her fresh, rosy cheeks, she had her placed upon a chair by her side, when she could overlook the whole of the glittering and abundantly-laden table.

The kind, good-hearted Queen wanted to hear what the child would say when she saw the costly gold and silver vessels, and all the other pretty things adorning the royal table. She enjoyed, in anticipation, the delight of the innocent girl, which she presumed would be displayed in ordinary childish fashion, by clapping of hands, and joyful, wondering exclamations.

But all turned out very differently from what she had expected.

The little one sat a moment quite still and solemn. Then she cast her eyes over the glittering scene before her. But no cry of astonishment followed this survey. On the contrary, the child looked quietly down upon the table, folded her tiny hands, and, in tones sweet and childish, but loud enough to be heard throughout the whole dining-hall, repeated the following little prayer:

"Christ's dear blood and righteousness
Be to me as jewels given,
Crowning me when I shall press
Onward through the gates of heaven."

Surely the good old custom of asking a blessing at table must still have been practised in the pious gardener's house, and this little verse had been the daily prayer of the good little girl. As the food was already placed upon the royal table, and eyes were turned upon her, the child naturally thought they wished her to say the blessing, and devoutly repeated her touching prayer.

When she had finished, no one spoke for some time. All present were greatly surprised. It really seemed as if God Himself, through her sweet lips, had spoken to this brilliant assemblage of high-born lords and ladies.

One very old lady was the first to break the silence, saying, "O, the happy child! How much may we learn from her!"

The whole company then began to talk about the little girl, and all felt kindly drawn towards her, especially the good, noble-hearted Queen.

From that day she was richly provided for. The ladies and gentlemen present sent her from time to time, valuable gifts; and the Queen herself took pains to see that she received such an education, that the good seed sown by her excellent parents should not be lost.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS is so carefully and scientifically prepared that it is immensely superior to Arrowroot, Sago, Tapioca, Bread, Biscuit, Corn Flour, or any other kind of farinaceous food for infants, not alone from its purity, strength, and great nourishing properties, but also from its having been peculiarly and thoroughly cooked in its manufacture, which renders it more easily digestible. It cannot cause Acidity or Wind. It is very agreeable, and from the nature of its composition is exactly adapted to all conditions of the stomach. It can be made ready for use without trouble in two or three minutes. Mixed in Beef Tea, Milk, or any other fluid, the PATENT FOOD is pre-eminently suited to Invalids, from its wholesome and strengthening qualities. It is a real blessing, and from its remarkable cheapness accessible to all. For sale only by

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.
It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin, Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all concreted perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspoonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.
If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them—by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.
