Poetry.

LIFT ME OVER.

"O Father! lift me over." It was a little child
Who stood and poised one slender foot across a stream defiled;
Her robe was white and spotless, the current dark and slow,
Wherein the city streets' debris was tossing to and fro.
The father stooped and lifted, with fond, caressing care,
The little one whose silver voice had reached his ear in prayer.
The throng came swiftly onward, I saw the twain no more,
But all day long, in every strait, I said her sweet words o'er.
Some at that city crossing went swiftly passing through;
Some faltered long, or turned them back another way to view;
Some, holding by a stronger hand, with all a child's sweet faith,
Cried, "Lift me, lift me over!" and reached the better path.
O Father up in heaven, whose ear is ever bent
To hear the prayers Thy children raise, whatever their intent,
Wilt Thou not heed and listen? and when the floods are high,
O! stoop, and with thine arm of might bring Thou salvation nigh.
O! lift me over when the wave of sorrow comes too near,
Whene'er the tempter's syren voice shall whisper in mine ear;
When fever's flush is on my face, and aches my throbbing head,
Then let me lie within Thy arms, then soothe my painful dread.
O! lift me over, Father! O! lift me at the last,
When earthly hopes and earthly fears are all forever past;
When roll the waters at my feet, O! take my trembling hand,
And lift me with one strong, sweet grasp, home to the better land.

Miscellaneous.

WHAT CHARLIE FOUND TO DO.

BY AMANDA M. DOUGLAS.

"But little boys can't do much," Charlie Russell said, as he walked home with his mother from church. "Girls sew sometimes, and make clothes for poor people; but I cannot sew, and I never have any money to give away. Was Mr. Morrison quite right when he said everybody could do something?"

Charlie looked up into his mother's face, and she smiled very sweetly as she answered:

"I think they can, Charley."

"But what can I do?"

"Occasionally there are little things within your reach. You can do favors for me and your schoolmates."

"But that isn't it what I mean, mamma. It is right for me to work for you, and then the boys often do clever things for me, so that's only fair play. You don't feel as if you had been generous or particularly useful."

"You want to do some great thing."

"But please understand, mamma, that I don't feel vain about it. While Mr. Morrison was preaching, I kept thinking it over, and I wish he had told what boys could do."

"Many of the things people find to do involve some sacrifice of personal indulgence, perhaps comfort. Suppose I were to ask you to run down to Widow Thompson's this cold day?"

"I'd go in a minute, mamma; but it would be pleasure. Sunday seems such a still, long day to me that I like to have little breaks in it."

"But suppose I wanted you to go on a week day, in your play hour?"

Charlie looked grave.

"All great things, my boy, require some sacrifice, and children do not, as a general rule, feel inclined to give up their own comfort and pleasure."

"I'd do it, mamma," he said, after a moment's pause.

"I believe you would, without much grumbling. You are a very obliging boy, for the most part."

"But still, that isn't it, mamma. I'd like to feel that I had made some one real happy. It was so good in cousin George to send me a sled for my birthday, and save his pocket-money for it. I can't do anything like that, because we are poor, and I never have but a few pennies at a time."

"Yes, George might have thought that he needed all his pocket-money, and I dare say he relinquished some pleasure for himself to give you a greater one. The way to learn what you can do for others is to find out what they need, and, if anything is within your power, give it."

Charlie sighed a little. He could not see his way clearly, ambitious as he was to distinguish himself.

"After dinner we'll go down to Mrs. Thompson's a little while," said his mother, as they reached the gate.

Charlie helped her to prepare their simple dinner. He was rather serious, thinking over Mr. Morrison's sermon, and his brains were in somewhat of a muddle on the subject.

The Russells were quite poor as you might imagine. Mrs. Russell owned her little cottage and garden, but beyond that she was compelled to take in sewing to support herself and her child. Charlie was a generous-hearted boy, and very fond of his mother—perhaps a little more thoughtful than boys of his age usually are. On Sunday morning, he and his mother always went to church which was quite a distance, but the remainder of the day did sometimes prove rather long to him. He used to coax his mother to take a walk, and she generally made some errand to sick or poor people, whom she knew would interest him.

So, when the dinner was over, and the dishes put away, they started for Mrs. Thompson's—a widow woman living alone with an aged and infirm father, and dependent on her neighbors for many kindnesses. Mrs. Russell brought her a loaf of bread, and a slice of ham to broil, and after the first salutations were over, delivered her gifts.

"Even if we are poor, mamma finds something to comfort other people with," Charlie thought.

Then he went and sat by Mrs. Thompson's father, and the old man began to ask a few questions in a tremulous voice. Had Charlie been to church?

"Yes," was the answer, in a pleasant tone.

"Where was the text?"

Charlie thought a moment. "I do believe I've forgotten," he said, rather confusedly; "I can't remember the chapter and verse easily, but it was about giving a cup of cold water, and I liked it. Mr. Morrison said it didn't mean simply a drink, but that it stood for all the good and generous deeds one might do."

"Very true. We can all do a little."

Charlie looked rather incredulous.

"You are thinking, my little man, that a poor, old person like me cannot have much opportunity. Yet I sometimes strive very hard to be patient and content, harder than if I were strong and could labor for myself. I find it tiresome to stay here week after week, for now it is too cold to go out, so I have to comfort myself with the words: 'They also serve who only stand and wait.'"

So he had found a work to do, and not an easy one either, Charlie thought. He had been sick some months before himself, and learned that staying in the house was exceedingly wearisome. Then he caught a sentence of Mrs. Thompson's.

"If I only had any one to bring it. They'll be through by Saturday, I believe."

"It was very kind of Mr. Yates," Mrs. Russell replied.

"Yes; I thought of asking James Hanley to bring it, but he charges so much."

By this time Charlie guessed. "Did Mr. Yates offer you some wood Mrs. Thompson?" he asked.

"Yes; they are cutting timber down in the lot, and he told me I could have a load if I'd send any one to cart it. I must see whom I can find."

A sudden thought flashed through Charlie's brain. "Mrs. Thompson," he began, eagerly, "couldn't I draw you some on my sled?"

"You are very kind to think of it, but I am afraid it would take so long. Boys love to play, and it's right they should."

"Oh! I shall not mind a little work; I'll use my play hour in the afternoon, and draw you all I can."

When he encountered his mother's smile, he understood how pleased she was; and a trembling hand was laid upon his shoulder.

"The cup of cold water," the poor invalid said.

"Oh! it will be quite like play to me," Charlie replied, with animation. "I'll come to-morrow afternoon."

"I did find something to do," he said to his mother, as they were returning home. "I like it better because I have to give up my play hour."

"I'm glad to see you so willing to sacrifice your own pleasure," his mother returned, much gratified.

So, after school on Monday, Charlie went to the lot, where the wood cutters were at work. His mother had fastened a piece of nice, thick carpet over his sled, so that the logs of wood would not scratch or injure it. Then she had given him a rope to fasten his load, and Charlie set off with a light heart. He went three times, and there lay quite a pile of wood in the little shed. Then he took one or two turns coasting down hill, and ran off home, with the brightest, merriest face you ever saw. Tuesday he went again, but the next two days some incident prevented.

"The boys are going to have a sledding match tomorrow," Louis Ray said to Charlie. "Of course you'll be there with your new sled?"

"What time will it commence?"

"They're to meet about one, and are going over to Cummings' hill. Won't there be a jolly time, though?"

Charlie started off to learn more about it. The boys were planning a gay time, certainly. It would just suit him, for in the mornings he did errands and waited upon his mother, but the afternoons he had to himself.

He told his mother in high glee, and then went to finish drawing his wood. At the last load Mr. Yates made his appearance.

"You're a smart little fellow," he said when he learned the facts. "We shall finish to-morrow, but you may come and take all you can. I think there will be a heavy fall of snow before long."

Charlie started at this. Draw wood instead of having a good time sledding? That would be rather hard. So he went along very soberly indeed, but at last comforted himself with thinking that he might do it in the morning.

Alas! poor Charlie! His mother had taken a cold, and was quite poorly, so he did errands, split kindlings, and waited upon her more than usual.

"Now, you must go and enjoy yourself," she said, after dinner, kissing him fondly.

He paused at the wood-shed. There lay the piece of carpet and the rope, and then he glanced at his bright sled—she was such a beauty, and so fast. This was the first match of the winter, and he did want to go. Suppose he asked mamma's advice.

Then he thought of Widow Thompson, and how very poor they were. He could play on some other day, but no one might offer her wood again. Besides, this was just what he was wishing for last Sunday. Here was the sacrifice and the work.

It came pretty hard, to be sure. Charlie went backward and forward several times, then suddenly he picked up the carpet and marched off resolutely. To work he went like a Trojan. The sky grew gray and thick, and occasionally a spit of snow blew in his face. Mr. Yates came round the corner just as he started with the last load.

"Did you get tired of sledding with the boys?" he asked, in a rather quizzical fashion.

"I did not go, sir," Charlie said, respectfully.

"You don't mean that you've been working here all the afternoon?"

"Yes, sir."

Farmer Yates looked him all over. "Didn't you want to go?"

Charlie explained that he thought it best to work. "Though I hope I haven't taken too much of your wood," he said.

"You're a brave boy, and Mrs. Thompson is welcome to every stick. I'll look in upon her some day."

So, Charlie went home with an approving conscience, and told his mother the story.

"It was a little hard, but I remembered what you said about giving up pleasure, and I am glad I did it. I think there'll be a heavy storm."

There was a great snow-storm, and it drifted against the edge of the wood, making a huge bank, so that for some time it would have been quite impossible to cart wood. Mr. Yates went to see Mrs. Thompson, and finding how really needy she was sent her many necessaries.

Two weeks later, when school closed, and the prizes were given out, another parcel was handed to the teacher for Charlie Russell—a very pretty set of books from Mr. Yates—and Charlie understood what had suggested the gift.

"But, after all, it wasn't very much," he said to his mother—"just giving up one afternoon."

"A cup of cold water;" and she smiled.

"And I think I've found out how to go to work. I understand Mr. Morrison's sermon better every day."—Methodist.

A devoted and most promising young missionary has just lost his life by drowning in China. The Rev. Jas. Caldwell went out to Australia only last year, and had since removed to China in order to have an opportunity of mastering the language, so as to render more effective his work amongst the Chinese emigrants in Australia. Mr. Caldwell was bathing in the river by moonlight, when the current, which was very strong, carried him away. Efforts were immediately made by native boatmen to rescue him, but in vain. The Rev. George Piercy the pioneer of Methodist missions in China, and who is still nobly working there, was accompanying his youthful fellow-laborer on a trip up the river at the time of the sad occurrence.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

RESOLVENT

One Bottle of Resolvent Better than Ten Large Bottles of Sarsaparilla.

One Bottle will Purify the Blood, and Expel Corruption from the Body!

1 BETTER THAN 10

R. R. R. Resolvent cures with astonishing rapidity every form of Chronic, Scrofulous and Skin Diseases, and exterminates all corruption from the human system.

One bottle of Dr. Radway's Renovating Resolvent contains more of the active curative principles of the best Jamaica Sarsaparilla, (Sarsaparillian,) than Ten of the largest size bottles of the mixture sold under the name of Sarsaparilla.

The process adopted by Dr. Radway in securing extracts (prepared in vacuo,) of Medicinal Roots, Plants, Herbs, and other vegetables possessing great curative properties over Scrofula, Chronic, Syphilitic and all skin diseases, that enters into the composition of the Renovating Resolvent, produces only ONE OUNCE of the pure extract out of 20 lbs. of the crude roots, The Inert matter that enters so generally in the large bottle mixtures and prepared under the official or pharmacopeia formula, is, by Dr. Radway's process, cast aside as rubbish.

One teaspoonful of the Resolvent is sufficient for a dose for all Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Blotches, Sores and Eruptions of the Skin, Humors in the Blood, &c.

One teaspoonful, three times per day, will, in a few days, make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eyes bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair strong, and remove all Sores, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Tetters, Cankers, &c., from the Head, Face, Neck, Mouth and Skin. It is pleasant to take, and the dose is small.

The first dose that is taken seizes on the disease and commences its work of resolving away all diseased deposits, Purifying the Blood, and driving corruption from the system.

The Renovating Resolvent, if used in any of the following named complaints, will positively cure the patient:

Skin Diseases, Caries of the Bones, Humors in the Blood, Constitutional, Chronic and Scrofulous Diseases, Scrofula, Syphilis, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Rickets, Scald Head, Sore Legs, Cankers, Glandular Swellings, White Swellings, Boils, Nodes, Sore Ears, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ear, Ophthalmia, Itch, Constitutional Debility, Wasting and Decay of the Body, Skin Eruptions, Pimples and Blotches, Tumors, Cancerous Affections, Dyspepsia, Water Brash, Neuralgia, Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urethra, Strictures, Difficulty of Passing Water, Calculous Deposits, &c.

Humors and Sores of all kinds.

Ladies suffering from Prolapsus Uteri, (falling of the womb,) Weakening Discharges, Flour Albus, Leucorrhœa, Dropsy, &c., will experience great relief in a few days, and consequent cure by the use of the Resolvent. Price $1.00 per bottle,—6 bottles for $5.00. Sold by Druggists. 87 Maiden Lane, N. Y.

A VERY HARD CASE.

Case 29,395.—Thompson Ringe states:—I am 45 years of age. In 1857, my business as a commission merchant called me to San Francisco. While there I contracted a frightful and loathsome disease that laid me on my bed for nine months. I paid for physician's fees $1,200 00, medicines $680 00. At the end of nine months, the disease was so far suppressed that I was enabled to return to New York. In two weeks after my arrival, the old disease appeared in a more severe form. Pores and skin on my body, my throat ulcerated, and mouth, tongue and lips a mass of sores. Again I called a physician who attended me for three months. Fees, $150 00; medicines, $80 00, of no good. I then commenced a course of RESOLVENT. Nine bottles, at $1 per bottle, made a perfect cure. Let me quote balance the second:

CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION!
THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspoonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve them—by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with PICKSTONE'S Cleansing Crystal.

Sold by most respectable Grocers and Chemists, in Packets THREE CENTS EACH, sufficient for 20 Gallons of water, or Twelve for Thirty Cents, also in Boxes containing 144 Packets, price Three Dollars cash. ☞Be sure to ask for PICKSTONE'S Washing Crystal, as there are spurious imitations. Do not condemn it untried. Make one trial! PROTECTED BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance buildings, Liverpool.

Chairman of the London Board.—SAMUEL BAKER, Esq.
Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq.

The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown:—

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being	£130,060
While the Premiums for the year 1858 are	196,148
Showing an actual increase of	66,088

or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years.

The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the society of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 852, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus:—

Years.	No. of Policies.	Sums Assured.	New Premiums.
1848	93	£48,764 17 0	£1,380 9 1
1850	190	95,650 9 11	2,627 4 7
1852	422	181,504 10 6	5,828 5 10
1854	408	161,848 13 4	4,694 16 0
1856	703	297,560 16 8	8,850 3 11
1858	852	387,752 6 8	12,354 3 4

The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years, is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared in 1856, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per annum on the sums assured and averaged 80 per cent. upon the premiums paid.
