King Alcohol's Confession.

Mr. Editor,—I send you these few lines, selected from my Scrap Book, for your valuable paper, and to encourage the friends of Temperance. They are beautifully applicable to the present time. Yours, AARON JEWETT.

Johnston, Q. C., Feb. 22, 1856.

"O Alcohol, come answer me
The questions I shall put to thee:
What is thy age? what is thy aim?
What is thy trade? what is thy name?"

"My age is over a thousand years;
My aim to fill the earth with tears;
My trade to kill and make orphans;
My name—it is INTEMPERANCE.

"Long have I ruled upon the earth;
To many crimes I've given birth;
I'm father of all grief and woe,
And spread distress where'er I go.

"My dwelling place is at the bar;
My customers are near and far;
I fill their heads, and drain their purse,
And turn their blessings to a curse.

"My face is covered with a mask;
My hiding place is in a cask;
My business is to gender strife,
And put asunder man and wife.

"I visit every ships all around;
Where Satan is, I'm always found;
I am his worker, day and night,
His service is my chief delight.

"He is my captain and my guide,
I always stand close by his side;
Have killed more men (upon my word)
Than famine, pestilence, and sword.

"With my deceitful flattering tongue,
I draw to me both old and young;
And when I get them in my snare,
I chain them fast and keep them there.

"But temperance men I mostly dread,
For they are ruining my trade;
And if their cause should further go,
'Twill prove my final overthrow."

Thus Alcohol disclosed to me
His character and destiny;
Although a liar from his youth,
He once has blundered into truth.

Then Temperance men, be wide awake,
The fire begins to roar and quake;
Stand to your post, go hand in hand,
And drive this MONSTER from the land.

Signs that we are in Christ.

1. A sense of personal sinfulness and ill-desert, connected with a view of the all-sufficiency of Christ and the atonement. The prodigal affords an illustration of this. After he came to himself, he thought of the kindness of his father, and the abundant supplies of his house, which led him to return and acknowledge his guilt. His feelings were such that the father at once accepted him with the assurance of pardon.

2. A sense of our own unworthiness, connected with a sense of Christ's infinite worthiness. The centurion who felt his unworthiness that Christ should come under his roof, had great faith in the Saviour, and thus afforded great evidence that he was a child of God.

3. A sense of personal weakness, connected with a view of Christ's personal strength. See this illustrated in the case of the Syro-Phœnician woman, who begged mercy for herself and daughter.

4. A mind and determination to walk in all the commands and ordinances of the Lord.—"Whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected; hereby know we that we are in him."

5. Conscious pleasure in performing Christian duties. "I delight to do thy will, O my God: yea thy law is within my heart."

6. Warm and peculiar affection for God's people. This affection must arise, not from their natural amiableness of character and conduct, not from personal fear which they have done us, but from a discovered resemblance which Christians bear to their heavenly Father. "By this we know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren."

7. A disposition to run to Christ often, and especially in seasons of trial and affliction. "Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life." "Nothing time I am afraid, I will trust in thee." "Is any afflicted, let him pray."

8. A mind much occupied with thoughts of Christ—his character and works—his example and instructions.

9. Carefulness and watchfulness against sin, as disobedience to God, and rebellion against his government. A watchfulness against it, in thought, word, and deed.

10. Thoughts much on heaven, as the place where God manifests his glory, and imparts perfect happiness to the good.

11. A steady, onward course in all religious duties. A "patient continuance in well-doing, seeking for glory, and honor, and immortality."

12. Meekness under injuries and abuses.—"Charity suffereth long, and is kind: beareth all things; endureth all things; never faileth."

Agriculture.

Improved Stock.

Cornwallis, Kingston, K. C., April 10, 1856.

To the Editor of the Religious Intelligencer.—Sir,—Observing since the enlargement of your valuable paper that you have devoted a part of it to agricultural intelligence, and being well assured that you feel an interest in any thing that relates to the advancement of our farmers, whether as regards the improvement of the soil, the implements of husbandry required in its culture, or the different kinds of live stock that are employed to work the land, and feed in its produce, I trust you will have no objections to insert a few remarks on the latter subject in your journal, when a convenient opportunity presents itself. It is quite evident that during the past few years the want of an improvement in the horses, horned cattle and sheep of this Province have been very generally admitted; and great efforts have been made both by the Legislature, and private individuals to secure this boon, by the importation from England and other places, of a number of animals of the most approved descriptions of the various kinds of beasts that have been needed. Though it is certainly true that much good has already been effected by this means, yet it is a palpable fact, quite evident to every one at all acquainted with the subject, that much defectiveness still exists among the different kinds of breeds, and more particularly among horned cattle. Any one, who, like your correspondent has been brought up in Britain, and been accustomed to behold the Devons, the Herefords, and the Durhams of that Country, such creatures as are commonly seen here, do appear miserable indeed. I am of opinion that a judicious selection of the former kind from the counties of Devon and Somerset in England, and imported here, would do a vast deal towards the improvement of stock of this description. I speak particularly of the Devons, because I am firmly persuaded they are the best kind that can be brought here, having already witnessed some of the advantages that have followed such a course. A little more than two years ago, three yearling beasts of this sort,—two bulls, and one heifer were imported from England by Mr. Charles Veysey; the two bulls for the Kings County Union Agricultural Society, and the heifer for Mr. James Peters, of Kingston. These animals were selected by the importer, from the cattle of large farmers in the north of Devonshire, and were regarded by the Society for whom they were obtained, as very beautiful creatures. Unfortunately one of the bulls died during the following winter, and some time afterwards the Society breaking up, the other was sold at public auction, and purchased by Mr. Philip Dunn, of Cornwallis, in whose possession it still remains. Some people think that such cattle will not thrive here, and argue that the climate is ingenial to their prosperity; but any one who will take a look at this splendid animal, will at once be convinced of the contrary. Many people who have seen him, pronounce him to be the most beautiful animal of the kind ever seen in Kings County, and most likely in the Province. The calves that have been raised from him are truly beautiful; some of them actually resembling the calves of England. I think I never saw much more handsome calves there than two of them are—one of them is owned by Mr. Samuel Perkins, and the other by Mr. James Peters. The pure North Devon cattle are of a light red colour, and are distinguished for a large and powerful neck, which sometimes appears slightly curved in the most graceful manner,—full and wide breast, broad back, and very deep sides, with short legs,—an eye full of fire, and rather broad horns. None who have seen this kind of animals, will dispute their handsome appearance and beautiful symmetry. It is admitted on all sides that their flesh is of the most excellent flavour, and it is also considered by the most noted breeders of England, that they make the best kind of oxen; indeed any one at a glance must perceive that the formation of their body is admirably adapted to the yoke. There is no doubt whatever, that so far as the neighbourhood is concerned, that should the animals before alluded to live for any considerable length of time, the improvement in horned cattle will be so plain that the most careless observer will not fail to take notice of it.

I am, Mr. Editor, very truly yours,
A CORNWALLIS SUBSCRIBER.

Under Drains.

Some years ago the son of an English farmer came to the United States, and let himself as a farm labourer, in New York State, on the following conditions: commencing work at the first September, he was to work ten hours a day for three years, and to receive in payment a deed of a field containing twelve acres—securing himself by an agreement, by which his employer was put under bonds of $2,000 to fulfil his part of the contract; also, during these three years, he was to have the control of the field; to work it at his own expense, and to give his employer one-half the proceeds. The field lay under the south side of a hill, was of dark heavy clay, resting on a bluish-coloured solid clay sub-soil, and for many years previous, had not been known to yield anything but a yellowish, hard, stunted vegetation.

The farmer thought the young man was a simpleton, and that he, himself, was most wise and fortunate; but the former, nothing daunted by his opinion; which he was not unconscious the latter entertained of him, immediately hired a set of labourers, and set them to work in the field trenching, as earnestly as it was well possible for men to labor. In the morning and evening, before and after having worked his ten hours, as per agreement, he worked with them, and continued to work in this way until, about the middle of the following November, he had finished the laying of nearly 5,000 yards of good tile under-drains. He then had the field ploughed deep and thoroughly, and the earth thrown up as much as possible into ridges and thus let it remain during the winter. Next spring he had the field again ploughed as before, then cross-ploughed and thoroughly pulverized with a heavy harrow, then sowed it with oats and clover. The yield was excellent—nothing to be compared to it had ever been seen upon that field. Next year it gave two crops of clover, of a rich dark green, and enormously heavy and luxuriant; and the year following, after being manured at an expense of $7 an acre, nine acres of the field yielded 936 bushels of corn, and 25 wagon loads of pumpkins; while from the remaining three acres were taken 100 bushels of potatoes—the return of this crop being upwards of $1,200,—the time had now come for the field to fall into the young man's possession, and the farmer unhesitatingly offered him $1,500, to relinquish his title to it; and when this was unhesitatingly refused, he offered $2,000, which was accepted.

The young man's account stood thus:

Half proceeds of oats and straw first year,		$315 00
Half value of sheep pasturage, first year,		25 00
Half of first crop of clover, first year,		122 00
Half of second crop of clover, including seed, second year,		135 00
Half of sheep pasturage, second year,		15 00
Half of crops of corn, pumpkins and potatoes third year,		690 00
Received from farmer for relinquishment of title,		2,000 00
		$3,000 00
Amount Dr.
To under-draining, labor and tiles,	$325 00
To labor & manure, three seasons,	475 00
To labor given to farmer, $60 per month, thirty months,	675 00	1377 00
Balance in his favor,		$1,796 6

Our farmers must learn that knowledge and enterprise and perseverance exercised in their business, will not only add a hundred fold to their own income, but will also confer more permanent benefits upon our country than those qualities in the same degree in any other business whatever.—W. D. N. Y. Times.

How much more time will be required to convince our farmers of the necessity of underdraining? Those who have tried thorough draining and sub-soil ploughing with our account admit that their returns have been greater than the expense, while their land is left permanently improved for future operations. We have clearly proved that this treatment of land protects it entirely from the ill effects of drought; that less manure will produce an equal amount of crops; and have many times given the entire estimate to account for these truths.—Working Farmer.

☞ PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTH AMERICA.—HEALTH AND PEACE BE MULTIPLIED.—There is no doubt as to the certainty of the cures performed by Dr. LEAKY'S ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE and advice, in the following complaints:—Consumption, cured if in any reasonable time, before the lungs become disorganized; Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilious and Liver complaints; cure is warranted, provided the advice given is strictly complied with. The following testimonials ought to convince the most prejudiced of the value and efficacy of the ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE. I shall here insert a few names of the many certificates in my possession: Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. John Crawford, Mr. George Dunham, residence Indian Town. These persons were afflicted with Dyspepsia—Mrs. Jones, for several years, her case being despaired of, the Anglo-Saxon Medicine and advice completely cure in each case. Mrs. Jane Sims, and Mr. John Walsh, of Straight Shore, afflicted with Dyspepsia and Liver complaints, have been restored to good health by the use of a few bottles of the Anglo-Saxon Medicine and advice. The following persons from Carleton—Mr. James Dunham, consumption, Mrs. David Thomas, seven years with Dyspepsia, which terminated in consumption; Mrs. John Baker; dyspepsia and inflammation of the lungs; Mr. Edward Watters, confined to his bed for eight weeks with inward ulcers. These persons, by the use of the Anglo-Saxon Medicine, and advice, have been restored to good health. Mrs. Henry Evans, of this City, dyspepsia and inflammation of the lungs; Mr. William Sim, of Edinburgh, Scotland—complaint, dyspepsia—tried the best medical aid in that city, but to no effect; emigrated to Canada, in hopes of being benefited from the climate; consulted with physicians in Montreal, but no lasting benefit from their skill; removed to this City; tried all the remedies recommended for that distressing complaint, but, alas, his case was desperate, until he happened to alight on my advertisement in the Morning Courier. He gave the Anglo-Saxon Medicine a trial, and it has restored him to good health. Now fellow-citizens, and subjects of North America, I am willing you should exercise your own judgment; try all the good medicines in the market; if they should fail, please give my medicine a trial, as a last resource.

Hundreds in this City and its environs can testify with heartfelt thankfulness, the benefits from the ANGLO-SAXON MEDICINE. This day, March 19th, a gentleman from Greenwich, King's County, Mr. William Lawson informed me of a wonderful cure performed on a young woman, Miss Ann Elsom, who had for a year a scrofula complaint in her ankle—Astonishing to relate, half a vial of the Albion Liniment effected a cure. The Liniment and Anti-Cholera Medicine did not fail in one instance during the Cholera of 1848.

These Medicines I am prepared to warrant to cure the following complaints: Erysipelas, Cutaneous Sores, Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Painful Nervous Headache, Bites of Animals, Fever Sores or Chilblains, Sprains and Strains, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Burns, Contraction of the Muscles, Fresh Wounds, no matter how severe, will heal in forty eight hours; Inflammations of all kinds, whether of the Bowels or from wounds; Sore Throat, Colds, Pains in all parts of the body, Worm Fits in Children, rubbed in on the chest and bowels; White Swelling, King's Evil, Sores, Bath, all kinds of Sores and Ulcers. The mystery that attends this Liniment is daily coming to light from all parts of the country where it has been introduced.

Office, up to the First of May, No. 138 Prince William street. BENJAMIN LEAKY.

UNION HOTEL, Union Street, between Charlotte and Sydney streets, (near Market.)—The Proprietor of this Establishment, thankful for favors received during the period he occupied the New Brunswick Hotel, and convinced of the necessity of more and better accommodation for the public, has erected a large and substantial Building in Union Street, capable of accommodation from 70 to 80 Boarders. This House is well ventilated, the sleeping rooms are large, and every flat is well supplied with water, and also lighted with gas. The proprietor is determined to leave no means untried to merit the patronage of the community. Travellers arriving late at night will find the house always open, and ready to receive them; while the conveniences and moderate charges will render it sufficiently the home of the stranger. The tables to the house will be supplied with the best the market affords, and the Proprietor is determined to adhere strictly to the Total Abstinence principle. ☞ Two large Stables have been erected on the premises, capable of accommodating 50 or 70 horses. KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.—The Greatest of the Age.—Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds, a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOUR, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two. He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of the value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a running ear and mouth.

One or three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two or three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure earache and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.

Two or three bottles warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three or four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the very worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Nothing looks so impossible to those who have to wait until all the wonderful medicines of the day, so that a common weed, growing in the pastures, and along side stone walls should cure humor in the system; yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it has to start. There are no ifs nor ands about it, curing some cases, but not yours. He has bottled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston, and knows the effects of it in every case. It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. He gave it to children a year old; to old people of sixty; and has seen poor, puny looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to perfect state of health by one bottle.

To those who are subject to a sick headache one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief in catarrh and dimness. Some who have taken it have been costive for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound, it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings, but you must not be alarmed—they always disappear in from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it—on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you will feel yourself like a new person. I boast some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man uttered to.

No change of diet ever is required. Eat the best you can, and enough of it.
