surprise that they make such slow progress in the United States.

A farewell demonstration by the temperance men was given to Neal Dow at Liverpool, on the 23rd, Mr. Dow is a passenger per Canada.

FRANCE.—The Receiver General of taxes at Angiers had suspended through Bourse speculations, with a deficit in his accounts of £40,000.

The Daily News Paris correspondent writes that the Governor of the Bank of France went to Compiegne on Tuesday, prepared to ask the Emperor for a decree giving forced currency to bank notes; but it was not likely it would be granted. The bullion in the Bank of France is stated upon reliable authority to have decreased thirty-five millions of francs since the last monthly returns. Heavy failures are expected in Paris.

Gold is taken away from the Bank of France for America. Accounts from the departments through which the river Allier flows are very unfavorable. The waters were rising rapidly. The French three per cents. closed at 66,85

AUSTRIA.—The Vienna correspondent of the London Times writing on the 19th inst. says, that during the last two or three days there had been a lull in the financial pressure, but considered the probable crisis very far from being at an end.

Not improbable, other Italian States will follow the example of Parma in withdrawing from the Austrian Customs Union. A Switzerland letter from Zurich states that thirty commercial houses, principally in the silk Lyon trade had failed there.

ITALY.—The Pope was paying his promised visit to Civita Veechia, where he was greeted with various demonstrations of respect.

INDIA.—Nothing later. The steamer Rimo arrived at Southampton on the 22d, with a heavy portion of the last India mail and numerous passengers who made hair-breadth escapes from the Sepoys.

The Morning Star says, it is thoroughly understood that not only the premier but all the members of the Cabinet have finally arranged for the recall of the present Governor-General of India.

The Daily News makes an important announcement. It understands that the French Government have decided upon rescinding the prohibition against the export of corn and flour from France; to this step they are impelled in consequence of strong remonstrances from the agricultural districts. One likely effect of the measure, according to the Daily News will be to precipitate the fall of prices in the English corn market, which are already depressed by the high rate of interest, coupled with accounts from America. The Daily News has also another article of news which is interesting—that the East Indian Company are about to make some large remittances of silver to India, and that they have already effected insurances to the amount of at least two hundred thousand pounds. The policy now inaugurated by the East India Company will tend to aggravate the drain of silver at a time when it has already acquired very inconvenient proportions.

The Daily News remarks in conclusion that the period is evidenntly drawing near when the expenditure entailed by the Indian revolt will exercise a more direct influence upon the English market. The approaching drafts of two hundred thousand or half a million sterling in silver by the India House are trifles to the relief of the local government, and probably be only the first of a series of drafts upon this market.

Siege of Delhi.

The Bombay correspondent of the Times writes as follows:—

August 9.—Again has another fortnight passed since I last wrote, and although the time has been passed in fighting, and all sorts of unpleasantness, still it has passed very quickly. I am thankful to say I am up to this day. I had another narrow escape the day before yesterday, whilst standing in one of our batteries under a heavy shrapnell (which is a shall shell filled with bullets) burst directly over our heads. Some of the bullets hit me between my shoulders, knocking the breath so completely out of me, I was unable to say a single word for a few minutes and more. A tremendous bruise on my back makes me look like a secondary, is, I am thankful to say, the only one done. I am very stiff and sore, and black and blue. I have been most lucky in my wounds, insomuch as I have not been able to go on the sick list for them. I believe having to lie on a sick bed, while all the excitement was going on, would drive me crazy. I am most anxious for our triumphal rush into Delhi, and I pray that I may not be wounded, or obliged to give up before that. I wish to see those cowardly murderous villains all destroyed, for the evil they have brought on all. I have come up from one of our advanced outlying picquets, which is close to the walls of Delhi—so close, indeed, that the shot and shell that have been flying over our heads for a few days, in addition to the living fire they has made it perfectly impossible to show a wood. I am writing against time, as I have to go down to the picquet again to-morrow, and it is nearly sunset. Since my last letter started for England we have had a good deal of fighting; but the mutineers have now lost all heart, and do not fight at all the way they used to do. The only thing they get at anything in the way of a fight was given them on the night of the 1st. This being their grand day, the festival of the Eed, I was on this night in one of our principal batteries, with a party of my Guides, placed to protect the guns, and I shall never forget the scene that night, for the enemy came up in tremendous force at two in the morning of the 2d; the sight then was a most magnificent one, all our batteries and all the guns were playing as hard as they could, the shells bursting, the round shot crushing and smashing against the rocks, the rockets tearing with a whooshing sound through our embrasures, the carcases (or large balls of fire) flying over our heads, the musketry rolling and flashing, made the place as light as day.

The noise was terrific, though the roar of cannon was frequently drowned in the roar of human voices, for when the whole city turned out there could not have been less than 20,000 voices all screaming at once.—The mutineer' yell of "Allah! Allah! Allah! Allah Akbar, Allah Akbar!" was answered by our jolly English hurrahs, and the din was most frightful. I never remember seeing such a beautiful sight or hearing such a noise. The mutineers, although they tried very hard to take our batteries, could not succeed, though some of them got up near enough to throw hand-grenades into them.—The grand attack lasted two hours, when the enemy gave in a little, though they did not retire. The fighting went on all the rest of the night, and up to two o'clock the next day, when both sides retired. We were all glad enough for a little rest, as most of us had been fighting for upwards of thirty hours, as there was fighting all the day of the 1st; from that day until the 6th all was unusually quiet. On the latter day, however, the enemy again turned out, and have been harrassing us day and night ever since; they are now trying to tire us out. We, who are on picquet duty, are eternally under fire, night and day, and we have so few troops in camp that we never get a relief. The Guides have been perpetually on duty for nine weeks, with only two relefs, and we are all thoroughly knocked up. Only three of us have been able to stand it; all the rest are sick, or on sick leave to the hills. I am just as well as I ever have been, and have only been troubled with a slight cold and sore throat, which is now well Immense reinforcements will join us in a day or two, and then for Delhi."

At the occasion of laying the foundation stone of the Sheffield monument to those soldiers and sailors, natives of Sheffield and the district, who fell in the Russian War, the Duke of Cambridge at a collation made the following allusion to Indian affairs:—

"I feel confident," continued the Duke, "that the turning point is passed, and that the period is arrived when by degrees vast reinforcements will reach India from this country. When they have, they will be able to sweep through the land, restore and replace the proper authority (Cheers.) I trust that no undue leniency will be adopted. (Cheers.) That may appear a very harsh and unfeeling remark. ("No. no!") It is nothing of the kind. What does it mean? We have an army of 70,000 men who have mutinied nobody knows why. Are these 70,000 men to be allowed to go broadcast over the country, massacreing men, women, and children, without receiving the paishment due to such crimes? ('No, no,' and cheers) Just so, gentlemen; therefore, let us have justice. (Loud cheering.) Not undue, indiscriminate vengeance, but justice, stern justice. (Cheers.) We have a right to expect that those men shall be brought before proper tribunals and duly punished for the atrocious deeds they have committed. Less ought not to be done, I am sure the country will support all who have the manliness and courage to inflict that punishment. (Cheers.) I think it right to make these observations, for I know that they are sentiments which must pervade the breasts of every person in this great empire (Applause.) How does this great empire exist? It exists by its prestige—(hear, hear) —by the importance which it holds throughout the world. Therefore, its authority must be vindicated; that accomplished, and then it may be for us to consider what may be done to improve our position in India. (Hear, hear.) I have no doubt that on many occasions, faults, grave errors, may have been committed—(hear, hear)—but I ask you, gentlemen, if in the history of nations extending over a period of 100 years, it is not a natural consequence that errors should have been committed; and the only thing is that when they are discovered they should be rectified, that we should take care not to fall into those errors again. (Loud cheers.) That is the lesson which we should derive from these sad misfortunes which have now befallen us. I have on all occasions in my power advised my colleagues by saying, 'Whatever you do, have the country prepared for any emergency. (Cheers.) It was not for me to say what should be done for India, but I do say that this great engire must always be to a certain extent prepared for such disasters as that which has now come upon it. What has been our principle of action? We have cut down our establishments exactly to the point where we could go on working. (Cheers.) We have kept nothing for an emergency. Ask yourselves—is it right that a great country like this should be in that position? (Loud cheers)

I am not for extravagance, but I will put a case. Suppose you require 50,000 troops for duty, surely sensible men would have, at least 55,000, in order that 5,000 should be ready for any imergency that might arise, and for which the 50,000 would not be available, being employed on their own special duty. (Cheers) You cannot have efficiency if you have not the means at a moment's notice to vindicate the honour and position of the country. (Cheers). Now, gentlemen, we have had two important lessons, one after the other. We have had the Crimean war, which found us unprepared, and we have had the late disaster in India. I trust it will be admitted it is wonderful what has been done to meet that; but still it has been an immense exertion, and at this moment we are not without our difficulties. Well, gentlemen, two successive warnings should be a lesson for all time. (Loud cheers.) All I will now further say is that a great and intelligent country should not forget what it has seen happen so recently.

He began to sink under consumption a few months ago, and during the last seven weeks of his life was confined to his bed; finally expiring in full possession of his mental faculties, and commending his spirit to the Lord Jesus. He has left a widow, who accompanied his remains to this city, a mother, four sisters and brother, with numerous other friends to mourn his early departure. JOHN PERRY.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 27th, 1857.

THE SKIN is formed with thousands of pores in every inch of surface whose office it is to carry off the impurities of the blood—the acknowledged cause of all diseas of mankind—when the skin is dry and parched—when it is covered with eruptions—when it is cold and clammy—when there is inward fever or inflammation—it is impossible for the skin under these circumstances to perform its proper functions and to carry off the impurities from the body as designed by our Creator.

Morse's Indian Root Pills remove these obstructions, and produce free and healthy blood, remove the eruptions from the skin, and cause it to brighten with the flush of youth and beauty. Beauty is powerfully desired and loved. Beauty without paints and cosmetics—but beauty produced by health and happiness.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT are safe and certain remedies for Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Rheumatism, and cutaneous affections. The one acting externally and penetrating the pores, the other internally on the blood and the organs of digestion, purifying and renovating the vital mass, purifying of the body. Sold at the manufactories, No. 80, Maiden Lane, New York, and No. 244 Strand, London; and by all druggists, at 25c., 62 1-2c., and $1 per box or pot.

Valuable Medicine.

We presume no medical preparation ever offered to the public has been more thoroughly tested than PERRY DAVIS PAIN KILLER. Thousands of persons, were they called upon to do so, would cheerfully testify that they have used it for various ills, with the most satisfactory success. It is within our own knowledge, that an immense amount of suffering has been relieved by it. Its proprietors save no pains or expence in order to satisfy the public. Being strictly honorable men, they observe the utmost uniformity in the manufacture of their celebrated Pain Killer. The materials of which it is composed are carefully selected—none but the best being used. By these means the high reputation which the Pain Killer has long since acquired, is at all times sustained. In view of these facts, we are by no means surprised to learn that Messrs. Davis & Son's sales are constantly and rapidly increasing.—[Providence General Advertiser.

DR. C. M. JACKSON, LAWRENCE C. H., S. C., MAY 12, 1856.

DEAR SIR:—Allow me to return my thanks for the benefit I have received from the use of your Bitters. I was seriously afflicted with that terrible disease which has carried to the grave so many of my fellow-soldiers, Chronic Diarrhœa accompanied with Neuralgia, brought on by the climate of Mexico and the mode of living, while engaged in the war. The relief I have obtained from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters is astonishing; and I most cheerfully have, and still continue to recommend the Bitters to all who are similarly affected, believing that the benefit that will result from their use will be incalculable.

Very respectfully yours,
K. G. BILLINGS,

NORTH WESTERN HOME JOURNAL: OFFICE, Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7, 1856.

MESSRS. SETH W. FOWLE & CO., Boston,—Gentlemen: Your Oxygenated Bitters should be better known in the Western Country, for we have among us thousands who are suffering from Dyspepsia. I feel that I am indebted to your Bitters for my recovery from this awful disease. My habits at the time were sedentary; and my complaint was aggravated by too close confinement. I despaired of relief, and considered myself a hopeless dyspeptic. I concluded to try the Oxygenated Bitters, and a wise conclusion it proved to be. I have taken in all, four bottles, and I am cured. Although rather a small man, my present weight is 160 pounds. Your Bitters need only to be known to have a very extensive sale in this section of the country.

Respectfully, &c.,

DRESS-MAKING.

THE most perfect system for CUTTING and FITTING Ladies' and Children's Dresses, is the Provincial Ladies' Dress Scale,

Which entirely does away with the necessity of FITTING OR TRYING ON! The old method of "Pinning on Lining," and refitting once or twice, always was and is harrassing to the Ladies; and oftentimes the most costly materials are utterly spoilt. And again, ladies, if their Dress-Makers are very busy, have to call again, or remain until the hurry is over, before they can be fitted, as it takes time to fit by pinning on, and cannot be hurried or slighted without making misfits. This is entirely obviated by the "Provincial Ladies' Dress Scale." With this a Lady's measure can be taken in less than two minutes. She has no farther trouble: her dress can be made and sent to her, fitting perfectly. And why not? A gentleman can go to a Tailor and leave his measure for a coat; why cannot a lady leave her measure for a dress with a Dress-Maker? The gentleman does not fit on his Coat after it is basted to see where it should be altered; why should a Lady fit on her dress for that purpose? No reason whatever; if the "Provincial Ladies' Dress Scale" is used. By it all mis fits and vexation is impossible (providing the directions are followed strictly) as it is a simple, scientific rule, easily learned in about one hour!

Agents Wanted! in all parts of the Province. Persons who have learned the "Am. Ladies' Dress Charts System," can teach this. Agents supplied on the most liberal terms. DANIEL MORRISON, Teacher, Carlton, General Agent, for St. John and vicinity. Letters and orders to be addressed to
