Preposterous display

Last year around election time the SRC passed a resolution which limited the size of posters and restricted their location to the bulletin boards. This year, even though there are fewer candidates, there are more posters. And bigger posters.

They are posted on walls, doors, windows, trees, on staircases, near garbage disposals, in lavatories, and almost everywhere else, including, of course, some bulletin boards.

This disorderly proliferation of posters does nothing to encourage students to vote, and the rule passed last year should be enforced.

One location where there is some semblance of order is the Physics-Biology Building, in which the use of space for posters is restricted. Apparently unknown to the candidate whose letter appears on this page, the Dean of Science, Dr. Argue, has established a rule for his building, and sticks by it. Hence the neat appearance of the foyer. No one suffers unless they break his rule.

The SRC should stick to it's guns, and be neat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Petty People Pinching Peanuts Posters?

Editor:

I would like to pass on some information to the students of this campus, and to one student in particular.

During the past week campaigning for the SRC elections has been carried on, in some cases with enthusiasm, while in others with characteristic apathy. As a candidate for Science representative, I have addressed and placed a number of posters in buildings all over this campus. In particular, I did, with the help of friends, make some posters depicting "Peanuts" characters. The finished results were quite attractive and several hours of work went into their making! Unfortunately, within hours after two posters were placed in Loring Bailey Hall, they disappeared mysteriously. Not unduly alarmed or annoyed, I made arrangements to have them replaced. Again, within hours, the posters were removed. There are two possible explanations for these events. The first is that somebody on campus has a real "thing" about cartoon characters and finds himself compeled to collect posters. If this is the case, I invite the poor soul to help himself to the rest of my posters so that he will have the complete set.

The second possibility is that someone hopes very strongly that I will not be re-elected as Science Representative. As a free individual he has every right (and, in fact, duty) not to vote for me on January 26, as do any others who share his opinion. However, this does not give him the right to steal my property from Loring Bailey Hall and steal is the correct word to use.

If this individual is a member of the Science Faculty, may I say that I am ashamed for him since he apparently does not know enough to be ashamed for himself, but that if I am re-elected, I will do my best to represent all students of the Faculty of Science, including this rat-fink.

Thank you for the note, Miss Albert.

Editor:

Like everybody else we were glad to see the Yearbook finally published.

We do realize the amount of work that it takes to put it together, however, we would like to point out that our Dean is Dr. Katherine McLaggan. This has appeared as an error in every Yearbook since the Nursing Faculty has had graduates. We hope that this will be corrected for the fourth graduating class.

Marion Allen
Secretary-Nursing Society

We referred your remark to this year's Yearbook staff. John Short thanks Miss Allen and the others who commented on this error, which has been perpetuated for three years, and he says it has been corrected — Ed.

Yearbook editors thank staff for their work, which was better than ever before...

Editor:

The editors of Up The Hill, 1966 edition can hardly restrain themselves. It is amazing the turnout we have had of people willing to help us produce this yearbook.

Without their help, we would never be able to produce the quality of yearbook we desire, in time for distribution to graduates by mail and to undergraduates in time for registration in the fall.

We wish to thank them in advance for the work they will be doing the rest of this term.
