We would remind our readers, that William Wedderburn, Esquire, lectures on next Monday evening before the Mechanics' Institute. Subject: "Memorials of the Prince Consort."

At the annual general meeting of the Mutual Insurance Company of this City, the following gentlemen were elected office bearers for the current year—John Anderson, President; C. H. Estabrooks, Thos. M. Smith, Wm. Wright, and John Smith, Directors; John M. Robinson, Esq., Solicitor; I Woodward, Secretary;

We learn from the Deputy Treasurer at Saint Stephen that the Revenue, as we before stated, continues greatly to increase. Heretofore, along the border, large quantities of goods were smuggled into New Brunswick. Now many of the people of Maine pay duties to New Brunswick.—Pres.

The Country Market is generally well supplied. Hay is about $11 to $12 per ton; Butter 16 to 20 cents as put up; Eggs 18 to 20 cents per dozen; Mutton and Lamb 5 to 6 cents; Beef 3 to 5 cents; Pork 5 to 7 cents; Potatoes 60 cents to 70 cents; Sheep skins (with the wool off), $1.50 to $1,60.

American Exchange here is about 33 per cent. discount. Gold in the United States has had a downward tendency since our last, and the last Boston sales are reported at 156 to 157.—Pres.

The number of buildings erected in Montreal during the year 1862 was 552; and the number for the past eight years 3,278.

At no time before were the reports from New Zealand about the gold mines so favorable as by the latest accounts. Fortunes are being made with almost fabulous rapidity, and the rush thither is unprecedented. According to one local journal, the province of Otago was increasing its population by thousands every week. Otago occupies the southern part of the larger Island (New Munster), and is situated nearly under the 45th parallel of south latitude. The port of Dunedin was overflowing with passengers from Australia. Within one week, four ships had arrived at Port Chalmers, bringing thirty two hundred passengers. At the Dunstan diggings, three thousand one hundred and thirty-three ounces of gold were left with the police for transmission within five days. Yields of three or four ounces of yellow dust per day, per laborer, were thought of little account, and several were reported to be taking it out by the pound.

Among the articles reported as scarce are bank notes, wherewith to purchase the precious metal. All kinds of produce had advanced to extravagant prices, and rowdyism was becoming disgustingly prevalent.

The whole population of New Zealand, as ascertained by a census, before the gold excitement broke out, was 106,000, of which about 50 cent. was natives. But with this discovery it is probable that the foreign element has already doubled, and will continue to advance at an unusually rapid rate for years to come. The climate and soil are for the most part among the best on the globe, and the situation of the islands is well adapted to European constitutions.

ANTI-TOBACCO LECTURE.—The Rev. Geo. Trask will give a free lecture in the Representatives' Hall on Thursday evening (the 5th) at 7½ o'clock. Subject—The Injurious Effects of Tobacco on Individuals, on Church and State.—Boston Transcript.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

The Europa, with news to the 25th January, arrived at Halifax on Monday last, after a long and boisterous passage. Heavy gales had raged along the whole British coast, accompanied with rain, hail and snow, and thunder and lightning. A rise in the value of money, and a continued efflux of gold, had affected commercial transactions, but a tendency to reaction was noticed. Consols 92¾. Lord Palmerston, as is his wont, issued his usual circular previous to the opening of the House to his supporters; and Mr. Disraeli, who leads the Opposition, has done the same. The House met on the 5th of this month, and early in the session it is thought a strong effort will be made to defeat the Government on Earl Russell's foreign policy. Le Nord says that M. Drouyn d'Lhuys has proposed to the Government at Washington the convocation of an American Congress to settle the affairs of the United States. A statement has found its way into print to the effect that, through the medium of cotton warrants, the Confederate Government is doing a large business with the merchants of England. "These warrants," says the correspondent of a provincial journal, "are undertakings to deliver so much cotton, at a fixed price—in the case mentioned to me of from 3d. 4d. per pound—so many days after sight, at any of the Confederate ports, after the recognition of the Confederacy. The Mexican war does not appear to be very popular in France, yet new reinforcements are being sent forward rapidly. Six-thousand men are now under orders to set out. Le Pays of the 23d says:—We believe we are able to state that the Government of the Emperor has addressed a communication to Washington proposing "officiously," the means of an arrangement between the belligerents, which would fully protect the amour propre and dignity of the Americans.

The Duke of Coburg accepts the vacant Greek throne, providing the house of Bavaria, to which the ex-King Otho belongs, renounces its right. Russia it is said protests against he of Coburg, on the ground that he is related to the Royal family of England. The Prussian Chamber of Deputies is again in session, and seems determined not to give up its rights. It protests strongly against the violation of the constitution by ministers, and declares that peace at home and power abroad can only be secured by the Government adhering to the constitutional state of things. Insurrectionary outbreaks in Poland are reported.

The Times, in an article on the Galway subsidy, suggests that, as it is a small affair, the Government, to keep Ireland quiet, had better allow the grant. In order to secure the support of the Irish members in the coming ministerial struggle in the House of Commons, the Government, it is said, will give the money.

UNITED STATES.

The news from the Seat of War is meagre. Operations reported are more of a preparatory character than decisive.

The attack upon Charleston is momentarily expected. The determination to attack it was hastened by a sudden raid of Confederate iron-clads upon the blockading fleet. It appears that about 4 o'clock on the morning of the 31st ult., Commodore Ingraham, with two gunboats and three small steamers, moved out of the harbor, and attacked the Federal ships with such vigor as to compel them to put to sea more or less disabled. Beauregard and Ingraham, as commanders respectively of the land and naval forces of the Confederacy, thereupon declared the blockade raised, and formally notified the foreign consuls of the fact. The blockade was, however, resumed early the following morning, and the Federal Government will not allow that it has been interrupted.

The operations against Port Hudson have been delayed—partly in consequence of the inefficiency of the force under Gen. Banks, but mainly in consequence of the want of medical stores. It seems that the Medical Department, not knowing where the expedition was going, but suspecting that it was to act against Richmond, sent all the medical stores to James River! If this be true, it proves that there is such a thing as keeping a secret too well. Port Hudson is safe at all events for the present.

The attack upon Vicksburg is proceeding. The Federal force is vastly greater than that engaged in the last attack. It comprises 80,000 men, besides fourteen gunboats and two hundred steamers and transports. Nothing important has yet been effected. The Confederates shot the chief of cavalry on Gen. McClernand's staff a few days ago, and secured upon his person a memorandum book containing full abstracts of the numbers and calibre of the forces and guns of the Federal Generals, their available character, their artillery, and everything they wanted to know; even the projects respecting the famous "cut-off" canal, upon which work has been recommenced.

The Federal Government finding it hopeless to obtain a sufficient number of men to carry on the war, for the subjugation of the South, has resolved to call upon the negroes to help them. One hundred and fifty thousand are to be embodied, but it has been ascertained that there are only 22,000 available in all the Northern States. The Governor of Massachusetts has commenced recruiting a negro regiment at Fortress Monroe. The men are to have red trowsers, with a view, it is supposed, of inspiring them with true military ardor.—Ch. Witness.

General McClellan is undoubtedly the most popular man in America. A great display was made in connection with his recent visit to Boston.

The levee or public reception of Gen. McClellan at the Tremont House was a crowded and enthusiastic popular demonstration. Shortly before noon the officers of the army, including many of the wounded, paid their respects to the General in a body. Next the City Government, headed by Mayor Lincoln, were introduced. In the meantime the hall and reception parlors of the hotel were rapidly being filled, and a crowd of from seven to ten thousand people gathered in the vicinity. A strong police force preserved order and so far as the limited space of the hotel would admit, the crowd were allowed to press through and shake the General's hand. Some ladies managed to enter with the crowd, and several wounded soldiers. To the latter, Gen. McClellan addressed special words of sympathy. The reception closed at 3 o'clock, but in response to urgent demands from the mass who were unable to enter the building, the General appeared for a few minutes on the portico of the hotel and bowed his thanks. He was enthusiastically cheered. Father Taylor, the well-known sailor's preacher, said, as he shook hands with the General, "God bless the General who is the soldiers' choice." Occasionally a soldier would pass in the throng, and to such the General would speak a kindly word. One said, "May God bless you General." Another soldier got down on his knees and kissed his hands. One officer from New York, who was severely wounded at Fredericksburg, described the part taken by his regiment, to which the General said: "I am sorry you could not get through your last battle without getting hit, after escaping so many." The officer answered, "I might, General, if you had been there." Many of the leading places of business in the city were closed, and the proprietors and employers alike joined in the demonstration of respect toward the General. There was quite a large number present from distant parts of the State and also from adjoining States. Among the latter was a delegation of about 100 citizens from Portland and vicinity, who arrived by special train.

Last week Mr. Eldridge, of Beacon street, gave Gen. McClellan a levee for which eight hundred invitations were issued, and William Gray, Esq., of Mt. Vernon street gave another, for which six hundred invitations were sent out.

"How long will the rebellion continue?" In answer to this question, the Advocate of Peace says:

No wise man will venture to guess; but from its origin, we have had but one opinion respecting its utter desperation. It is the death struggle of a slave-holding aristocracy to fortify, perpetuate, and extend their sway through slavery, as the basis of their power, over our whole country, and ultimately over this continent. A more desperate game was never attempted since Satan fell; and it is easy to foresee that such men as the leaders, staking every thing on the issue, and continually working with a halter about their necks, would push the conflict, if they could only keep their hold upon their deluded followers, almost literally to the last man and the last dollar. Before reaching such a climax of desperation, there is yet a long way; and we are prepared to see the struggle become more and more desperate and furious, until the rebel States shall all be exhausted of men and money, to carry it on; or the people, opening their eyes at length to the despotic madness of their leaders, shall abandon them to their fate, and thus return themselves to loyalty, peace, and prosperity.

The danger of the North is thus stated in the Morning Star:

This lies not in direct defeat. Our arms have indeed met with sad reverses; and what aggravates the mortification almost intolerably, is the fact that most of them were caused by the treachery of officers high in command. The first Bull Run repulse, it is well known, was owing wholly to the shameful delinquency of Patterson and Miles. Had they acted a manly part on that occasion, there can be no question but the rebel forces would have been utterly routed, Richmond have fallen an easy prey, and the rebellion long since have been subdued. And as though one such scene on that ill-fated field were not enough, we now have the decision of a court martial attaching the like infamy to General Porter, in connection with the second battle of Bull Run, last August. Had he supported his commander, General Pope, as he was ordered to do, and refused, that defeat would also have been a victory of the most decisive character.

Men may complain of the Government, if they will; they may complain of the army, of the people; but with whatever faults they are chargeable, here is not the difficulty. The main evil is treachery; at the South it is open, rampant, defiant; at the North it is latent, subtle, hypocritical, but no less living and active. Should the nation be ruined, it will be through treachery. It will seek any place, and assume any form, to accomplish its hellish purpose.

It is just now putting on a mock exterior, and urging peace; by which it really seeks to give up all that honest men have been struggling for, and all that is worth struggling for, to make a menial compromise and surrender of human rights to rebel usurpations. It becomes every good man to be on the alert. We believe there is wisdom enough, and virtue enough, in the people, to thwart all these base schemes; but it will require all our vigilance and firmness to accomplish the work.

The change in popular feeling in regard to the war, is referred to by the Methodist, as follows:

When we look back through a year of our national history we can see evidence of a great change of popular feeling. A year ago we were awaiting with confidence the opening of the campaign which should lead our victorious soldiers to Richmond and end the war. The rebellion was to be speedily crushed, its leaders captured, and its military array scattered to the winds. To-day many well meaning citizens are in a state bordering on despair, and nervously ask whether there is any hope for the Republic.

We see now that it was unreasonable to be so excessively sanguine; it is equally unreasonable to day to be excessively despondent. Then we underestimated the magnitude of our undertaking; now we are liable to underrate our power and the extent of our resources. We forgot then that we were without practical experience in the raising, equipping, and handling the vast armaments which were deemed necessary for the vindication of the authority of the Union. We are forgetting now that we have acquired experience, that we have trained our soldiers, tested our generals, so that men of undisputed merit are surely rising to their proper positions. At present many of our citizens are fretful, captious, and almost ready, if not to succumb to rebellion, at least to make with it an inglorious peace.

WHOOPING COUGH, OR COUGHS WITH CHILDREN.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" or Cough Lozenges are efficacious with children laboring from this Disorder, Hoarseness or other affections of the chest, having a soothing influence, assisting expectoration, and preventing an accumulation of phlegm, which often causes a sense of suffocation so common with this cough.

THE ERA OF GREAT EVENTS.—REAL BENEFITS TO HUMANITY.—This is an era of grand ideas and magnificent projects; but, among them all, there are comparatively few which have for their aim and object the best interests of humanity. New methods of expediting business are continually being introduced, but what do they add to the happiness or comfort of mankind? Nothing. One mind, with all its powers directed to the amelioration of suffering, has accomplished more for the real good of the race than all the inventors engaged in the attempt to abridge time and space can ever achieve. We allude to THOMAS HOLLOWAY, whose PILLS and OINTMENT may be said to be omnipresent throughout the world. The Pills are working such wonders in cases of confirmed dyspepsia, that physicians everywhere are compelled to prescribe them, and the time is not distant when, for all diseases of the stomach and bowels, they will be the only preparation which any intelligent individual will dare to use. Millions of dollars have been expended in making Dr. Holloway's medicines known; and they are known in every land where there is a written language. In this country they are especially appreciated, for there is scarcely a complaint incident to our climate for which they are not absolute specifics. Under such circumstances, the enormous and ever-increasing demand for them scarcely seems extraordinary, although it has no parallel in medical history.—N. Y. "Courier."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—DIPTHERIA.—In the most virulent stages of this malignant disease of the throat, these medicines experienced the most successful results—while thousands succumbed to the violence of this disorder, not a single disease occurred among those who used these remedies, thus presenting an "oasis" of practical experience, 'mid the desert of death of speculative theory. The Royal College of Surgeons awarded them the palm of victory as the only antidote for this distemper, by introducing them into the new edition of their pharmacalogia. In Scarlatina, mumps, &c., they are equally efficacious. Sold by all Druggists, at 25c., 62c. and $1 per box or pot. 206

Mansfield's Dispensary says that most of the Sarsaparilla of the shops is inert and worthless. Dr Ayer in his writings on this drug states that not only is it inert as found in the shops, but so also are most of the preparations from it, or bearing its name. He shows however that this fact arises from the use of worthless varieties, or unskillful preparations by incompetent men: that the true Medicinal Sarsaparilla (Smilax off.) of the tropics, when freshly gathered in the bud, is one of the most effectual alteratives we possess. Combined with other substances of great alterative power, like Iodine, Stillingia, Dock &c., it makes Ayer's Compound Extract, which we have reason to believe is one of the most effectual remedies for humors, skin diseases and for purifying the blood which has ever yet been found by any body.—*Bangor (Me.)
