We learn that LeBaron Botsford, Esq., M. D., one of the Vice-Presidents, has been unanimously chosen President of the New Brunswick Auxiliary Bible Society in the room of the late Hon. W. B. Kinnear. The following gentlemen have been chosen Vice-Presidents of the Society:—W. J. Starr, Esq., H. W. Frith, Esq., T. W. Daniel, Esq., and John Fisher, Esq. The committee of the Society passed a feeling and just tribute to the memory of their late esteemed President.—Journal.

RESTIGOUCHE ELECTION.—The election for the Commons seat, vacated by Hon. Mr. McMillan's acceptance of the office of Inspector of Post Offices, took place on Wednesday last. Mr. Caldwell was returned by a majority of 47; the vote being—Caldwell, 353; Moffatt, 306.

The News says a man, living near Marsh Bridge, while beating his wife, broke her arm. On Saturday a woman who was washing in the house received from him a similar attack.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock on Saturday morning, fire was discovered in a building in Union Street, occupied by Geo. Wilson as a carriage and sleigh house. It was extinguished after having done little damage. The Fire Alarm worked well on this occasion.

The Telegraph reports the existence of a valuable deposit of granite in property belonging to Mr. Matthew Ferguson, near Rothsay. It lies within a few rods of the railway and the Kennebecasis.

☞ We are informed that about one o'clock on Sunday morning last, two musket shots were fired into the dwelling house of Mr. John B. Bradley, who resides at the Saint Mary's ferry landing, by some miscreants, who evidently intended serious mischief to some one, and it is supposed to Mr. Bradley himself. Four slugs or balls passed through the window and lodged in a panel door; five more, together with some small shots were found embedded on one side of the window frame. Mr. Bradley is of opinion that as the shots were fired from the opposite side of the street, and took the direction of his bedroon, that the intention was to shoot him while in bed. On the following Wednesday night his shop was broken into, and appearances seem to indicate that an attempt was made to set it on fire. It is to be hoped that sooner or later the parties will be discovered, and receive the punishment they so justly merit.

THE BRANCH RAILWAY is proceeding at a satisfactory rate, and the cuttings at this end of the line are nearly completed. That on Dolan's farm is the heaviest, it being in one place 29 feet deep. At the foot of McKay's hill through the property known as the "Rocks" there is quite a heavy piece of work; it is, however, well under way. We can see no reason at present, why by next Christmas a locomotive should not be able to pass over the whole line.—Elton Farmer.

FIRE.—A fire broke out about two o'clock this morning, in the barn in the rear of Mr. Walter Broderick's dwelling house, King Street, near Regent. A very strong wind was blowing at the time, and in spite of every exertion, it was found impossible to check the progress of the flames until they had reached the street, destroying in their way a number of barns, sheds, and two dwelling houses, one occupied by Mr. Broderick, and the other by Mr. Scully. Mr. Broderick was, we are told, well insured.—Ib.

NOVA SCOTIA.

A most melancholy accident occurred at the Six Mile Brook, in this County, on Wednesday last, which resulted in the instantaneous death of a young man named John Ross. He was pursuing some dogs which had been killing sheep, and leaving his gun loaded, standing among some bushes, went into a neighbor's house where he partook of breakfast and then left. Shortly afterwards he was discovered by some scholars going to school. He was then quite dead. It is supposed that while drawing the gun out of the bushes a twig raised the hammer and discharged the gun. The ball went into the left breast, passed through the chest to the right side, causing instant death. An inquest was held on the body before W. H. Harris, Esq., and a verdict returned in accordance with the above. The deceased, who was recently married, was a young man much esteemed, and his untimely death is deeply deplored in the community.—Pictou Standard.

GENEROUS.—The employees on the Nova Scotia Railway numbering between one and two hundred, have contributed each a day's pay to the fund for the relief of distressed firshermen.

We hope that the remonstrances of the New Brunswick press will be heard at Ottawa. Nova Scotia is opposed to the tax on Newspapers quite as strongly as New Brunswick. Parliament is about to meet again. Among its first acts should be the relieving of flour and all breadstuffs from duty, and the amending of the postage law so far as to permit the free carrying of newspapers and small periodicals. A change to this extent would give great satisfaction to the Unionists of the sea Provinces and materially weaken the opposition to the Dominion.—Halifax Witness.

A shoemaker who made a pair of boots for H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburg, during his recent visit to Melbourne, has had his shop besieged ever since by persons desirous of obtaining models of the boots made for the Prince, and becoming thoroughly conversant with the size and shape of the royal foot!

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 5.

In the House of Commons, this evening, Mr. Disraeli appeared for the first time since the resignation of Lord Derby.

Upon entering, he was received with loud cheers from both Government and opposition benches.

Mr. Disraeli soon afterwards rose, and after giving notice of the introduction of certain measures relating to Scotland and Ireland, referred to the retirement of Lord Derby, saying his colleagues were loth to sever their connections with such a leader. No language could express their estimate of the character and career of such a chief, and they all most earnestly hoped for his restoration to health and power.

Mr. Disraeli then proceeded to say that her Majesty had been pleased to entrust to him the task of forming a Government, and he could not decline so gracious an offer, accompanied as it was by the generous support of his colleagues.

In domestic affairs the policy of Lord Derby, during the last two years of his administration would be followed by the Ministry, and in Foreign Affairs the policy of Lord Stanley would be adhered to.

This would be a policy of peace, not one of isolation, but one of generous sympathy and regard for our own interests and that of other nations. Such a polity would never lessen the influence or the dignity of England, based as it was upon esteem and respect. The domestic policy of the new Government would be a liberal one. (Cheers and laughter.)

Earl Russell declared that no confidence could be placed in a policy which was always saying one thing and meaning another. He said that the Liberal members had given their support to Lord Derby in his pledge to bring about a reduction of the franchise, but none had in reality been made. Such a mode of conducting a party was unprecedented.

LONDON, March 6.

The prisoners who were on trial at Warwick for Fenianism, Messrs. Burke, Casey and Shean, were brought to Newgate to-day to guard against a possible rescue. The prisoners were escorted by a body of twenty policemen. There were, however, no attempts at release.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has released from confinement, William Johnson, Grand Secretary of the Orangemen, who was sentenced to fine and imprisonment for leading an illegal procession.

It is said that Russia has been strongly working for the independent union of the Danubian Principalities.

Late dispatches from China and Japan are received via India. The civil war in Japan raged with great violence; several combats han taken place between partizans—the Shagom and the Daimois—which were attended with heavy losses of life, and great excesses were committed on both sides.

In consequence of the insecure condition of the country, the Ministers of foreign powers had all left Osaka.

A despatch from Annesley Bay, says the advance of the British Expedition was awaiting at Antolo the appearance of Kussin, Prince of Tigre, who had promised to meet Gen. Napier there with a large force of native troops.

LONDON, March 7.

In the House of Commons last evening, Mr. Shaw Lefevre called up the question of the "Alabama" claims. After eulogizing the course of Mr. Adams on this and other questions, Mr. Lefevre continued—"An arbitration of the matter had been proposed by the American Government, but refused by Lord Russell, who repelled the suggestion."

Lord Stanley praised the pacific tone of Mr. Lefevre, and warmly complimented Mr. Adams for the conciliatory spirit he displayed on the subject under discussion. He concluded by advising the appointment of a mixed Commission, for the proper adjustment of the question.

John Stuart Mills, W. E. Gladstone, Mr. Forster, and others, took part in the debate.

LONDON, March 8.

Nearly all the leading journals have editorial articles on the debate in Parliament on Friday night on the Alabama claims.

The Times says the debate must convince the United States that England wishes to settle the law in this case in the American sense, and that the failure of Great Britain to refer the Alabama claims to arbitration is due to no desire to avoid her just obligations. Mr. Seward has only to meet Lord Stanly in a like spirit to end this misunderstanding.

The tone of the articles in the other journals is generally the same.

LONDON, March 10.

The War Office Department has just received additional despatches from the Commander-in Chief of the army in Abyssinia. The military situation at the English front is unchanged. King Theodore treats the prisoners more leniently, and begins to regard them with a more friendly spirit. Mr. Rassam, a captive official of the Queen, thinks the King detains him merely until the English troops arrive at or near the Royal headquarters when he will be set free.

The Morning Post in an editorial on the subject of Irish Reform, says the plan which will be pursued by the new Government under D'Israeli in regard to Ireland, is as follows:

First, The consideration of the Church question will be put off until the Commission on the Irish Church establishment already appointed shall have made their report.

Second, The Commission will also be appointed to inquire into the relation of landlords and tenants in Ireland.

Third, A charter will be granted for the new Roman Catholic University.

Fourth, Irish railways are to be subsidized by the Government.

The Prince of Wales will soon make a visit to Ireland, where he is to be made a knight of the order of Saint Patrick.

The Fenians who were captured at Merthyr, Tydvil, in Wales, have been indicted for treason, and will be tried at the Swansea assizes.

Despatches from Annessley Bay say King Theodorus has arrived in the immediate neighborhood of Magdala with his troops and war material. The advance of the British Expedition was steadily pushing ahead under General Napier, and at last accounts was four days march beyond the village of Attergal.

The shipments of Cotton from Bombay during the last two weeks of February foot up 30,000 bales.

UNITED STATES.

IMPEACHMENT OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—The deed is done at last. Congress and the country have borne for two full years with Andrew Johnson's egotism and stubbornness, his defiance of public sentiment, his perversions of facts, his quarrels with the co-ordinate branches and officers of the government, and his evasions and infractions of the laws which he had sworn to execute. They have been considerate, forbearing and anxious to escape the disagreeable necessity of pronouncing the President of the United States guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors. They long ago lost all faith in his character, and became convinced that he was bent on breaking down whatever he could not bend to his purposes. That he morally deserved impeachment and deposition was obvious enough. That his presence disgraced the White House, and that his procedure was bringing fresh calamities upon the country, was too plain to be questioned. But they hoped it would be possible and practicable to endure the burden until his term of office expired, and that the grievous public humiliation might be spared us.

It was a vain hope. His slight successes have emboldened him; his defeats have angered him; the vote against impeachment in the House two months since made him presumptuous and reckless. To gratify his spite against Mr. Stanton, to bully Congress, to gain power and frighten opposition into concessions and subserviency, he openly trampled upon a plain statute, after seeking in vain to cajole the military leaders of the country into the support of his plans. He has thus shown how desperate and dangerous a man he is, and left no alternative to Congress but to master or submit to him. When that issue came, there was, as there ought to be, neither hesitation, delay nor division among the members of the dominant party in Congress. They snatched up the glove which he threw at their feet almost before it touched the floor. The ringing response which met his challenge went over the country like a bugle peal. Since the first shot against Sumter, there has been no deed which electrified the loyal party like this audacious blow of the President, and the spirit of '61 has come to us.

There is a calm and almost sad dignity mingling itself with this promptness. There is no passionate surface-heat in the words of Congress which describe the President's crime and demand its punishment. Impeachment is properly felt to be a grave and solemn proceeding. The determination is settled and stern but free from passionate vehemence. The articles are carefully drawn and the trial will go forward with true deliberation, but no needless delays or pettifogging hinderances will be tolerated. No revengeful blows will be struck, though so many have been invited, but they will be dealt with the strength and steadiness of a mighty purpose and with the severity and certainty of justice. The majesty of the Republic must be sustained. It will be sad to drag a convicted President from his high position, but it would be pitiable not to do it. And if the charges are sustained, it will be done; and then the loyal people will breath freer, give out one long sigh of relief, and go on in a calm confidence to complete the work of reconstruction which he has delayed only to make it more thorough and complete.

The quietude of the country is cheering and suggestive. So soon as the prospective action of Congress was known, the excitement disappeared. The attempt to create a panic, political or commercial, wholly failed. The bulls and bears of Wall St. could not keep gold up beyond its previous level. Mr. Brooks declared he would never submit, and assured us that three fourths of the army would rally around the White House; despatches offering troops were sent to Washington by irresponsible men to work off their own choler or make a sensation; all sorts of threats and rumors were blown into the air; but nobody was alarmed. Mr. Johnson will by no means venture upon ultimate and desperate measures. He lacks the stuff of which martyrs are made; and his talk about his willingness to be made a sacrifice for the country's sake is half a deprecatory plea and half a speech for buncombe. Thoughtfully and yet resolutely, as becomes a people when busy with so grave a duty, we shall go on to the end of this great trial; and its lesson will not be lost upon other men who dare to break the laws which they are set to execute and betray the country which trusts its interests to their keeping.—Morning Star.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—Advices from Victoria of the 7th, stated that there is excitement there over the threats of the Fenians.

Then in heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed.

When stainless childhood dieth,
Oh! turn ye not in gloom,
Saying, "Lo here he lieth!"—
"The spirit hath no tomb."
And within the Father's mansions,
For childhood there is room.

His little garments round you
Shall wake your willing tears—
His little books surround you,
The record of his years;
But for his future welfare
Have you no earthly fears?

He who blessed little children
Hath not withdrawn his love;
The loved death maketh angels
Around our path to move;
And, though unseen, beside thee
Thy little one may rove.

Then weep you not in sorrow,
That he hath gone before,
For the shell Life's ocean stranded
Hath found the eternal shore;
The morning flower transplanted,
Shall meet with death no more."
