POETRY.

DEATH.

"Death once seen at our hearth, leaveth a shadow, which abideth forever."

The black cloud gathereth on the mountain top,
But passeth soon, and all again is light;
The mountain's brow, untouch'd by shadows, still
Looketh again to Heav'n, unchanged and bright.

Clouds darken for awhile the placid stream
That mirrors in its wave the changing sky;
But the deep shadow dwells no longer there
When the o'erhanging vapour hath passed by.

In the green valley, upon tree and flower,
The low'ring clouds may for a season rest;
But the sun shineth, and each gilded leaf
Is in a brighter robe of beauty drest.

But when the wing of the sad angel, Death,
Darkeneth the home, that was so bright before,
It leaveth there, upon the lonely hearth,
A shadow that abideth evermore!

VARIETY.

Ancestry of the Duke of Wellington.—It is not very generally known that the name of Wellesley was formerly written Wesley, and that the family was the same as that of John Wesley, the preacher. If we mistake not, the Duke of Wellington, in his earliest commission, is styled "Arthur Wesley." The name of Wellesley was merely assumed by the duke's grandfather, Richard Colley, Esquire, (afterwards created Lord Mornington,) on his succeeding, by bequest, to the estates of his cousin, Garret Wesley, Esq., of Dangan, son of his grand aunt, Elizabeth Colley. Their illustrious descendant, Arthur, Duke of Wellington, was born on the 1st of May, 1769 (a year celebrated for the birth of many distinguished men—Napoleon, Soult, Mehemet Ali, and Walter Scott,) the third son of Garrett, Earl of Mornington, and Anne, his Countess, daughter of Arthur, first Viscount Dungannon. His birth-place was Dungan, near Trim, in the county of Meath, Ireland.—From Bell's Life in London.

The London "Times."—Many years ago a joint stock company was formed for the purpose of establishing a London daily journal. The journal was named "The Times." On its first appearance it was a small, dingy-looking sheet; but as it possessed talents which forced it into notice, it soon attracted public attention, and gradually increased in size, power, and influence. The property is, at the present time, divided into twenty-four shares—sixteen belong to Mr. John Walter. The political opinions of the journal are directed by the majority of votes on the part of the shareholders; and thus, as Mr. Walter possesses two-thirds of the entire property, his voice alone controls the bias of the journal.

The "Times" is of course, excellent property. It is said that Mr. Walter gave his daughter, as her wedding portion, the profits of the first column of advertisements in the first page of the journal—a splendid fortune. It never grants credit to any one, and is, in every sense of the phrase, a ready money concern. Every notice of a death or marriage is charged for—the simplest announcement not being inserted for less than seven shillings and sixpence, nearly two dollars. The value of the "Times," in a purely commercial point of view, is £312,000, each share being worth £13,000. The annual profit of the "Times" is about £45,000, of which Mr. Walter receives, as his portion, £30,000—a very pretty little income!

Charitable Relief.—The donations received by the General Committee for the relief of the sufferers by the late distressing fires in Quebec, amount to the very liberal sum of £149,248. Of this sum, £103,033 were received from Great Britain, £12,393 from the citizens of Quebec, £13,090 from those of Montreal, and £7000 from the Provincial Government of Canada.

The late Catholic Bishop Dubois, of New York, said, "I have found that the laboring classes under my charge, in the city of New-York, pay for drams alone at the grog-shops, $900,000 annually. This money saved to them and converted into comfortable dwellings, better clothing, better schools to educate their children, would soon elevate them to a condition and a respectability which would do honor to the country of their adoption, and make them its most powerful defenders.

A Discovery.—In the Farmers' Library, for January, conducted by John S. Skinner, and published in New York, at the Tribune Office, is the announcement of an extraordinary discovery, which, if true will be of much value to the farmer, who deals in butter and cheese. The discovery is said to have been made in France, and is as follows—that the quantity and quality of milk which cows will give can be unerringly ascertained by external marks and appearances on the animal.—This discovery is said to have made much noise in France—and the translation of a treatise on the subject will be published in the next number of the Library.

A French paper states that the priests of Rome, to whom the Emperor Nicholas left 53,000 francs for distribution among the poor, have requested the Russian Minister to distribute the money, as they cannot accept alms from so desperate an enemy to the faith.

Horrible.—A colored man died recently of the small pox, at the head of South river, near Annapolis, Md., and so great was the fear of his neighbors that his house was fired, and his corpse with all that the building contained, consumed! He died because every body deserted him in his sickness.

Successful Industry.—The Prague Gazette mentions a Jewish merchant named Sedekaur, who lately died in that city at the age of sixty. This person arrived at Prague, about fifty years since, on foot, and without a sous, but by his industry and the simplicity of his manner of living, he acquired a fortune of nearly six millions, which he has devoted in great part to the encouragement of the arts, sciences and trades, and for the help of the unfortunate of every condition and without any distinction of race. About two millions and a half have fallen to the share of the most noted institutions of benevolence in the principal cities of Bohemia.

Prof. Maffit's Religion.—This gentleman in accepting an invitation to lecture in Oswego, said, "I am a Methodist Christian, but my religion is not confined, nor intolerant, nor bigoted.—It is as free as air, and as sweet as Heaven.

Tasso's Wish.—Tasso being told that he had an opportunity of taking advantage of a bitter enemy, said, "I wish not to plunder him: but there are things I wish to take from him—not his honor, his wealth, nor his life, but his ill will."

One at a Time.—In a western city, which shall be nameless, a sheriff's deputy in attendance on the courts of justice, was ordered by the judge to call John Bell and Elizabeth Bell. He immediately began at the top of his lungs—

"John Bell and Elizabeth Bell!"

"One at time," said the judge.

"One at a time—one at a time—ONE AT A TIME!" shouted the crier.

"Now you've done it," exclaimed the judge, out of patience.

"Now you've done it—now you've done it—NOW YOU'VE DONE IT!" yelled the deputy.

There was no standing this; the court, bar and bystanders broke into a hearty laugh, to the perfect surprise and dismay of the astonished crier.

Whale Story.—The New-Bedford Mercury states that the Sarah, at Mattapoisett, from Atlantic Ocean, took a hundred-barrel sperm whale, in the blubber of which was found the head and about a foot of the shank of a harpoon marked "Lyra," "undoubtedly"—says the Mercury—"belonging to the ship Lyra of this port, which vessel sailed hence July 3, 1828, and was lost in August, 1829, on a reef near Oahu." This is a strange adventure for a piece of iron, but by no means improbable.

Pinafore Patriots.—At the Repeal Association, a Mr. M'Keon melted the hearts of his hearers into buttermilk, by assuring them that he had, a day or two before, given his "little son and daughter a half-sovereign, and on presenting it to them they exclaimed, 'Pa, (laughter), do give it to the Repeal' (cheers). Sir, when I see the feeling of my little progeny—I hope, bye the bye, they will increase and multiply for their country's cause—I do hope much for Ireland."

For our part, we did hope much against Repeal—but there is now no doubt of the ultimate separation of Ireland from England, cut off, as she must be, by the half-sovereign of Master and Miss M'Keon.—Punch.

The last new Polk-er.—Mr. Polk would persuade us that the annexation of Texas is by special desire of the people of that State. The defence is ingenious, but not original, being manifestly copied from the following lines in Borrow's "Gipsies of Spain":—

"There runs a swine down yonder hill
As fast as e'er he can,
And as he runs he crieth still
'Come steal me Gipsy-man.'" (Ib.

The Corn-law Fight.—The terrible Post says—"It is not so the battle of Protection must be fought. It must be fought calmly, but boldly, and fought, if need be, inch by inch."

Would it not be at once more heroic and more agricultural to say, "barley-corn by barley-corn?"

LEGISLATURE OF NEW-BRUNSWICK.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

Extract of a Despatch from Lord Stanley to Sir William Colebrooke, dated Downing Street, August 9, 1845.

The Act relating to certain Fees, (distinguished in the Records of this Office as No. 1533,) abolishes, without any compensation, the fees of the office of the Provincial Secretary. The effect will be to reduce, by a sum varying from £350 to £400 per annum, the fund by which the expences of that Office have hitherto been defrayed. Consequently the Provincial Secretary must either pay those charges out of the income appropriated to his own support, or he must receive the deficiency from the Surplus of the Civil List Revenue.

To throw the burden on him would be obviously unjust. It would therefore be injurious to the Legislative Council and Assembly, to understand the Act as having been passed with any such view. The suggestion that their real object was to curtail the Surplus of the Civil List Fund, a suggestion adopted by myself, appears therefore as by far the more probable explanation of the policy of this enactment.

So understanding it, I could not advise Her Majesty to give her assent, without which the Act must be inoperative.

If the Surplus of the Civil List be really excessive, the far more convenient mode of proceeding would be to address the Crown to agree to a diminution of it. Her Majesty's Government can have no motive in wishing to maintain any charge of the Revenues of the Province, as a surplus of the Civil List, but the belief that the possession of such a resource may be essential or conducive to the general welfare of the Queen's subjects in New Brunswick. If that belief can be shown to be erroneous there will be no reluctance to consent to any retrenchment of the Fund which may be compatible with the public interests.

You will communicate to the Legislative Council and Assembly the preceding remarks on this Act, and will inform them, that Her Majesty cannot be advised to assent to it, unless some unexceptionable mode can be pointed out, of meeting the deficiency which the allowance of it must create in the Funds devoted to the support of the Office of Provincial Secretary.

(Signed) STANLEY.

Copy of a Despatch from Lord Stanley to Sir William Colebrooke, on the subject of Salaries of Provincial Secretary, Registrar, and Clerk of Executive Council.

Downing Street, 28th July, 1845.

Sir,—I have laid before the Queen, the Address to Her Majesty, from the House of Assembly of New Brunswick, enclosed in your despatch of the 26th of April, 1845, No. 26, praying that certain reductions may be made in the Salaries of some of the Officers for whom provision is made by the Civil List Act of that Province.

The principles by which the decision has hitherto been guided on this subject, and to which her Majesty proposes to adhere, are few and simple.

They are to stipulate for such a provision for the support of Her Majesty's Officers in the Province, as will enable the Crown to secure the services in that capacity, of men, whose talents, education, and character, may afford an adequate security for the faithful discharge of their public duties. To defer to the deliberate judgment of the Local Legislature as to the amount of the provision that may be necessary for the maintenance of Officers possessing those qualifications, and to maintain inviolate every pledge, express or implied, by which the faith of the Crown is engaged in favor of any present holder of Office.

Such of the Public Officers of New Brunswick included in the Civil List, as held their places before the date of that compact are in possession of such a claim as I have mentioned on the faith of the Crown; and the Queen is well assured, that the House of Assembly of New Brunswick, would be as reluctant to advise, as Her Majesty would be unwilling to adopt, any measure which should disappoint the just and reasonable expectations of any of Her Majesty's Public Servants. On the other hand, such of the public Officers of New Brunswick, as have succeeded to their places since the date of that compact, accepted them with full knowledge of the assurance of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, conveyed by Lord Glenelg through your predecessor, to the Assembly, that the amount of their emoluments would be subject to revision. Whatever reductions might be made from their salaries, and however soon such reductions might be made to take effect, those Officers would, therefore, not be entitled to say that, in their persons the pledged faith of their Sovereign had been in any respect violated.

Subject to this distinction the Queen fully acknowledges that the Local Legislature possess means of information and opportunities of arriving at a sound conclusion not accessible at this distance, nor has Her Majesty any motive for wishing to maintain a scale of Expenditure, for the support of her Officers in New Brunswick, exceeding that which the two Houses may consider sufficient for the efficient discharge of the Public Service. It is however important that this question, when once deliberately adopted, should not be again brought into debate; and the Queen trusts that whatever arrangement may now be proposed will be such as not to call for a frequent or early revision.

I have, &c. (Signed) STANLEY.

Just Published, a new system of Modern

GEOGRAPHY,

Principally designed for use in COLONIAL SCHOOLS, compiled by

As an elementary work very great care has been taken to avoid two very common evils—that of extreme brevity on the one hand, and of too great prolixity on the other. As a Class Book for British Colonial Schools it is certainly unequalled, being the only one ever got up expressly for their use. It is printed on good paper, from a clear and distinct type, and substantially bound, for the astonishing low price of Five Shillings.
