Return of the British Arctic Expedition

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A telegram has been received at Portsmouth announcing the return of the British Arctic expedition under Captain Nares, comprising the naval steamers Alert and Discovery, to Valentia. The progress to the North Pole was found to be impracticable. Captain Nares reports that no land could be discovered to the northward of the highest latitude reached, namely 83.20, but in other respects the expedition was successful. The Alert has proceeded to Queenstown, and Captain Nares to London. All are well. The Alert arrived at Valentia at 2 30 o'clock this afternoon, being the first land made since leaving the frozen regions. She parted company with the Discovery in the Atlantic.

The Alert and Discovery left Port Foulke on July 29th, 1875, and entered the ice off Cape Sable. After a severe and continuous struggle they reached the north side of Lady Franklin Bay, where the Discovery was left in winter quarters. The Alert pushed on and reached the limit of navigation on the shore of the Polar Sea. The ice varied in thickness, being in some places 150 feet deep. President Land does not exist. The Alert wintered in lat. 82 27 At this point the sun was invisible 142 days, and a temperature the lowest ever recorded was experienced. A detachment with sledges was despatched northward. It was absent 70 days and reached latitude 83.20. Another party rounded Cape Columbia, the northermost point of America, and traced 226 miles west from Greenland, and also explored far to the eastward. The sledge parties met with no game, and suffered from scurvy. Hans Peterson died from frost-bites. James Hans and Charles Paul, of the Discovery, died on the sledging expeditions. No Esquimaux were seen, nor were any icebergs met with beyond Cape Union. The expedition encountered great difficulties in returning. The Alert's rudder bolt was damaged. The vessel left Smith's Sound Sept. 9th; spoke the Pandora Oct. 6th—all well. The Alert parted from the Discovery in a gale on Oct. 9. She will shift her rudder at Valentia, and proceed to Queenstown to coal. The Admiral, at Queenstown, telegraphs that the Discovery is expected to arrive hourly.

During the sledge journey the ice was so rugged that it was only possible to advance a mile a day. During the winter, rich collections in the department of natural history were made, and many valuable scientific observations were taken. Excellent coal was found near the place where the Discovery wintered. The expedition experienced the coldest weather ever registered in temperature, being 59 degrees below zero for a fortnight, falling once to 104 degrees below freezing point. The Pandora, when spoken by the Alert, reported her screw slightly damaged by the ice. The Pandora called at Littleton Island, Cape Isabella, but was unable to reach Cape Sabine. As the expedition did not touch at Littleton Island on its return, it missed the letters left by the Pandora. The health of the crews, with the exceptions already mentioned, has been good. Frost-bites were severe but not numerous. Peterson, the interpreter, died in forty days after both feet had been amputated for frost-bite. All the members of the expedition declare it impossible to get nearer the Pole than their northern exploring party, which penetrated to within 400 miles of it. On the return from their sledge journeys, the men were in a very helpless condition, and it was necessary to carry some of them on the sledges. The planking of the Alert was much damaged by the ice.

A member of the expedition telegraphs to the Daily News:—"The northernmost land reached was in latitude 83°. After that there was ice. The point furthest west reached was in longitude 85°. Lady Franklin Straits is in reality a bay. Peterman Fiord was closed by a glacier. The northernmost point of Greenland seen was in latitude 82.57.

The Little Hero.

Mr. B. G. Gray, who has assisted to start an interest in the case of Willie Francis, who so gallantly rescued little Bezanson from drowning, at Windsor, the other day, received on Friday a letter, accompanied by three sovereigns, from His Excellency Sir Cooper Key, Vice Admiral. The letter states that on receipt of an authentic narrative of the event by an eye witness, His Excellency will see what can be done with reference to obtaining for him a medal from the Royal Humane Society. A letter to the Chronicle from Mr. J. F. Chandler, of Windsor, gives an extensive account of the affair as witnessed by himself and Mr. John Herbin, and George Pattison, who assisted in getting a rope round both boys and hauling them to the top of the wharf. He also gives Willie's own version of it, which we subjoin:—

"Mother sent me out to saw wood, and I sawed some and then strolled down the wharf. First I went down Curry's wharf, and threw my line to fish, but it was raining so hard I thought I would run to Harding's wharf and get under a pile of deals out of the rain. I had just got there, and thrown my line, when I noticed little Bezanson on Chandler's wharf trying to pull over a little playhouse he had been building with the bricks. Suddenly the house tumbled and he fell over the wharf and into the water. It was nearly high water. I saw him rise to the top of the water, then sink again, and rise once more and sink again. Two boys who had been playing with him ran away when they saw him go over. I never stopped to think about the distance I had to swim to get to him, nor even thought about whether I could swim or not; I just jumped over the wharf with all my clothes and my shoes and hat on and paddled over to where he sank, I was a good while swimming over, for the tide was running up and against me. I lost my hat and shoes swimming over, and when I got to the spot where he sank I dived down and got hold of him, and then paddled for the wharf and caught one of the wharf posts, and holding it tightly with one arm and him with the other, just so as his head was above water, I screamed as loud as I could for help. I held on some minutes before any one came. I was almost gone myself, the water was so cold, but I am glad I did what I did and saved him. I lost my fishing line, though, and my shoes and hat, and was afraid mother would scold me, but she didn't."—Citizen.

ATTENTION is directed to the card of A. L. Spencer, Sussex, in the advertising columns. Mr. Spencer represents some of the very best of the Companies insuring Life and against Fire. He also sells first-class musical instruments of all kinds. Read his advertisement and communicate with him. mar16 tf

THOSE who have been deceived by the incompetent empiries that have attempted to enlighten the world upon the delicate matters relating to the generative organs should resort to the works published by the "Peabody Medical Institute," Boston, as the source of true information. Those who are suffering as though without hope from the errors of youth—those whose vitality has been impaired by exposures or by intense application to business, should not fail to peruse "The Science of Life, or Self-Preservation." The female portion of the community should make themselves familiar with the "Sexual Physiology of Woman and Her Diseases." Those afflicted with nervous debility in any form should read the work on "Diseases of the Nerves and Nervous Maladies." These works, written by the Chief Consulting Physician of the "Peabody Institute" Boston, have attained an enormous circulation, and done incalculable good, in appreciation of which the National Medical Association have just presented the author with one of the largest, most costly and elaborate Gold Medals ever made. See advertisement in another column.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—The advertiser, a retired physician, having providentially discovered, while a Medical Missionary in Southern Asia, a very simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and lung affections,—also a positive and radical specific for Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all Nervous Complaints, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) to all who desire it, the recipe for preparing, and full directions for successfully using, this providentiallly discovered remedy. Those who wish to avail themselves of the benefits of this discovery without cost, can do so by return mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper,
