THE GAME LAW.

Hon. Mr. Grimmer introduced the new game law into the House yesterday. In submitting the bill Mr. Grimmer explained that the new law as proposed embodied all the principal provisions of the existing law. The offices of chief game commissioner, and of chief forest ranger have been abolished, and in their stead four chief wardens, each with a district of the province to oversee, are provided. The intention of the original game act of this province was to vest the administration of the game law in the chief game commissioner. Subsequent amendments to the law diminished the power of this official and transferred it to the surveyor general. The wisdom of this change was often disputed as it brought the enforcement of the law more in the realm of practical politics than it would have been had it been administered by a chief game commissioner. If anything the power of the surveyor general under the new law is increased. The reason for curtailing the powers of the chief game commissioner was that they had been too great for one man not directly responsible to the people to have. This it may be remarked was never accepted as the reason by those who wished to see the game law as far removed from the control of active politicians as possible. All that can be said of the law as now framed, is that it is no improvement on the old law in respect to political control, and that the present government will experience the same difficulty in obtaining competent wardens as their predecessors did. The division of the province into districts has been in effect some months, long enough to show that to obtain good results it is necessary to have good men. The plan Mr. Grimmer explained on a previous occasion was on trial, and if it failed it would be discontinued and another plan adopted. There is nothing more difficult to obtain than an efficient protection of the game, and can only be brought about by a judicious weeding out of incompetent wardens, and the retention of those who make good. Until some such plan as this is adopted there will be illegal slaughter, particularly of moose and deer.

CURRENT COMMENT.

If the members for York are desirous of serving the public interests, they should settle their differences and have a caretaker appointed for the Fredericton highway bridge.

It is about time the Hazen government appointed a chairman for the Fredericton Board of Health. The Board has been without a chairman since Dr. Weaver tendered his resignation in October last. It is quite evident that the position is an honorary one, otherwise the hungry supporters of the Hazen government would not have allowed it to remain vacant so long.

It is safe to say that the small saving the Hazen government claims to have effected on public printing has not been done at the expense of the local Tory organ. According to the auditor general's report the Gleaner scooped in $3,700 for printing during the seven months ending October 31. A statement lately brought down in the legislature shows that it has since been paid $1,854 for printing the Agricultural report, making a total of $5,554. In the language of the street, "That's going some."

Moncton Transcript: The local Tory organ rises to remark that the Tory premier of Ontario did the right thing in violating his promises and supporting the proposal to give the Canadian Northern Railway two million acres of lands in the clay belt of that province. The organ has become so accustomed to apologizing for the breaking of pledges by the Hazenites, that a 2,000,000 acre grant, contrary to pre-election pledges, is a mere bagatelle that is commended without a second thought.

The many friends of Miss Annie M. Wilson, who has been confined to her home for the past few weeks with rheumatism, will be pleased to learn that she is improving.

END OF LEGISLATURE.

Record Is Created by Members In Passing 166 Bills.

Toronto, April 14.—The first session of the 12th Legislature of Ontario was prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor Gibson yesterday. In all 166 bills were assented to, which is the largest number passed at any single session since confederation, 146 having been passed in 1908, and 126 in 1907.

Prayers were omitted in order that his honor should not be kept waiting, and the House passed a bill amending section 17 of the Statute Amendment Act, 1909. This section relates to sheriff's sales of tax lands in Parry Sound and Muskoka, and exempts any where litigation has been commenced. Such a proceeding has happened only once before. viz., under the late Hon. A. S. Hardy.

Hurried telegrams were despatched hither and thither to members Monday night, calling them to Toronto that a quorum might be present, and about 40 responded to the call, including two Liberals and Allan Studholme (East Hamilton). T. R. Mayberry (South Oxford) kept a lonely vigil on the Opposition benches until he was joined by Valentine Stock (South Perth).

Occupying members' seats were Chief Justice Sir William R. Meredith, Justice Riddell, Justice Teetzel, President Falconer and Hon. R. Southerland, ex-Speaker of the House of Commons.

A guard of honor was provided by the Queen's Own Rifles and the 9th Field Battery fired the usual salute of 13 guns. A detachment from the Royal Canadian Dragoons acted as cavalry escort.

His honor was met by Sir James Whitney and was preceded to the Legislative chamber by Lt.-Col. Septimus Denison, who acted as chief of staff in the absence of Gen. Cotton, Major J. Macdonald, A.D.C., Capt. Douglas Young, A.D.C., and Capt. A. E. Gibson, A.D.C.

"Although this, the first session of the 12th Legislature of Ontario, has not occupied a long period of time, the number, the variety and the important character of the enactments placed upon the statute book bear witness to the intelligence and the industry with which you have applied yourselves to the performance of your public duties," said his honor.

"Recent events have made it again clear that constant watchfulness is necessary to prevent interference with the jurisdiction of this and the other provinces through the medium of Federal legislation, and it is to be hoped that a permanent understanding will be reached by means of which this danger may be removed."

Mention of various measures passed by the Legislature was then made in congratulatory terms, and Dr. Pyne declared the House prorogued.

Dumont's Flyer.

Paris, April 14.—M. Santos Dumont, who has been "lying low" for some time so far as aeronautics are concerned, during the last eight days has attracted considerable attention by the experiments he is making with his diminutive monoplane flying machine at Saint Cyr.

This monoplane, which is named "Mademoiselle," probably to indicate its slight build, can easily be carried on an automobile. The apparatus is less than 20 feet long and 15 feet broad. Its total weight, when M. Santos Dumont is on board, is only 330 pounds. A 24-h.p. motor with which it is fitted is sufficient to give a speed of 70 kilometres an hour.

Mademoiselle is built of canvas and bamboo. For starting purposes it runs along the ground on three bicycle wheels.
