AGENCY NOTICE.
R. W. WINFIELD, Esq., Hardware and Brass Manufacturer; Gas Fittings, Bedsteads, &c. &c. &c., Birmingham.
GOODS from this Establishment imported in large or small quantities, at cost and charges.—Terms, &c. made known by applying to the Agent.
Messrs. W. & G. HARDING, Earthenware Manufacturers, Burslem, Staffordshire.
The Agent, not wishing to monopolize all the Trade in this branch of business, will import Wares from this Establishment for Country Traders and others, by the Crate, at cost and charges, and warrant it not to exceed 67½ per cent., his charge of 5 per cent. included. Traders will begin to find it to their advantage, if they want to compete with others around them, to have their Goods imported.—Terms—one-half the amount to go with the order; the balance, with the expence of importing, to be paid when the Goods arrive here, or a satisfactory arrangement with the Agent, at three months.
Messrs. WM. HOUNSELL & Co., Lines, Twines and Manufacturers, Bridport.
The Goods from this Establishment are as good, if not better, than any imported into this Province.—Terms—six months.
The Agent returns his sincere thanks to those the country generally, that he [illegible] respective Manufacturers again this winter, and will leave early in January. Any orders intrusted to his care, shall have his very best attention.—His charge is five per cent. commission, and none on the other side. WM. WARWICK,
Hastings' Brick Building, Water-street.
Nov. 12, 1853.

NOTICE.
THE subscriber takes this method of informing the Country Merchants and Traders generally, that a portion of the two last winters has been spent by him while in England, in finding out the cheapest and best markets for purchasing such Goods as are required for sale here. He intends leaving again in January next, for the same purpose; and any parties who may wish to get their Goods at a cheaper rate than they can by purchasing them here, can have them imported at cost and charges, by applying to the subscriber.
For Dry Goods, a credit of six months will be given for one half the amount, sterling, from the date of purchase. He intends again to visit Newcastle, North and South Shields, to look after Butter Crocks, Milk Pans, &c., &c., and, if possible, to charter a vessel before he leaves, as one cannot always be found there for this port, (which was the reason that last spring's ware was not forthcoming.) Parties requiring articles in this line can make arrangements with him before he leaves—or for any other goods that are required, and he will warrant that none shall be imported cheaper.—Security given for any amount, if required.

LETTERS FROM HIGH AUTHORITY.
Hon. J. J. MIDDLETON, of Waccamaw, S. C., writes us under date of May 2d, 1853, that Radway's Renovating Resolvent cured one of his negros, on his Plantation at Beaufort, of a Scrofulous complaint, of many years' standing. The poor fellow was a disgusting object of pity; he was a moving mass of sores. The other negroes could not remain in the same place with him. He was entirely cured by Radway's Renovating Resolvent, and is now at work upon the plantation. To the people of S. C. Mr. Middleton is well known, and to the political world Mr. Middleton is no stranger.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 1853. (y.)

Published at the charge and under the direction of the Executive Committee of the SONS of TEMPERANCE, of St. John.

In replying to the communication of the Committee of the Association opposed to the Maine Law, which appeared in the COURIER of Saturday last, we shall refrain from characterising the article of our opponents as "wordy";—from telling them they have "entered upon an exploit for which they are poorly prepared"; and from asserting "that 'the law and the testimony' are on our side. These are matters which we are content to refer to the judgment of the public.

In that communication the Committee say:—

"They (the Committee of the Sons of Temperance) persist in asserting that the Maine Law is not an interference between the subject and his conscience, any more than the law against Sabbath breaking is,' and even go so far as to compare the Maine law with the law of God."

This Committee instituted no such comparison. What they referred to as the law against Sabbath breaking, was the restriction contained in our Provincial statutes, and the laws of other countries against such acts and practices as interfere with the decent observance of the Lord's Day. [illegible] the sake of charity, we would fain [illegible] of the existence of such persons as [illegible] (that forbidding the sale of liquors on the Sabbath is one of them); we, therefore, with this explanation, request of them an answer to the questions which they have evaded by misinterpreting our language, and which we here repeat.

Are you opposed to the law which enforces the cessation of ordinary employments on the Sabbath? If you are not, we further ask you, is not the objection of its being an interference "in matters of conscience" as applicable to this law (the Sunday law,) as to a law against the sale of intoxicating liquors? If your answer is in the negative, you are requested to name the reasons why the objection lies against the latter law, and not against the former.

"The Maine law is the work of certain ambitious persons, who, for selfish and political purposes, have endeavoured to force their impracticable doctrines upon mankind."

This is not true. The Maine law is the will of the majority of the people in those States where it has been enacted. The proof of this is in the following facts: In Maine, the Legislatures elected since its passage, have contained large majorities in its favor, larger than the one by which it was passed. In the States of Vermont, Rhode Island, and Michigan, a vote of the people has been taken, which resulted in majorities, in each, for the law; the majority in the latter State being over 19,000. And in the important State of New-York, an election has just taken place, with what result, as far as this question is concerned, let the New-York Herald, till now a deadly opponent to the law, answer. "We find it asserted," says that paper, "that the new Assembly men are all in favour of the Maine law. We foresaw and predicted this result some twelve months back; and now that it has come to pass, we are as ready as any one else to give the POPULAR SCHEME a fair trial. * * A large PARTY, COMPRISING THE BULK OF THE CITIZENS OF THIS STATE, conceive that they will attain this end, (the prevention of drunkenness,) by passing the Maine law, [illegible] than to say that [illegible] to the Maine Law.

"The Scriptures positively forbid the use of any article which is injurious to the bodies and souls of men."

Then the use of Alcoholic liquors is contrary to the Scriptures. They are injurious, fearfully, fatally injarious, to men's bodies and souls. Sir Astley Cooper says—"Ardent spirits and poison are convertible terms." "Alcoholic drink ruins the mind and destroys the body."—Russel T. Trall, M. D. The number of deaths among 450 total abstainers in the Madras division of the Indian army during the year 1849, was 5, or 11.1 per 1000; whilst the number among 4318 consumers of malt liquor in moderation, was 100, or 23.1 per 1000; and among 942 intemperate men, the number of deaths was 41, or in the ratio of 44.5 per 1000. Dr. Waddell, Superintendent of our Lunatic Asylum, said, in his last annual report:—"Intemperance, directly or indirectly, unquestionably is the great cause, if not greater than all others combined, of insanity." The London Record says—"Drunkenness, especially among the lower classes, IS THE MOST PROMINENT AND FRIGHTFUL OF OUR NATIONAL SINS."

"Our most skilful Physicians almost invariably recommend the use of wine, and other fermented liquors to their patients, in order to recruit the system and restore them to bodily health. But what would be thought of one who would recommend opium or tobacco?"

Opium is recommended by every physician almost every day in the year. The writer for the Committee must have been in a forgetful fit, when he penned the foregoing paragraph. If the fact of its being prescribed by physicians proves wine, &c., to be beneficial for ordinary use, it proves opium to be also beneficial.

The Committee of the Association next undertake to make it appear that the wine of Cana was a beverage similar to the wine of the present day. Their argument stands thus:—We read in the Scriptures of the exhilirating effects of wine; the world, and our great lexicographers, define wine as "the juice of the grape fermented"; and a Missionary in Syria writes that "the Jews required a wine for the passover that is fully fermented, ripe and smooth"—therefore the wine miraculously produced by our Saviour, was such wine as that in use at the present day. Whoever accepts this as proof of the thing alleged, is easily satisfied.

"From the first mention of wine in the old testament, we read of its exhilirating effects."

The wine of Cana might have been exhilirating, yet not such wines as are now in use. We read in the Scriptures of wine which had a poisonous effect, but we should be loath to conclude from this that the Cana wine was "the poison of dragons." That the Scriptures invariably or even generally refer to the intoxicating effects of wine, when mentioning that beverage, we dispute;—that they contain one clear and unequivocal commendation of intoxicating wine as a beverage, we unhesitatingly deny.
