the Hornet is now ready to take despatches to our Midisters in Europe, particularly to those in France and England, and it is expected that she will sail in a few days. The ATTITUDE TAKEN BY THE GOVERNMENT IS OF A CHARACTER NOT TO BE MISTAKEN; and there is evetry reason to believe that it is one which the Congress will maintain and the nation approve.

CONGRESS,

The proceedings of Congress, received by the last Mail, are to November 18; on which day Mr. Randolph succeeded in bringing forward his Resolution, relative to an inquiry into the expenditures of the pub. lic money, since 1801. In the course of his observations, on the incomplete and unsatisfactory manner, in which every kind of information had been rendered on this subject, in previous sessions, Mr. R. remarked; That the object of the Committee, was to know in what way the Pursers of the navy received their money, and what was the amount of their emoluments. The answer they received, stated, " that the advances made to Pursers are by warrants drawn on the Treasury, sometimes by Navy Agents, &c." We enquired, said he, what were their emoluments, other than those allowed by law? Answer, " they arise from a certain per centage upon slops detailed to the seamen." It may not be amiss, said Mr. R. to inform country gentlemen, that by slops are meant ready-made cloathing, &c. It was scarcely possible to have given a more evasive answer. We asked what were their emoluments? They answer "a certain per centage fixed by the department;" but what that per cent was, the committee was left to find out by instinct. It had been understood, that large sums of money were advanced to these Pursers, who laid it out in slops, which they retailed to the seamen at an advance, in some instances of 20 per cent! This was a fact, Mr. R. said, which ought to be looked into. It was essential to the reputation of the government-essential to its honor-indispensable to the fair fame of those who administer the finan. ces of the United States-that abuses such as these should be probed to the quick; to shew to the world, that if we cannot govern the great Beasts-the Mammouths of the Forest, we can, at least, poison the rats. And whose money, asked Mr. R. is this? It is the people's money-it comes from the pockets of the people of the United States. When he spoke of this abuse of public money, he wished no gentleman to understand him as speaking of the abuse under this, that or the other President of the United States. He considered them all as of one description of people; and it was not less necessary to guard against abuses in a country where the President is elected by the People, than in a country where he is put over them. He would dare to question the infallibility of all, and look upon all with jealousy and distrust. He wished not, however, to be charged with that mistaken opposition to government, which determines to exhibit abuses for the sake of doing so; or with shutting his eyes to the abuses of Thomas, while they are open to the abuses of John .----Mr. R. said he had no interest, distinct from the interest of his country. With respect to Princes and Potentates, the only favour he had to ask of them, was that they would keep their hands out of his pocket and off his person, and, to use a homely phrase " if they would let him alone, he would let them alone."

THE ROYAL GAZETTE. SAINT JOHN, MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1811.

By a New-York Paper of the 13th ultimo, we with regret copy the following paragraph under the Charleston head of the 1st November.

"The French privateer brig Diligent, Capt. Marllet (late Grassen) from a cruise anchored in the Roads last evening; the Diligent sailed from Philadelphia about three months ago and has since been cruising along the Spanish Main, where she captured and destroyed a number of Spanish vessels and obtained pleuty of l'argent—on the 8th of October off the Grand Caymans, captured the British brig Douglas, Captain Holly, from Jamaica; bound to St. John, N. B. with a cargo of Rum, which vessel they destroyed and Capt. H. and his crew are now on board the privateer; the Diligent has put into this Port to refit, &c. &c. &c." This is all the information we have of this unfortunate capture.

"By the letter of Lord Wellington at his head quarters at Quanrazaes, on the 29th of September, we learn that the English had an action with the French on the 26th and 27th of September. His Lordship represents that the English behaved with great bravery, and he is uncommonly particular in the praise of many of his officers. He says that the enemy had united their forces to relieve Rodrigo, and have been strongly reinforced by troops from Spain, which had come from the army of Naples, and their whole army amounting to sixty thousand men, of whom six thousand were of the cavalry, with 123 pieces of cannon, he could not pretend to continue the blockade of Rodrigo, and therefore not being justified in the risque for such an object, he had adopted the plan of his greater security. He then exhibits an account of the event of the two actions of Bodon and Aldea da Ponte.

"Bodon.-Lord Wellington says, in the action of the 25th of September on the heights of Bodon, besides the Portuguese total loss-1 Lieut. Colonel, 3 Captains, 1 Lieutenant, 1 Quarter Master of the Horse, 12 Sergeants, 3 Drummers, 139 soldiers, 87 horsemen, killed, wounded and missing-In the neighbourhood of Rodrigo.

"Aldea da Ponte.—In the action of the 27th of Sept. total of English loss, 1 Major, 5 Captains, 4 Lieutenants, 2 sergeants, 1 drummer, 86 soldiers, 23 horsemen, killed and wounded.

"On the 28th the English were at Souto, about a league in the rear of the place they occupied on the 27th. DIED] Suddenly, at Fredericton, on Monday last, Major-General WILLIAM BALFOUR.
