

Extract of a letter from on board the Calliope, dated off the Scheldt, August 16.
 "On Friday last we reconnoitred the enemy's fleet here, and found 18 sail of the line, four frigates, 20 brigs, and several smaller vessels, all apparently ready for sea."

PORTLAND, OCTOBER 19.

The speech of our Excellent Governor, published in this day's paper, must afford the highest gratification to every friend to the liberties and independence of his country. The reason stated for his refusal to comply with the arbitrary and unconstitutional requisitions of the President and his officers, are clear and unanswerable. By the prudent, firm and temperate conduct of the commander in chief, our militia has been kept from an odious conscription, and reserved for the defence of the rights and liberties of the people, instead of being dragged from their homes to gratify lawless power or ambitious usurpation. Our duties as men and citizens of a free commonwealth in these times of darkness and dismay, are clearly pointed out and enforced with the ardor of a statesman and patriot, zealous for honor and prosperity of his beloved country.

Civil war.—If the articles taken from the Alexandria Gazette, below, be correct, the administration party have already began a civil war against the friends of peace.

From the Alexandria Gazette.

By a gentleman from Washington, (Kentucky) we learn that an act of the most savage violence was committed in that town on the 11th September last. A company of citizens had volunteered their services, to march as they were told against the Indians. After the necessary preparations for the expedition had been made, they were ordered to join the troops under the command of Gen. Harrison for the purpose of aiding in the contemplated operations against Canada.—Two of the company refused to obey the order, declaring they were willing to march against the Indians—the purpose for which they had volunteered their services—but that they would not march out of the United States for the purpose of the conquest of Canada.—Upon this declaration their comrades fell upon them with their swords and tomahawks, and after wounding them with these weapons in such a manner as to preclude the prospect of their recovery, threw them into a baggage waggon, branding them with the epithet of tory, and swearing that they should go dead or alive! Such, our informant adds, is the dreadful state of the public mind in that country that no magistrate could be found bold enough to interfere in behalf of the unfortunate volunteers, nor a citizen who dare to express his sympathy for the sufferers. Mangled and bleeding under the hands of their fellow citizens, they were thus dragged from their families and homes, to aid in the prosecution of a war, waged "in support of the liberties and rights of the American people"! O tempora! O mores!

From the Virginia Patriot.

When Bonaparte shall give the fraternal hug, or amorous embrace, to the Americans, farewell to representative government—to the liberty of the press—of speech—and free agency.—The motto then will be slavery or death!!! What say they who subserve his power?

Bonaparte loves the French—he loves the Dutch—he loves the Germans—he loves the Prussians—he loves the Poles—he loves the Spaniards—he loves the Italians—So much does he love them all, that he has relieved them altogether from the cares and concerns of government. Yea so great is his affection that if they disobey or deny his sincerity, or disclaim his affectionate regard, he kills them by thousands, tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands and millions!!! How astonishing that a single American can be found, who will expose himself to be called traitor and tory rather than accept of such affectionate, endearing, and comfortable embraces!!!

Bonaparte has for sometime past, resolved to espouse Spain and Portugal. General Wellington has forbidden the banns—and although millions have perished in the contest, Bonaparte perseveres. He has also made public avowals of affection to Russia—and has made a visit of gallantry, with a retinue of more than six hundred thousand men in arms. The Russians start back and shrink from his embraces—they retreat beyond rivers and mountains—he pursues. So ardent is his love and affection, that the desolation of extensive and populous districts—the ruin, distress, and lamentations of the wretched outcasts from country and home, do not retard him. He hastens from one bloody scene to another, with true epicurean delight: Such are the consequences of Bonaparte's love. Americans beware!!!

By the Right Honorable Sir JOHN BORLASE WARREN, Bart. K. B. Admiral of the Blue, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels, employed and to be employed on the American and West-Indian Station, &c. &c. &c.

WHEREAS, many British Seamen are now in the United States of America, and several of them by various means have been seduced to serve on board the American Ships, at War with the United Kingdom of Great-Britain and Ireland, and others who have deserted from His Majesty's Service, have been forced to serve against their Native Country.

I Therefore, call upon all British Seamen and others, in the present State of the War, and before it may be too late to join the British Colours, under which many of them have formerly obtained Glory and Honor; to repair to any of His Majesty's Provinces, Garrisons, Ships or Vessels; and upon their giving themselves up, and declaring their Sense of Error, I pledge myself to obtain for them His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT'S Free Pardon and Forgiveness; and to those who are willing to enter into the British Navy every Encouragement they can wish.

I trust, that every British Seaman will unite in supporting the Noblest Cause that ever called for the Efforts of Men, The Preservation of the Liberties, Independence, Religion, and Laws of all the remaining Nations of the World, against the Tyranny and Despotism of France, and to defend the Honor of the British Flag upon the Sea, at a Moment when Providence has blessed her Arms with Success, in sustaining the Efforts of injured Spain and Portugal.
