(d) What must the world think of the information of these with whom Capt. L. conversed, if they mentioned this as an event of import? Were they ignorant that by the last treaty all the allied troops were to Jeave Paris before a stipulated day, after the ratification? Did they not know that those troops had left it, and that their rear guard quitted Montmatre, their last post, on the 26th January? Were they ignorant that Lord W. is their commander in Chief and must -follow his army? Did they not know that he had publicly announced that his H. Q. would be transferred to Cambray? and had given numerous indications of his departure ? If they were ignorant of all these facts, those who rely on them for information are to be pitied. The Duke of W. had not left Paris the 5th Feb. though every thing was in preparation for his immediate depar-

and other administration papers at any reported success of Bonapare; and all the howlings at his downfall:

—All the opproblum cast on the person and character of Louis, and his family; the joy exhibited in flaring capitals at the report of his dethronement; and the countenance given to those whom he has denotinced as traitors, are, and will be, faithfully recorded in the Paris papers, and be communicated to the King; and must have a wonderful effect in seconding the good wishes of M. Laine.

BOSTON, March 19.

A phial has been taken up on the shore near the Texel, containing a note dated Feb. 13, 1813, and signed Wandorf, of the following import—" The ship Concord has been cast away on the coast of Madagascar, where we shall all perish—I pray the person into whose hands this Phial may chance to fall, to make the present known to all our good friends and parents."

BUFFALOE, MARCH 5.

Last week a British Soldier who had some time since deserted from the army in Canada, was apprehended by one of our citizens, and under custody of a constable was taken across the Niagara river and given up. The circumstance caused a considerable sensation here, but as the authority have instituted a prosecution against those concerned in the transaction, we shall offer no remarks.

DOWNINGTOWN, (PENN.) MARCH 12.

It is reported, that a SILVER MINE has been lately discovered on the land of Simon Meredith, in Pughtown, Coventry township, in this county, that yields one ounce of pure silver to a pound of ore—that it is easily obtained and appears to be inexhaustible. We have the account from two respectable men in the neighborhood of the ore.

BOSTON, March 29.

An Early Spring.—On the 5th of March, the fruit trees in Charleston were in full blossom. Here our tree both fruit and forest, are also in blossom; but inseed of he soft foliage of vegitation, it is with the ermed spangles of ice and snow. The snow in our years, is, at the paesent moment, on a level, more than a foot deep.

BONAPARTE.

in gontleman who has lately returned from St. Helena, and who was frequently with Bonaparte, describes him as in the highest spirits, even to adegree of jollay. He says, that he wants dignity, but fairly rolls and swaggers about the island as if he had made it his own for life. When the gentleman was coming away, and mantioned his destination to another part of the world, the ex-Emperor exclaimed, "What sir, and leave such a fine island as this P". He talked about India, and the wed the most complete and detailed knowledge of its affairs. He knew all the petty princes, their situations, opposite interests, the names of the principal bankers, merchants, &c. in our settlements. He was as much ou fait on the subject as, if he had passed his life there. Bring asked his operion of Lord Wellington, he said, "He is a good general, but slow. I should put three hundred thousand men in motion while he was thinking of it." Fie rives at a prodigious rate, and sets off full gailop the instant he is mounted, leaving the cavaleade the attended him a good distance behind.

PARIS, Feb. g. About 140 English ternsports are now in the port of Ostend, waiting to convey home about 50,000 men.

Several communes have refused to be paid by the Government for the requisitions furnished by them to the Alkes.

LONDON, FEBRUARY 7.

The Nuremberg Correspondent of Jan. 25, contains a letter from Paris, of which the following is an extract:

"A few days ago, the Townal de Paris was suppressed at the desire of the Duke of Wellington, because it contained a paralell between the Carthagenians and the English, which the Duke found offensive. In other respects also the English proceed in Paris as conquerors. For example, they cause plays, books, and pictures to be prohibited, which represent their nation in a ridiculous light. Thus, on the 6th of January, a book disappeared, written upon England, by one Pillet, who had been a prisoner of war in that country. All the copies have been bought up by the Duke, and the author has received notice not to publish a second edition, under a severe penalty. In the same manner, all the caricatures upon the English, which were lately to be seen in great numbers, have disappeared."

By letters from Corunna to the 15th ult. we learn that the resistance of the Constitutional party in Gallicia and the Austrias to the measures of the Court daily assumes a more decisive aspect. Guerilla parties have been formed in different districts, juntas have been assembled, and a sort of legislation adopted by them for the guidance of their common system. The spirit of Porlier seems to animate their proceedings. A paper called the Patriot has been printed, and put into circulation throughout this part of Spain, calling on the inhabitants to stand forward and vindicate the national independence.

Yesterday Madras Papers to the 7th October inclusive arrived. They announce the death of Rear-Admiral Burlton, Commander in Chief in the East-Indies, on the 22d of September. Captain O'Brien has in consequence hoisted his flag as Commodore of his Majesty's squadron.

So greatly depressed are the farmers in the neighbourhood of Portsmouth, that, in the small village of Hambledon alone, eighty families of men discharged from husbandry work, are daily subsisted by Poor Rates.

FEB. 9

By the Hamburgh mails arrived yesterday, it would appear that the discussions between Austria and Bavaria would be brought to a conclusion, without leading to those hostile extremities which the friends of political convulsion have so fondly anticipated.

A foreign paper states, that among the other pojected travels of the Princess of Wales, she means to proceed to Constantinople.

Letters received from St. Helena, of the 27th December, state, that Bonaparte daily rides out, attended by an officer, Capt. Poppleton, of the 53d regiment; but he is confined to certain limits. He keeps eight horses, with corresponding equipage. A camp had been formed at a certain distance around him, so that his escape from the island is more guarded againt. Some few days previous to the date of these letters, a misunderstanding had taken place between Bonaparte and Bertrand, in consequence of which Gen. Montholon had

The latest accounts from Constantinople give the most afflicting details respecting the plague in that city. A sister of the Grand Seignior has fallen a victim to this scourge. The suburb of Pera was not free from the contagion. Traces of it are to be found in various provinces of Turkey, even as far as the frontiers of Poland. Prompt and efficacious measures are taking to arrest it progress.

plague had broken out in that quarter, attended by the most fatal consequences. The Neapolitan Government feel much alarm on the occasion; and in order to prevent as much as possible the agitation of the public mind, the number of deaths is endeavoured to be kept a secret, but it is known to be enormous. Cordons of troops are established on every side, and the port of Bari, where deaths are most frequent, is closely blockaded. The infection is said to have been communicated by the crew of a Turkish vessel, wrecked on the Neapolitan coast.
