

was not sanguine enough to suppose was in the air. In poverty he travelled to Ireland, and in poverty he returned; but he brought a fever which he had contracted in his journey through the diseased districts. He now lies in his hammock under the influence of the disorder, which may extend its ravages amongst the whole of the passengers, who are compelled to remain on board the vessel, in the apprehension of a more certain evil which awaits them on shore. Several of the poor passengers who have been so fortunate as to be still in possession of a little money, have proceeded to America, leaving authority with their friends to proceed against Fitzgerald for the recovery of their money. The mate and seamen have arrested the vessel by warrant out of the Court of Admiralty, to recover their wages.

The Lord Mayor, at this statement, asked whether application had been made to any authorities at Liverpool upon the subject.

The Complainants replied, that although the case had excited the utmost horror in Liverpool, there seemed to be a doubt whether it came within the view of a criminal prosecution.

The Lord Mayor recollected some complaint of a similar description, the atrocity of which nearly resembled that he had paid attention to. It occurred on Tower-hill, and the plan seemed to have been arranged upon the same system, and nearly to the same effect. The persons employed in the deception, however, evaded the pursuit of justice. It was a case, his Lordship said upon which the best judgment should be taken. He apprehended the failure of a criminal proceeding, but recommended that legal advice should be immediately resorted to.

The Complainants begged to know whether the process of the Court of Admiralty could not be extended to the case of the unfortunate passengers.—If so, their claims might be speedily adjusted, but at present they were without any effectual remedy in the midst of disaster.

The Lord Mayor again recommended application to the best legal authorities, and expressed his promptitude to assist in obtaining satisfaction for the poor creatures who were labouring under such privations.

Late advices from the Great Falls of the River Saint John, that may be relied on, say, that those falls will probably remain in our possession: the exploring line having struck the St. John, some miles above that port.—Quebec Mer.

London, October 1.

The Emigration from Europe to the U. States, is estimated to exceed 1000 weekly.

The poor rates collected in the Parish of Lewton Linford, in Leicestershire for the year 1811, amounted to £3 12 8; the poor rates of the same Parish last year, exceeded £4,000!

It is asserted that the King of Prussia has agreed to withdraw his contingent from the Army of Occupation in France, on receiving the amount which he was to be entitled to by Treaty up to the year 1820.

The Regent.—The Prince Regent, it is said, has signified his intention of appointing an additional number of naval officers to be his Royal Highness's Aides de Camp, which honor is to be considered as a step of promotion. In the same way as it is understood in the army when an officer is appointed an Aid-de-Camp to the King.

A noble Earl, who received 50 guineas from Sir Edmund Neale to pay one guinea for every league that the Prince Regent should go by sea within five years, has already to repay the guineas received, and 45 in addition, it having been ascertained by the log, that in his late trip, the Prince Regent traversed 95 leagues. Sir Edmund has been offered several hundred pounds for his bet.

A twelvemonth ago, more than half the shipwrights of Liverpool were out of work; at present, there is scarcely a good workman unemployed. The same may be said of most of the other branches of mechanics and artificers connected with shipping.

The following very interesting article, is

Wright & Son, surgeon-artists of Bristol, have succeeded in restoring the faculty of hearing, to several persons born totally deaf and dumb. These persons, having now acquired the possession of distinguishing sounds, are daily improving in the power of conversing.—These gentlemen intend to receive a limited number of persons of respectability laboring under these infirmities, into an establishment in the neighborhood of that healthy situation, Clifton."
