

POETRY.

FROM MISS EDGEWORTH'S COMIC DRAMAS.

SLEEP, mother, sleep! in slumber blest;
It joys my heart to see thee rest.
Unfelt, in sleep, thy load of sorrow,
Breathe free and thoughtless of to-morrow;
And long, and light, thy slumbers last,
In happy dreams forget the past.
Sleep, mother, sleep! thy slumber's blest;
It joys my heart to see thee rest.

Many's the night she wak'd for me,
To nurse my helpless infancy!
While cradled on her patient arm,
She hush'd me with the mother's charm.
Sleep, mother, sleep! thy slumber's blest,
It joys my heart to see thee rest.

And be it mine to soothe thy age,
With tender care thy grief assuage,
This hope is left to poorest poor.
And richest child can do no more.

Sleep, mother, sleep! thy slumber's blest,
It joys my heart to see thee rest.

Epitaph on a Composer,

No more shall copy bad, perplex my brain,
No more shall type's small face my eye balls strain;
No more the proof's foul page create me troubles,
By errors, transpositions, outs and doubles;
No more my back shall ache from author's whims,
In overrunnings, driving out and ins;
The stubborn pressman's frown I now may scoff,
Revis'd, corrected, finally wrought off.

INDIAN NAMES.

Various treaties have lately been concluded at Washington, with different tribes of Indians. Among other Indian signatures are the following:—Buffalo, Little eyes, Negro legs, Long body, Big man, Little duck, Drunkard's son, White sky, Green feather, Main chance, Sturgeon man, Jumping sturgeon, Bad axe, Young eagle, Lion coming out of the water, Black Sparrow, The cloud that don't stop, Bad weather, Sharp faced bear, The Thunder that frightens, The swan that flies in the rain, The Swan whose wings crack when he flies, He who shoots in the pine tops, the man who marches quick, the Man with a strong voice, the man who is sick when he walks, He that walk with a cane, the Fluttering eagle, the bad hail, the shifting shadow, the Dancer, White nails, Turning iron, White Wolf, Rumbling thunder, the Big tree, the Buffalo with one horn, the Iron cloud, the White face, the Negro, the Thief, the Belly ache, Split log, The big eared dog, the doctor.

EGYPTIAN ANTIQUITIES.

We have learnt with great pleasure that Egypt still continues to afford to our residents and travellers in that country a rich harvest of discovery. We are led to expect shortly from Mr. Salte, our Consul-General in that country, a more correct transcript of the inscription on the column of Diocletian (commonly called that of Pompey) than has hitherto appeared; and we understand that the same ardent traveller, assisted by a foreign officer of the name of Cariglio, has not only succeeded in transporting from Thebes very interesting fragments of Egyptian sculpture, but has also discovered a passage cut in the solid rock 400 feet in length, under the great pyramid, with chambers at the lower extremity, and a communication with the mysterious well, which has hitherto puzzled all our antiquaries and travellers. Excavations have also been affected among the sepulchral structures in the neighbourhood upon the desert; and amongst other curiosities, a small temple, and fine granite tablets, have been discovered between the lion's paws of the Sphinx.

A whimsical circumstance, but which might have been attended with unpleasant consequences occurred to the north of Brighton a few days ago:—A gentleman on a strong, spirited horse, passed a pedestrian on the slope of the downs, at nearly full speed. The horse had formerly been a charger in the 10th Royal Hussars, and the pedestrian, who had known him when attached to that regiment, instantly recognized him. In a loud and authoritative tone, therefore, as he dashed by him, he vociferated the commanding term "halt!" It was a mandate the animal had been trained in obedience to, and he had not forgotten it. The check it produced was as sudden as effectual, and the rider, completely unprepared for such a shock, was thrown over the horse's head, and alighted on his back some yards in advance. Happily he received no hurt of consequence. Some time elapsed, however, before he was sufficiently recovered to know precisely what had happened to him, and during which, the arch-commander had considered it prudent to disappear.
