NEW-YORK, SEPT. 21.

Late and Interesting Intelligence from the Spanish Maine.

Trinidad papers of the 10th of August have been received at Norfolk by the British schooner Sector.

These papers mention, that on the 21st ult. anchored in the port of Trinidad, about 10 miles to the southward, Admiral Brion, with his squadron, consisting of the Vittoria, Columbia, Spartana, and Favorite; and after communicating with the English Admiral, Harvey, proceeded the next morning for Guira. A force of gun-boats, &c. with 700 men, afterwards joined him to the westward. He attacked Guira on the night of the 24th, which he carried by assault, with very little loss to the assailants, but a very considerable one to the Spaniards. During the action, the Favorite got becalmed in a situation which left her at the complete disposal of the enemy, who boarded her and massacred every one of the crew. Soon after this horrid act of barbarity, a breeze sprung up, and the Admiral in the Vittoria, was enabled to take a favorable position, when he opened a tremendous fire on the Spanish flotilla and batteries. In a little time the fire of the Spaniards was completely silenced. Those at the batteries fled in all directions, while those in the gun-boats were indiscriminately put to death by the avenging sword of the Patriots. The force afloat has also been taken, consisting of 9 gun-boats, and some vessels with private property.

The English frigate Scamander, Captain Elliott, lay off Guira, and witnessed the action. This frigate was dispatched from the Admiral, to demand of the Spanish commandant, the release of two English vessels improperly detained by him, which he refused to give up. Previous to the action Admiral Brion sent word to the Captain of the Scamander to give himself no concern about the vessels, as he would engage to deliver them in the course of the day, which he did. It may be proper to mention, that Admiral Brion, in communicating with the English Admiral Harvey, the latter addressed him in his official title of Admiral and Commander-in-Chief, &c. of the naval forces of the Independent Government of Venezuela, thus recognizing the independence of the power under which he acted.

The universal impression at Trinidad was, that the patriots would very soon be in undisturbed possession of every inch of territory in Venezuela.

From New Grenada the accounts are not less favourable to the cause of the Patriots. The "Cerenodel Orinoco," after noticing the contents of numerous letters from that province, details the success of the patriots.

A boat with two Lieutenants, late of the British navy, and a black man, on their way to Augustura to join the Independents, had fallen in with a detachment of royalists, when a conflict ensued, in which the Lieutenants were overpowered and killed, and the black man tied neck and heels, and thrown overboard. One of the Lieutenants killed and wounded several of his assailants.

LATE FROM CAPE HENRY (HAYTI.)

The editor is indebted to the polite attention of Mr. D' Arcy, of this city, for an Official Report of an accident which occurred in Hayti, received by him in a letter from his friend in Cape Henry, dated 27th of August.—Fed. Gazette.

"Sans Souci, Aug. 26, mid-day.
I have just received from an officer of the garrison, who was on the spot, an account of the accident which befel the Citadel Henry last night.

"About two o'clock, p.m. of the 25th, the sky became very much overcast, and the accumulation of dense clouds on the summits of the high peaks, which surround the Citadel Henry, portended a furious tempest. The largest trees bent before the impetuosity of the winds. This continued till about 4 o'clock, when the rain began to fall, accompanied by incessant lightning. About a quarter of an hour after, a flash of lightning struck the highest point of the citadel, about 100 paces from the nearest lightning rod, and thence passing in a direct line in front of the great postern, it crossed the guard-house of the garrison without doing any mischief, and finally exploded in the laboratory, (salle d'artifice), which stands in the rear of the buildings, situate on the side whence the wind blew. This building contained a great quantity of projectiles, which had been prepared for some days past, and which time had not allowed to be secured in the magazines. A terrible explosion took place, which set fire to the neighbouring buildings. The wind continued to rage, and the rain to fall. The Governor and the Officers had taken shelter in their respective apartments, and only discovered the impending danger by the blaze of the extending conflagration.

"The Governor immediately sallied forth with such of the garrison as he could collect. He saw the damage done by the explosion, and the impossibility of extinguishing the wide-spreading flames, which raged with astonishing fury. Every one, therefore, sought his own safety, and made for those posterns which led to the vaulted batteries; many had the good fortune to reach them, but others, through terror, lost their way, and either perished, or were wounded.

"King Henry, who was then at Sans-Souci, received the news of this dreadful event, only two hours after it took place. About 6 o'clock in the afternoon, an officer of the garrison gave him the information. He immediately repaired to the citadel, accompanied by the officers of his staff, followed by 600 of his guards, besides the troops of the line in the neighbouring garrisons, and arrived in time to save a part of the buildings. The powder magazines, which contain 3,000,000 lbs. of powder, the vaulted armories and batteries, have escaped destruction. In fine, only those buildings which stood exposed in open air, within the fort, have been destroyed; all else are uninjured, and the citadel remains in its former state of defence.

"We have to deplore the loss of the governor, his Royal Highness the Duke of Port-de-Paix, greatly regretted by the King; besides that of many of the brave soldiers to whom the defence of this bulwark was entrusted.

"His Majesty is now occupied in superintending the removal of the rubbish of the buildings destroyed, which he intends to have rebuilt more solidly and securely. But little time will be necessary to effect this, with the numbers and activity employed about it."

A BATTLE.

Capt. Appleby, arrived at Norfolk, informs that about the 1st of June, the Spaniards fitted out a barge at the city of St. Domingo, manned with about 30 or 40 Spaniards, English, and Americans, and armed for the purpose of cutting out a Portuguese ship of 22 guns, prize to a Buenos Ayrean privateer, which lay under Cape Biatti; but no sooner did they commence the attack, than the prize ship opened upon them so warm a fire, that those in the barge were quickly placed hors de combat—not one survived! Coffee was retailing in Curracoa at one dollar per pound!

SEPTEMBER 22.

An Earthquake, sufficiently powerful to shake the windows and furniture of houses, was felt on the 11th instant along the base of the mountain north of Quebec.

Bridge-Town (Barbados) Aug. 8.
