ELECTED POETRY.

THE VILLAGE CHURCH.

ND is our country's father* fled, His car of are can none recall ? be -- here ais sacred spirit bled, Here-may his propaget mantle fall. Fain would I till the vacant breach, Stand where he stood the plague tostay ; In his prophetic spirit preach, And in his hallowed accents pray.

it is not that on scraph's wing, I hope to soar where he has soar'd ; This, this the lowly claim I bring, I love his church, I love his Lord. I love the altar of my sires, Old as my country's rocks of sicely And as I feed its sacred fires, The present Deity I feel. I love to know that, not alone, I meet the battle's angry tide ; That sainted myriads from their throng Descend to combat at my side. Mine is no solitary choice, See here the seal of saints impress'd ; The praver of millions swells my voice, The mind of ages fill my breast.

I love the ivy mantled tower, Rock'd by the storms of thousand years; The grave whose melanch y flower Was nourished by a martyr's tears. The sacred year, so feared in war, Which, like the sword to David given, I firted more than hu nan scar, selle in And lent to man the arms of heaven. I love the organ's joyous swall, Sweet echo of the heaven y ode ; l love the cheerful village bel, Faint embiern of the call of God.

Wak'd by the sound. I bead my feet, I bid my swelling surrows cease ; I do but touch the mercy seat, And hear the still smail voice of peace.

And as the ray of evening fades, I love amidst the dead to stand ; Where, in the altar's deepening shades, I seem to meet the ghostly hand. One comes -On ! mark his sparkling eye, The light of glory kindles there ; Another -hear his deep drawn sigh ----O .-- us the sigh of dunb despair.
