SELECTED POETRY.

AUTUMN.

HOW swiftly pass our years How soon their night comes on ! A train of hopes and fears, And human life is gone! See the fair summer now is past ! The toliage late that clad the trees, Stript by the equinoctial blast, Falls, like the dew drops, in the breeze?

Cold winter hastens on ! Fair nature feels his grasp; Weeps o'er all her beauties gone, And sighs their gory past ! So, Life, thy Summer soon will end, Thine Autumn too will quick decay, And Winter come, when thou shalt bend Within the tomb to mould away.

But Summer will return, In all her beauties dress'd! Nature shall rejoice again, And be by man caress'd! But, oh, Life's Summer passed away, Can never, never hope return ! Cold Winter comes, with cheerless ray, To beam upon its dreary urn!

Then may I daily seek A mansion in the skies, Where Summers never cease, And glory never dies There an eternal Spring shall bloom, With joys as vast as angel's powers! And thrice ten thousand harps in tune, Shall praise the love that made it ours.

A DANDY IN THE HIGHLAND'S OF SCOTLAND.

Mr. Editor, - I cannot more pointedly prove that what is a pillow of thorns to one, is a bed of roses to another, than by copying literally a letter of a young relation, a very great Exquisite, from the Highlands, where I had myself received so much pleasure, where the charms of nature exhausted my eyes, and the warmest hospitality still has a claim upon my heart, -where I pored over the lake beauties with inexpressible delight, and where I met with so much unaffected and genuine kindness, that the land of blue hether will ever be dear to me, and the chil dren of the mountains will always have an additional title to my sympathy and regard. But I must come to my Exquisite's letter;

it is as follows :-" Dear Uncle. - You advised me to make a tour to the Lakes, and be hanged to them I wish I had never went there I had further the folly (in imitation of your noble example) to visit the Hebrides, where I am half starved, and where I have met with such a catalogue of miseries, as scarcely ever belel buman being. I am embargoed by the rain, am poisoned with vile cookery, disgusted with coarse habits, can't get so much as a little chicken hazard to amuse me, nor a frail milliner to kill time with roads where no curricle or tilbury can pass, and my horses as lame as the devil. How I miss Long's and the Clarendon; the Countess in the Rules, and the little figurante! There is not such a thing as an intrigue in these desolate regions Ice is unknown but on the tops of their cursed mountains! Not a pine apple for love or money! No theatre! No waltzing! The girl's don't understand soft nonsense! And no one comprehends how to make Regent punch. The names of the places strangle you to pronounce them! The female wretches of servants go bare legged! Half the sans culotte men don't speak English; and those who do are unintelligible! Besides all my clothes are torn, spoiled, and played the devil with; and I am laughed at wherever I go These fellows are three centuries behind us in the St. James's and Bond-street cut; and don't know what a dandy is! My servant is made drunk from morning till night; and I am dying of ennui. A pretty name of a place I am going to to-morrow ! - Ach-de-Shenoch, and Ach-naeraig! Breakneck place would be better. But to proceed with my misfortunes. It rained so on the road, in my tilbury from Glasgow to Loch Lomond, that I could not see it; and I got so drunk at Mr. Mac-'s house, that I saw double at the other Lakes, and had such a head ache, that objects, whether by land or water, swam equally before my eyes. Besides I was so much out of humour with all the world, that I swore that every thing was frightful. I embarked in a beastly cock-boat from Oban; and was almost sunk by the way. In addition to losing my puzzle ring, betwixt the landing place and your friend's house, I lamed one of my horses in their perilous and almost inaccessible tracks, which they call roads, and was laughed at by a bare-bottomed scoundrel, and was called a Molly and a Doll to boot. I lost my hat with the wind and have been forced to wearmy travelling cap ever in I dare say that my hat will be picked up and preserved as a enriosity; for there is not another made by Artis in the whate place. I was so wet on arriving, that I called for either Curacoa, Marasquina, or Noyeau. Not a drop to be had! But my host almost choked me with a confounded liquid which he called Hottentosh, (Fairintosh) and which is a compound of fire and smoke -fire as to its infernal heat and strengths smoke as to its offensive smell I had scarcely recovered from the agonies of this drug, when dinner was announced Dinner at 4 o'clock !!! - how Darbarous ! just about a man of fashion's breakfast time! Then we had no delicious soup, no iced wines, no made dishes, nothing but the coarsest and most vulger fare I sat behind a huge mountain of beef, which made me imperceptible to the other side of the table! There was a ham too, from which fids were cut as thick as a school-boy's bread and butter, instead of being as thin as a wafer ! Two pair of fowls! Monstrous! I thought to have fared better with what they called venison; but I had nearly lost a couple of teeth in the attempt : the vile animal being as tough as a dead donkey, though they said it was a wild roe (I wish Richard

Roe was shoked with him), which our host shot with his rifle a few days before. Then the lady of the house proposed ale to me with my cheese! and there was no other wine but vulgar blackstrap and Madeira, with a solitary bottle of bad ciaret, out of compliment to me! Indeed, no claret but Lafirte is worth a man's drinking After dinner the barbarian's drank toasts ! whilst some of the young folks went into an adjacent room and danced reels, like mad people. I proposed a round at Fato, or even at Quinze, for I am awake ; but the cautious Scotchmen would not touch a card. One fellow sung a song in Gaelic, which was as odious as incomprehensible to me; and they forced me to coatinue hard drinking until midnight The rext day they brought an amazing tern-out of broaded ash and honey, and marmalade and eggs, with tea and coffee for breakfast; but the vulgarity of the scene, the rude health of the ladies, and the more rustic unpolished appetites of the men, quite sickened me Some of the party swallowed bumpers of the liquid fire, after breakfast. I took one cup of tea with some brandy in it, and eat about a quarter of an inch of their dry toast, which smelt of their turf smoke. I endeavoured to ascend some rugged mountains, after breakfast, in order to shoot grouse; but my stay lace gave way, my morocco boots burst, and my dowlas trowsers got wet through. I returned faint and almost breathless, when my over-kind indelicate host had the impudence to propose a glass of this essence of smoke as a restorative, and to put me into petticoats until my trowsers were dried, holding out to me a worsted, tartan, scrubbing kilt of his grandfather's, which he told me, by way of recommendation, had been in four battles. On the third day, we risked our lives in a crazy, ricketty boat, and were half drowned in attempting to see Iona and Staffa-two trumpery Islands; the one a ci-devant royal burial ground, the other not worth observation. A pretty notion, to bring a man to see ruins and tombs! as if one could not get agreeable ruin enough in London; or would go to see tombs, who could find any livelier amusement in the world. The bread fell short one day; and my horses and myself were both fed on oats. Moreover I have had a fall in one of the. villainous roads, and have torn my tunic; so that I should be obliged to wear an evening frock, could I go out, which would be like a cit or tradesman. The beast of a washerwoman, too, has spoiled half a dozen of my cravats. She does not know how to starch them; and has torn off the strings destined to be tied behind. The moment that the weather clears up, I shall quit this prison, where I am the laughing stock of the profemm vulgus; and I heartily regret ever having left Bond-street, or havng turned my face towards the Highlands, and particularly her savage Isles, where I have not seen a tree in a week

" P.S. - Might I trouble you to tell my man to get me a new Cumberland corset? I am as lean as my greyhound None of my clothes will fir me; and had I not lived upon moor fowl. Madeira, and biscuit, I should have been famished."

Thus ended this Exquisite's episile. doubt not but that he was the laughing stock of the Island, as he must have exhibited a striking contrast to the robust inhabitants. However, when I visited those parts, I came away lustier than I went, and had only to complain of too much hospitality .-- English Paper.
