

SELECTED POETRY.

THE FADED ROSE.

AMANDA, mark that wither'd flower;
Its leaves are shrunk, its bloom decay'd:
'Twas yesterday the garden's pride,
And beauty like thine own display'd.

But yet not all its charms are fled;
Though faded, yet its scent remains,
And mellow'd by the lapse of time,
Still well rewards the gatherer's pains.

From hence, Amanda, thou may'st learn,
That all-enchanting as thou art,
Thy form alone, indeed may gain,
But cannot long preserve a heart;

That virtue, gentleness, and sense,
Possess a far more lasting pow'r,
And, like the fragrance of the rose,
Will charm when beauty is no more.

TEMPLE OF DIANA AT EPHEBUS.

This astonishing temple was 425 feet long, and 220 broad. It was adorned on the out and insides, with 127 columns of the most exquisite marble, 60 feet in height, of which 36 had ornaments of basso relievo. All Asia was employed in building of this temple for 220 years.

It was raised on a marshy ground at a great expense, to secure it from earthquakes. The name of the architect was Chersiphron. The beams and doors were cedar, the rest of the timber cypress. A staircase made of the wood of Cyprus vines, led up to the temple. The form of it was oblong, and the length was twice its breadth.

The most famous statues of this temple, were the workmanship of Praxiteles, and the paintings of Thraso. Herostatus, to perpetuate his memory, set fire to this temple, the same day in which Alexander the Great was born, viz. A. M. 3549.

THE DRUM EMPLOYED AS A TOKEN OF PRAYER.

At Manheim, we are told by Dr. Moore, the following motions are performed as part of the military manœuvres every day before the troops are marched to their different guards: the major flourishes his cane; the drum gives a single tap, and every man under arms raises his hand to his hat; at a second stroke of the drum, they take off their hats and are supposed to pray: at a third they finish their petitions, and put their hats on their heads. If any man has the assurance to prolong his prayer a minute longer than the drum indicates, he is punished on the spot, and taught to be less devout for the future. The ingenious inventor of drums, certainly never dreamed of their becoming the regulator of people's piety!

ANECDOTES.

An honest sailor, having his pockets stor'd with well-earned cash, determined on quitting his ship to indulge himself, by spending it like a gemman. Accordingly, on his arrival on shore, he hired a coach, and mounting the top of it, directed the driver to proceed on his voyage. A pedestrian shortly hailed the driver, to know if he had room to accommodate him inside. 'You will please to ask his honor on the top of the coach, sir,' was the answer. The frolicsome sailor did not want intreaties to disclose his mind, which he did, with the satisfaction of all parties, by saying—'You may get between decks, and welcome: but I'll be d—d if you shall come on the quarter-deck.'

A German dramatic author has published a new play, called The Benevolent Cut-throat, in which he has a most felicitous idea, that of the moon fainting away. This is certainly an improvement on Shakspeare, who, by the bye, must be allowed to have had a pretty knack at writing, for he only makes the moon sleep.

Dr. Browne courted a lady unsuccessfully for many years, during which time he every day drank her health; but being observed at last to omit the custom, a gentleman said, 'Come doctor, your old toast.' 'Excuse me,' said he, 'as I cannot make her Brown, I'll toast her no longer.'

An actor of Manchester, lately performing Careless, in the School for Scandal, said to Charles, in the picture scene, (according to the text)—'What shall we do for a hammer?' A carpenter in the gallery, happening to have one stuck in his apron-string threw it on the stage, saying, 'Now, go on, my lad, there's a hammer for you.'

NOTICE.

WHAT on Sunday the 9th day of May last, was discovered by the Pilot Boats while cruising off Point Escuminac, a Schooner, about 15 miles distant, and bearing E.N.E. from Escuminac; and upon coming up alongside of her, was found to be a Vessel of about 60 tons burthen, having no person on board, water logged, no sails nor rigging of any description, nor spars, except the two lower masts and bowsprit. The water being discharged, three Pilot Boats towed her in from sea, and up Miramichi River about two miles above the Custom-House, where she now lays on the beach in safety—no person appearing as yet to claim her—no name.
