

home, that is from his dressing-room, was recently out on a journey some 30 or 40 miles from the metropolis; while at an inn, he called for a glass of punch "well tempered with ice," which the landlord, with his usual attention, immediately handed him. After sipping, tasting, and smacking, the dandy with a good share of "delicacy" and owlish wisdom, asked the landlord "what is this here ice made on?" After receiving a Yankee answer from the landlord, the dandy observed that "ice was not half so cold and exquisitely delicious here as it is in Boston."

Mr. Colt, superintendent of the canal at Fort Stanwix, being provoked at an Irishman, gave him a sturdy kick. "By St. Patrick," retorted the Hibernian, "If you kick so while you are a Colt, what will you do, when you come to be a Horse?"

NOTICE
Reputation!
A Notice having appeared on the 20th March last in a New-Brunswick Paper, published at Fredericton, signed by John S. Cox, I conceive it as a duty I owe to my own character and family, to state the whole transaction as it occurred, and to shew the Public, that the representation made against me, is as gross as it is unfounded.

In July 1817, being possessed of a certain Bill of Exchange for £100 Sterling, which had been drawn by Thomas King, Esq. late Paymaster of the late 98th Regiment, in my favor, upon Greenwood & Cox, as Army Agents; JOHN S. COX applied to me to lend him some money, when to befriend him, I immediately gave to him the Bill just mentioned. As I was then on my way to England, upon my own private concerns, JOHN S. COX wished me to take a Power of Attorney from him to collect sundry sums which were due him in England, from several Officers who lately belonged to the late 98th Regiment, but on my making a presentation of these demands, their legality was refused, and I immediately returned to Fredericton in October last, and informed Mr. COX of the result, at the same time giving to him all the vouchers and his Power of Attorney; and as he stood indebted to me in the sum of £119, on the Bill of Exchange and on other accounts, I immediately applied to him for a settlement, with the interest, when he told me it was not in his power to pay the amount, and requested the indulgence of a further time; to this I readily agreed, not feeling a wish to embarrass him in any way, or to do him an injury, and he gave me 4 doubloons, together with a Note of Hand for the balance, being one hundred and five Pounds, which is the same note to which he refers in his advertisement, and becomes due in the present Month of May. This I have never received, nor is there a likelihood of my ever getting any part of it; and I leave it to the public dispassionately to judge, whether Mr. COX can be possessed of those principles which should guide him, when he makes the unjustifiable attack he has made on his benefactor who relieved him in distress—never pressed him for his lawful demands—may, even went to great personal inconvenience to set up demands against persons who denied owing him one sixpence. These facts speak for themselves, and is the best refutation an old and honest Soldier can offer to the notice he has made against him.

MATERNITY.

The following beautiful and feeling reflections are extracted from a series of essays published in an English periodical work, entitled "the Hermit in London."

Woman's charms are certainly many and powerful. The expanding rose just bursting into beauty has an irresistible bewitchingness;—the blooming bride led triumphantly to the altar, awakens admiration and interest, and the blush of her cheek fills us with delight; but the charm of maternity is more sublime than these. Heaven has imprinted on the mother's face something beyond this world—something which claims kindred with the skies—the angelic smile, the tender look, the waking watchful eye which keeps its fond vigil over her slumbering babe.

These are objects which neither the pencil nor the chisel can touch, which poetry fails to exalt, which the most eloquent tongue in vain would eulogize, and on which all description becomes ineffective. In the heart of man lies this lovely picture; it lives in his sympathies; it reigns in his affections; his eyes look round in vain for such another object on the earth.

Maternity, ecstatic sound! so twined around our heart, that it must cease to throb ere we forget it! 'Tis our first love—'tis part of our religion. Nature has set the mother upon such a pinnacle, that our infant eyes and arms are first uplifted to it. We cling to it in manhood: we almost worship it in old age. He who can enter an apartment, and behold the tender babe feeding on its mother's beauty—nourished by the tide of life which flows through her generous veins, without a panting bosom and a grateful eye, is no man, but a monster. He who can approach the cradle of sleeping innocence, without thinking that "of such is the Kingdom of Heaven!" or view the fond parent hang over its beauties, and half retain her breath, lest she should break its slumbers, without a veneration beyond all common feeling, is to be avoided in every intercourse in life, and is fit only for the shadow of darkness and the solitude of the desert—though a lone being, far be such feelings from THE HERMIT IN LONDON.

A Question.—What English word is that, from which if you take the three last letters, the remainder will be the dread of all mankind; from the same word take the two first letters, and the remainder will be what all ought to love; and altogether the greatest beauty in the known world?

A travelling Dandy.—One of these animals somewhat accustomed to being from
