QUEBEC, DEC. 2.

Hydrophobia.---Another well authenticated case of this dreadful malady, has recently occurred in St. Roch Suburbs of this City, in the person of Baptiste L'ferre dit Belanger, who died yesterday morning, after four day's illness. He was bitten in the face on the 13th ultimo, by a dog belonging to a person in the same house. The dog is since dead, but it is known that he bit, about the same time, a young girl aged 15, who has not as yet had any symptoms of hydrophobia.
Belanger was attended by many of the Gentlemen of the faculty in this City.

We cannot say positively the number of lives that have been lost in this City and neighbourhood by this afflicting malady, within the last three or four years. We have heard of several. One well authenticated case occurred at the Little River in May last. No regular reports are made. Some medical men, probably from an ill judged fear of exciting alarm, have even discour-tenanced the opinion of the existence of hydrophobia in this country. No fact is however better established, than that a fatal malady, uniform in its symptoms, has repeatedly succeeded the bite of vicious or distempered dogs in this City and neighbourhood.

We have had frequent opportunities of hearing of the loss of cattle in consequence of the bite of dogs, in the Parishes adjoining the City, and we should suppose that they amount in those Parishes alone, to about a hundred in the last four years.

The mischief is indeed greater in the vicinity of the Town than any where else.
---It is no uncommon thing in the City and Suburbs, to see ten or twenty dogs promenading the streets at one time, the most powerful preserving a precedence, which is contested along the whole line of a march prolonged for several days. If there should be one distempered dog in the whole Town, the malady is communicated on these occasions to several, and at a certain stage of the disorder, they generally run off to the country, continuing to run and bite every animal that comes in their way, till they die or are killed.

After four years unrestrained existence of this nuisance, we need hardly expect any efficient protection from the public authorities. Under the present circumstances, it is impossible to tell what dog is or is not dangerous to the lives and property of His Majesty's subjects.
We should therefore think perfectly justifiable to kill every dog found at large, not in the immediate care of its owner, or some person in his stead.

We should suppose that there are about five thousand dogs in this City, and if three or four thousand of them were destroyed, there would still be a sufficiency for any useful purpose.

The Quebec Emigrant Society, at their Meeting on the 11th of October last, resolved to apply to the benevolent in Great Britain and Ireland for assistance to enable them to carry their laudable intentions more effectually into operation. An address, for this purpose, has been printed, and sent to the old country.---From this document, we sincerely hope to see the dreadful scene of distress, which the spirit for emigration has produced, lessened in the course of succeeding years. Much has been done by this Society; but it has turned out as we formerly suspected, their means are not adequate to provide for all the necessities which come before them; and we greatly fear, that unless government comes forward and takes an active part in the business, they will still be unprovided with the accessory funds for giving effectual relief to all who have a claim on them. In this remark we would not be understood to detract from the meritorious conduct of this Society, nor do we by any means think that those poor Emigrants, can be assisted in the most efficacious way, without the intervention of societies formed in the country, for that purpose. It is however a fact that all the efforts such societies can make, are but as "a drop in the bucket" compared with the irresistible necessities, which daily present themselves. Why is there not an appeal made to the British Parliament, on this subject? Would they be less ready to promote Emigration to the Canadas than to the Cape of Good Hope?

The prominent objects set forth in this address are well selected for their importance and justly delineated.
We sincerely hope they will make a due impression on those they are intended for.
They are three, viz: 1st, under what circumstances individuals may be advised to emigrate; 2d under what they ought to be deterred from doing so; and 3d, the information, those emigrants ought to be possessed of,
