PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council:

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fifty-eighth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, intitled "An Act to allow for three years, and until six weeks after the commencement of the then next session of Parliament, the importation into ports specially appointed by His Majesty within the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New-Brunswick, of the articles therein enumerated, and the re-exportation thereof from such ports," it is enacted that it shall and may be lawful, in any British ship or vessel owned and navigated according to law, or in any ship or vessel belonging to the subjects of any Sovereign or State in amity with His Majesty, to import into and export from such ports within the provinces of Nova Scotia or New-Brunswick, as shall be specially appointed for that purpose, certain articles, in the said Act enumerated, any thing in any law to the contrary notwithstanding; His Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Him by the above recited Act, is pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that from and after the date of this order, and until further order made thereon, it shall be lawful, in any British built ship or vessel, owned and navigated according to law; or in any ship or vessel belonging to the subjects of any Sovereign or State in amity with His Majesty, to import into the port of St. Andrews, in New Brunswick, any scantling, planks, staves, heading-boards, shingles, hoops, horses, neat cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, or live stock of any sort; bread, biscuits, flour, peas, beans, potatoes, wheat, rice, oats, barley, or grain of any sort; pitch, tar, turpentine, fruits, seeds, and tobacco; provided that such articles shall, in all cases where the same shall be imported in foreign vessels, be of the growth, produce, or manufacture of the country to which the vessels importing the same shall belong; and that it shall be lawful in any British built ship or vessel, owned and navigated according to law, to export from the said port any of the said articles, either to the United Kingdom; or to any other of His Majesty's possessions.

And it is hereby further ordered, that it shall and may be lawful, in any British-built ship or vessel, owned and navigated according to law, or in any ship or vessel belonging to the subjects of any Sovereign or State in amity with His Majesty, to export from the port of St. Andrews, in New Brunswick, any gypsum, grindstones, or other produce or manufacture of the said province; and also any produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom, or of His Majesty's colonies or plantations in the West Indies, or any goods whatever which shall have been legally imported into the said province, provided that none of the said articles shall be exported from the port above-named, to any foreign country or place, in any foreign vessel, unless such foreign vessel shall belong to the country to which the said articles shall be exported.

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly. Jus. Buller.

The following Address has been presented to the King; which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty. The dutiful and loyal Address of the Ministers and Congregations of Protestant Dissenters of the Independent denomination, in the connection of the late Reverend William Huntington, in London and its Vicinity; and in the branches of that connection in various parts of the Country.

WE, the undersigned, Protestant Dissenters of the Independent denomination in the connection of the late Reverend William Huntington, most respectfully beg leave, at this time especially, to approach your Majesty with the unfeigned assurance of our dutiful and affectionate attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person, and with the heartfelt sentiments of loyalty and respect towards your Majesty's wise and paternal Government.

Yes, Sire, we say at this time especially, when, deeply penetrated with the grateful recollection of the privileges so long enjoyed under the benign sway of your Majesty's Royal Father, King George the Third, of blessed memory, and duly sensible of the obligations we owe to your Majesty for the continuance and confirmation of those privileges, we have beheld with the utmost abhorrence and detestation the attempts that have been made, and are still making, to disseminate the principles of disaffection and sedition, to call into action the worst passions of human nature, to excite to the disorganization and overthrow of every valuable institution, to unhinge the bonds of society, to annihilate all moral obligation towards God and man, and to introduce anarchy, confusion and ruin into every class of the social compact, from the Throne of the Monarch to the mansions of the wealthy, the circle of the citizen, and the cottage of the peasant.

Impressed with these sentiments, we cannot but deprecate the practice recently carried to such an unprecedented extent, by some evil disposed persons, of taking advantage of passing occurrences to effect their villainous designs by inflammatory speeches, tending to excite clamour and discontent in the minds of the ignorant and unwary, and abusing to licentiousness the liberty of the press, endeavouring, by means of seditious and blasphemous publications, to inflame their minds, to mislead the well disposed, to banish all fear of God, to bring into contempt the Authorities, lawfully constituted, and to diffuse a pernicious fervour throughout the land, alike dangerous to your Majesty's Person and Government, and to the peace, tranquillity, and welfare of your Majesty's loyal subjects of every rank and degree.

We view with regret, but we hope without any just cause of alarm, the unceasing efforts of one class of the community to induce your Majesty to remove from your Councils these eminent Statesmen who, with such fidelity to your Majesty, and with such honour and advantage to the nation, have, under your Majesty's auspices, so long dispensed the resources and wielded the strength of the British empire. We, in common with the rest of your Majesty's faithful subjects, feel and lament the heavy pressure of the present times, occasioned, as we believe, by a concurrence of fortuitous circumstances beyond the sphere of human efforts to control; but we entertain a confidence that all that a wise and paternal Government can effect towards the amelioration of those circumstances, will be still attempted by your Majesty's present Ministers. We remember, with gratitude, the signal and unparalleled success with which it pleased God to crown the measures of those Ministers so wisely adopted and continued by your Majesty when exercising the Sovereign functions as Regent of the United Kingdom. For these successes, brilliant and important beyond example, either in this or any other age or clime, we desire to render unfeigned thanks to the Supreme Disposer of all events; and as it hath pleased Him thereby to give peace to the bleeding nations, with these facts in view, and with the confidence thus reposed, we venture humbly and respectfully to submit our hope that it may be your Majesty's pleasure that no such change of administration, as this clamour would presume to dictate, may at this juncture take place.

With the enjoyment of our present privileges as Protestants and as Dissenters, we beg permission to express to your Majesty our grateful and entire satisfaction; nor can we conceive it possible that there is a single individual, throughout your Majesty's dominions, either among the Dissenters, the members of the Romish Communion, or any other sect, who can justly complain of any undue restrictions in the exercise of his religious faith, or in the mode of his religious worship; the extension of those privileges, by our late venerable and beloved Sovereign, and the continuation of them by your Majesty, has for ever superseded every possible objection, and anticipated every reasonable claim to further indulgence, on this point: for if liberty of conscience is required, we already fully possess it; if additional concessions are demanded, that demand, we humbly conceive, can only originate in a latent wish for power, an insipient grasping at authority; and therefore it was with genuine exultation we hailed your Majesty's determination to follow the example of your illustrious Ancestors of the House of Brunswick in maintaining inviolate the Protestant interest and the Constitution of this country as by law established in Church and State.

Thus, Sire, we have presumed respectfully to lay our sentiments at the foot of the Throne, conceiving it our bounden duty so to do, when infidelity and disloyalty, urged by every malignant motive, are stalking unblushingly through the land. Those sentiments we have imbibed as Christians and as Britons; they were strenuously inculcated by our late revered Pastor; and, above all, we consider them as authorised, warranted, and enjoined by the precepts of Divine Revelation; and, as such, we hesitate not to declare our firm and conscientious conviction that not only infidelity to our God, but disloyalty to our Prince in the exercise of his rightful prerogative, is incompatible with true Christianity.

Expressing, as we thus do, our heartfelt attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government, and our ready obedience to the laws of our country, we sincerely pray that the Almighty King of kings and Lord of lords may bring to nought all the evil designs of your Majesty's enemies, whether foreign or domestic; and that in the pleasing contemplation of the welfare of your subjects, your Majesty's reign may be long and prosperous over a free, united, and happy people.

With these sentiments we beg permission respectfully to subscribe ourselves, your Majesty's most dutiful, most loyal and devoted subjects.
