LONDON, JULY 19. The Coronation.

THE RECOGNITION.

At the conclusion of the Anthem, the Archbishop of Canterbury, together with the Lord Chancellor, the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, the Lord High Constable, and Deputy Earl Marshal, preceded by Deputy Chamberlain, moved to the east side of the Theatre, where the Archbishop made the Recognition, and repeated the same at the south, west, and north sides of the Theatre; during which time his Majesty was standing, and turned towards the people on the side on which the recognition was made; the people replying to this demand with loud and repeated acclamations of "God save King George the Fourth; and at the last recognition, the trumpets sounded and the drums beat.

His Majesty was then seated; and the Bible, the Chalice, and Patine were carried to and placed upon the altar by the Bishops who had borne them in the procession.

The two Officers of the Wardrobe then spread a rich cloth of gold, and laid a cushion of the same for his Majesty to kneel on, at the steps of the Altar. The Archbishop of Canterbury put on his cope, and the Bishops, who were to sing the Litany, were also vested in their copes.

The several ceremonies of Offering, the Oath, and the Anointing, having been successively performed, the King then kneeling, the Archbishop standing on the north side of the Altar, pronounced the benediction. The Knights of the Garter delivered the pall to the Lord Chamberlain.

THE INVESTING WITH THE SUPERTUNICA.

The Dean of Westminster then received from the Officers of the Wardrobe, the Supertunica of cloth of gold and a girdle of the same for the sword, with which the Dean arrayed his Majesty.

THE SPURS.

After this the Dean took the spurs from the Altar, and delivered them to Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, who, kneeling down, touched his Majesty's heels therewith, and returned them to the Dean, by whom they were laid upon the Altar.

THE SWORD.

The Nobleman who carried the sword of state delivered it to the Lord Chamberlain, and, in return, received another sword, in a scabbard of purple velvet, which his Lordship delivered to the Archbishop, who laid it on the altar, and said the prayer, "Hear our prayers, O Lord, we beseech thee, and so direct and support thy servant King George, who is now to be girt with this sword."

The Archbishop assisted by other Bishops, then delivered the sword into the King's right hand, saying "Receive this kingly sword, &c."—His Majesty then standing up, the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain girded his Majesty with the sword. The King being again seated, the Archbishop repeated, "Remember him of whom," &c.

OFFERING OF THE SWORD.

The King, then rising up, unguarded the sword, and went to the altar, where his Majesty offered it in the scabbard (delivering it to the Archbishop), and then retired to his chair. The sword was then redeemed for 100 shillings by the Nobleman who first received it, and who carried it during the remainder of the solemnity; having first drawn it out of the scabbard and delivered the latter officer of the wardrobe.

THE INVESTING WITH THE MANTLE AND ARMILL.

The King, then standing, his Majesty was invested by the Dean with the imperial mantle, or Dalmatic robe of cloth of gold, delivered to him by the Officers of the wardrobe; and his Majesty was then invested in like manner with the armill, the Archbishop pronounced the exhortation, "Receive this armill as a token of the divine mercy, embracing you on every side."

THE ORB.

The King then sat down, and the Archbishop having received the orb from the Dean, delivered it into the King's right hand, saying, "Receive this imperial orb," &c.

His Majesty then returned the orb to the Dean, who laid it upon the altar.

THE RING.

The Lord Chamberlain then delivered the ruby ring to the Archbishop, which his Grace put on the fourth finger of the King's right hand, the Archbishop, saying, "Receive this ring," &c.

The Dean then brought from the altar the two sceptres with the cross and dove, and delivered them to the Archbishop.

In the mean time the Lord of the Manor of Worktop presented his Majesty with a pair of gloves embroidered with the arms of Howard which his Majesty put on.

THE SCEPTRES.

The Archbishop then delivered the sceptre with the cross into his Majesty's right hand saying, "Receive the Royal Sceptre," &c.; and then the sceptre with the dove into his left hand, saying "Receive the Rod of Equity," &c.

The Lord of the Manor of Worktop supported his Majesty's right arm, and held the sceptre as occasion required.

THE CROWNING.

The Archbishop standing before the altar and having St. Edward's crown before him, took the same into his hands, and consecrated and blessed it with the prayer, "O God, who crownest thy faithful servants with mercy," &c. Then the Archbishop, assisted by other Bishops, came from the altar, the Dean of Westminster carrying the crown, and the Archbishop took and placed it on his Majesty's head while the assemblage with loud and enthusiastic shouts, cried "God save the King," the trumpets sounding, the drums beating, and the Tower and Park guns firing by signal. The acclamation ceasing, the Archbishop pronounced the exhortation, "Be strong and of courage," &c. &c. The choir then sang the anthem, "The King shall rejoice in thy strength," &c.

As soon as the King was crowned, the Peers put on their coronets, the Bishops their caps, and the Kings of Arms their crowns.

THE HOLY BIBLE.

The Dean then took the Holy Bible from the altar, delivered it to the Archbishop, who, attended by the rest of the Bishops, presented it to the King, saying, "Our gracious King," &c. &c. &c. The King returned the Bible to the Archbishop, who gave it to the Dean, to be by him replaced on the altar.

The Archbishop then pronouncing the benedictions, the Bishops and the Peers answered each benediction with a loud Amen. The Archbishop then turning to the People said, "And the same Lord God Almighty grant," &c. The King then kissed the Archbishop and Bishops, who knelt before him. The Te Deum was then sung, during which time the King removed to the chair on which his Majesty first sat, on the east side of the Throne.

THE INTHRONIZATION.

Te Deum being ended, the King was then inthroned by the Bishops and Peers; and the Archbishop pronounced the exhortation—"Stand firm and hold fast," &c.

THE HOMAGE.

The Archbishop of Canterbury then knelt before the King, and, for himself and the other Lords Spiritual, pronounced the words of homage, the Bishops kneeling around him, and saying after him. The Archbishop then kissed his Majesty's left cheek, and the rest of the Bishops after him, and retired. Then the Duke of York, ascending the Throne and taking off his Coronet, knelt before the King, and, for himself and the other Dukes of the Blood Royal, pronounced the word of homage, the rest putting off their Coronets, kneeling with and about him, and saying after him—The Duke of York then touched the Crown upon his Majesty's head, and kissed his Majesty's left cheek, the rest of the Blood Royal after him, and retired. The Dukes and other Peers observed the same, the senior of each degree pronouncing the words of homage, and the rest of the same degree, saying after him, and each Peer of the same degree, successively, touching his Majesty's Crown, and kissing his Majesty's left cheek, and then retired.

During this time, the Treasurer of his Majesty's household threw about the medals of the Coronation. During the homage, the sceptre with the cross was held on the King's right hand, by the Lord of the Manor of Worktop; and the sceptre with the dove, by the Duke of Rutland.

THE HOLY SACRAMENT.

After the homage, the two Bishops who had read the Epistle and Gospel, received from the altar by the hands of the Archbishop, the patine and the chalice, which they carried into St. Edward's Chapel, and brought from thence the bread upon the patine and the wine in the chalice. His Majesty then descended from the Throne, and went to the altar, where taking off his crown, his Majesty then delivered it to the Lord Great Chamberlain to hold. Then the Bishops delivered the patine and chalice into the King's hands; and his Majesty delivered them to the Archbishop, who placed the same upon the altar, covering them with a linen cloth. His Majesty then received the sacrament, the Archbishop administering the bread, and the Dean of Westminster the cup.

The choir then sang the Anthem "Blessed be thou Lord God of Israel," &c.; and at the conclusion, the trumpets sounded, the drums beat, and amidst the acclamations of the assembly, the King put on his crown and taking the two sceptres in his hands, again ascended the throne and sat there, supported and attended as before, until the conclusion of the post-communion service and the blessing.

After which his Majesty, attended as before, descended into the area, and passed through the door on the south side of the altar into St. Edward's Chapel; and the Noblemen who had carried the Regalia received them from the Dean of Westminster as they passed by the altar.

The King came into the Chapel, and standing before the altar, delivered the sceptres to the Archbishop who had laid them upon the altar. The rest of the regalia was delivered to the Dean, to be by him laid upon the altar.

Then the king was disrobed of his Royal robe of state, and arrayed in his Royal robe of purple velvet, by the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain.

The Archbishop delivered the sceptre with the cross into his right hand, and the orb into his left. The Dean delivered the sceptre with the dove to the Nobleman who had before carried it, and who was to bear it in the returning procession.

As soon as the King went into St. Edward's Chapel, the Officers of Arms began to call over and arrange the procession for the return to Westminster Hall; and at the moment when his Majesty came out of the Chapel, the procession moved forward as in the preceding order; except that the Noblemen who, in the former procession had borne the gold spurs and St. Edward's staff, left them in St. Edward's chapel, and the orb and the sceptre with the cross borne by his Majesty, now walked in their due places, according to their degrees in the peerage. The Aldermen now wore their hats, the Judges their coifs, the Peers their coronets, and his Majesty his Crown.

THE HALL AFTER THE KING'S DEPARTURE.

As soon as the procession had quitted the Hall, the Peers, and all those individuals who had passed tickets for the Abbey, and places reserved for them there, proceeded as speedily as the pressure would admit, to their several seats by the route
