

friend. It was clear, in point of law, that it required an act of the crown to enable her Majesty to be crowned. No part of the prerogative could be more clear and undoubted than this.—He could also say, that he and the other advisers of the crown were not prepared to advise the King to take the steps which were necessary before her Majesty could take part in the ceremonial. If the hon. gentleman, or any other members, were prepared to advise the dying, or he should rather say, dead embers, of the painful controversy in which the country was lately involved, they must take on themselves the responsibility of their discretion, or, he should rather say, indiscretion.

Mr. Brougham said, though it was undoubted that any matter of grievance might be, with perfect order, discussed in a Committee of supply, he should then abstain from entering at large into the question which had been raised. He only begged to protest against being supposed to assent to the principle that the Queen had not a right to be crowned. That question not being regularly before him, he did not wish to give an opinion one way or the other (hear.)

The conversation dropped.

Claim of the Queen to be Crowned.

The following decision of the Privy Council upon this question was transmitted on Wednesday morning by Lord Viscount Sidmouth to Lord Viscount Hood:

At the Court at Carlton-house, the 10th July, 1821.

Present—The King's most excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas there was this day read at the Board a Report from a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, in the words following, viz:—

"Your Majesty having been pleased, by your Order in Council of the third of this instant, to refer unto this Committee the several Memorials of her Majesty the Queen, claiming a right to be crowned on the same day and the same place which has (have) been appointed for the Coronation of your Majesty, and prayed to be heard by Counsel in support of the said claim; the Lords of the Committee, in obedience to your Majesty's said order of reference, have accordingly heard her Majesty's Attorney and Solicitor General in support of her Majesty's said claim, and having also heard the observations of your Majesty's Attorney and Solicitor General thereupon, their Lordships do agree humbly to report to your Majesty their opinions, that as it appears to them that the Queen's Consort of this realm are not entitled of right to be crowned at any time, her Majesty the Queen is not entitled as of right to be crowned at the time specified in her Majesty's memorials.

"His Majesty having taken this said Report into consideration, has been pleased, by and with the advice of the Privy Council, to approve thereof.

(Signed) "C. C. GRENVILLE."

HOUSE OF LORDS, JULY 11.

About three o'clock, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Earls of Harrowby and Westmorland, and the Duke of Wellington, took their seats as his Majesty's Commissioners for Proroguing the Parliament.

The Usher of the Black Rod was sent to desire the attendance of the House of Commons. Shortly afterwards the Speaker, accompanied by a number of Members, appeared at the Bar.

The Royal Assent was then notified to the Duke of Clarence's Annuity bill, the Appropriation bill, the Lottery bill, and the Irish Exchequer Courts bill.

The LORD CHANCELLOR then read the following Speech:—

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"We have it in command from his Majesty to inform you, that the state of public business having enabled him to dispense with your attendance in Parliament, he has determined to put an end to the Session.

"His Majesty, however, cannot close it without expressing his satisfaction at the zeal and assiduity with which you have presented the laborious and important inquiries in which you have been engaged.

"He has observed with particular pleasure, the facility with which the restoration of a Metallic Currency has been effected by the authority given to the Bank of England, to commence its payments in Cash at an earlier period than had been determined by the last Parliament.

"His Majesty has commanded us to acquaint you, that he continues to receive from Foreign Powers the strongest assurances of their friendly disposition towards this Country.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"We are commanded by his Majesty to return you his thanks for the provision which you have made for the public service.

"Although the public expenditure has already undergone considerable reduction within the present year, his Majesty trusts he shall be enabled, by the continuance of peace, and of internal tranquillity, to make such further reductions as may satisfy the just expectations expressed by Parliament.

"His Majesty has commanded me to assure you of the gratification which he has derived from the provision which you have made for his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence.

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"It is with great satisfaction that his Majesty has observed the quiet and good order which continue to prevail in those parts of the country which were not long since in a state of agitation.

"His Majesty deeply laments the distress to which the Agricultural interests in many parts of the kingdom are still subject.

"It will be his Majesty's most anxious desire, by a strict attention to public economy, to do all that depends upon him for the relief of the country from its present difficulties; but you cannot fail to be sensible that the success of all efforts for this purpose will depend upon the continuance of domestic tranquillity: and his Majesty confidently relies on your utmost exertions in your several counties, in enforcing obedience to the laws, and promoting harmony and concord amongst all descriptions of his Majesty's subjects."

A Commission for proroguing the Parliament was read—

After which the Lord Chancellor said,

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"By virtue of his Majesty's Commission under the Great Seal, to us and other Lords directed, and now read, we do, in his Majesty's name, and in obedience to his commands, prorogue this Parliament to Thursday the 20th day of September next, to be then here holden, and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to the 20th September next."

The Lords then retired from the House and the Commons withdrew from the Bar
