

King of Prussia, but precisely in the same terms.

Address by Ferdinand I. by the grace of God and the Constitution of the Monarchy, King of the Two Sicilies, &c. &c. to his faithful Deputies of Parliament.

The Sovereigns of Austria, Russia, and Prussia, united in Congress at Troppau, have sent me three letters, in which they invite me to repair in person to Laybach, to form a new Congress to be held in that place.

You will collect from the letters themselves, copies of which will be laid before you by my Minister of Foreign Affairs, the importance of the object of such an invitation, which is that of interposing myself as mediator between the above named Sovereigns and the nation.

Duly penetrated with the circumstances under which we are placed, and desirous to make any sacrifice to establish the happiness of the nation, on a solid basis, I turn with avidity to every expedient that presents to me the hope of effecting that object. Consequently, I am resolved to overcome all the obstacles offered by my advanced age and the rigor of the season and to comply promptly with the invitation, since the above named Sovereigns have cause it to be declared to me that there can be no other medium for treating, even were it one of the Princes of my Royal Family. I set out with the confidence that Divine Providence will afford me the means of giving the last proof of my love to you, in saving the nation from the scourge of war.

Far be the thought from me and from you, that the adoption of this project can make me compromise the good of my people; and in parting from you I owe it to myself to give you a new and solemn guarantee. I declare then, to you and to the nation, that has resolved to make every exertion for the enjoyment of a liberal and wise Constitution, that whatever measures circumstances may exact, relative to our actual political state, all my efforts will be directed, that it may remain forever fixed upon the following basis:—

1. That the individual and real liberty of my beloved subjects may be secured by a fundamental law of the State.

1. That birth shall confer no privileges in the composition of the legislative body of the State.

3. That no taxes shall be imposed without the consent of the nation in its legitimate representation.

4. That the account of public expenditure shall be referred to the nation itself, and to its representatives.

5. That laws shall be made in accordance with the national representatives.

6. That the judicial power shall be independent.

7. That the press shall remain free, except from the operation of laws enacted against the abuses of its liberty.

8. That the ministers be responsible.

9. That the Civil List shall be fixed. I further declare, that none of my subjects shall ever receive molestation on account of past political events.

My faithful Deputies.—In taking on me this care to convince you of my love and solicitude for the nation, I desire that a deputation of four Members, selected from the Parliament may accompany me and be witnesses of the dangers that threaten, and the endeavours that may be made to enslave us.

It is necessary, however, that until the termination of these negotiations, Parliament do not propose any new measure in the different branches, but that affairs may remain in the state in which they are at present, limiting its care to the part it is already called on to take in the organization of the army, and that all arrangements, dictated by time and circumstances, may continue in the new year as they were fixed in that which is about to expire. It is my decided wish that the greatest economy in expenditure may be adopted in all the departments, as soon as the situation of affairs will permit.

I leave with you, in parting, all that I hold most dear. You will continue to feel those sentiments of attachment which you have ever professed for my Royal Family.

I confirm my beloved son, the Duke of Calabria, in his functions of my Vicar-General, expressed in my act of the 9th July, and 11th of Oct. of this year.

I am convinced that you will receive this communication as a proof of my sentiments for you, and of that necessity which obliges us to prefer the salvation of our country to every other secondary interest.

FERDINAND.

The Duke of CAMPOCHIARO, Sec. of State, and Minister for Foreign Affairs.
