

between Spain and Portugal, under which Portugal is to dispatch immediately a corps of 8,000 picked troops to the assistance of the Spaniards; this force to be increased as occasion may require. It appears to be confirmed that the Queen of Portugal has declined to swear to the new constitution, in consequence of which her husband has directed her to retire to the Quinta de Ramalbao, one of her country residences, there to continue until she shall have recovered her health; when, according to law, as a refractory subject, she must quit the kingdom. No less than ten physicians have been appointed to attend her. She is the eldest sister of Ferdinand VII. of Spain, and from the above, it would seem, that she is the most resolute of the two.

NAPLES.

The King of Prussia left Naples on the 5th, but in consequence of the destruction of bridges, had to return. He departed again on the 7th, and proceeded to Rome without difficulty.

The gendarmerie, the only remaining corps of the old army, has been dissolved. A new body is to be formed for the police of the country, to be called Fuiliari Reali and is to be placed under the command of the Intendants of Provinces.

HOLLAND.

It is rumoured in Holland that the Government has submitted an important proposition to the States General, not only with regard to trade in general but more especially as effecting the commerce of the colonies of India. The measure, it is confidently expected, when it comes to be acted upon, will have a direct tendency to induce other governments to sanction a more liberal policy than what at present exists in Indian affairs.

It is also stated, that the riots in the Netherlands have been serious, and that the King has applied for 10,000 men to enable him to maintain his authority. The riots of Louvain have been formidable, four persons have been killed, and the troops refused to act against the Bourgeois, saying that they were only to defend their country against foreigners.

The French Ex-General Sarrazin has embarked at Antwerp, on his way to Lisbon.

RUSSIA.

The papers contain very little news from Russia. The autumn had been very mild. One paragraph states that one of the superior officers who was in the suite of the Emperor Alexander, has left Verona on an important mission to the head-quarters of the Russian army of the South, with orders for Count Wittgenstein.

We find it mentioned in several papers, though we can hardly believe it, that the Emperor Alexander, who was so zealous a patron of missions a few years ago, has shut the mouths of the Moravian missionaries at Serapia. He has refused them the liberty to baptize or convert the heathen Calmnes, and has reduced them to be mere distributors of Bibles—even one word in the way of commentary being forbidden. The prohibition extends to all Protestant missions in Russia.

THE CAUSE OF THE GREEKS.

Another brilliant achievement has been accomplished by the heroic Canaries, of the Greek Navy, by the blowing up and entire destruction of another Turkish Admiral's ship of 84 guns. An account of this affair will be found below. It is detailed with so much particularity, in a number of accounts, that we can hardly doubt of the reality. Two Ottoman frigates were also driven on shore, but their crews were saved, and one brig was captured. But this action was not the only success of the Greeks. Omar Vroni has experienced a signal defeat at Missolonghi, the consequence of which it is said, will be the liberation of Western Greece from all hostile attacks till the expiration of the winter. A letter from Trieste gives the following details:—Eight thousand Albanians, under the command of Omer Vroni, entered Acarania, and advanced as far as Missolonghi, where Maurocordatu, Normann, and other Greek Chiefs, were posted in considerable force. Three Turkish ships bombarded the city from the sea. Marcos Bozzaris, with 3000 Greeks, occupied the pass of Tygos, and he was surrounded by 2000 Turks. For three days, the Greeks disputed the pass, and during that time they were without food. Matters were in a state of despair, when 12 Greek ships arrived at Missolonghi on the 3d of November, having on board 3000 soldiers. The three Turkish vessels were immediately attacked and burnt, and the Greeks disembarked. United with the forces in the town, they immediately attacked the Turks, who, unable to resist, took to flight and, being pursued, several of them were drowned in the Acheous, many others were killed, and a considerable number made prisoners, only the cavalry saving themselves.

"A letter from Trieste states, that the towns of Corea and Moien have offered to capitulate, provided the Greeks will suffer the Ottoman garrisons to retire into Thessalie; but the Chief of the Greeks would not comply with their request."

The London Sun, a Ministerial paper, has the following conclusion to a paragraph, respecting the success of the Greeks "There is reason to believe that the opinion which has for some time prevailed, respecting the new policy of England towards the cause of Greece, is well founded. It is the obvious policy of Great-Britain to procure the erection of Greece into an independent State, if possible with the consent of Turkey, in which case an alliance might be formed between Great-Britain, the Greeks, and Turkey, to protect the remaining dominions of the Porte against the encroachments of Russia."

The following, if true, is very important. And why should there not be some foundation for it, since Mr. Canning has effected so great a change in the exterior policy of the cabinet? A London correspondent writes to his friend in Paris, that Mr. Canning, the moment he perceived the views of Congress with respect to Turkey, sent off a courier extraordinary to my Lord Stangford at Verona. This courier was bearer of a letter to the following import:—"On receipt of this you will repair to Lisourne, where you will find an English frigate ready to convey you to Constantinople; on arriving at that capital, you will declare to the Porte that she must render the Greeks independent, or otherwise England must take them under her protection. This measure is indispensably necessary, in order to deprive Russia of all pretext for declaring war."

Extract of a letter to the Editor of the Democratic Press, dated Curacao, Jan 7.

"I wrote you a few days ago, via St. Thomas, informing you of my safe arrival here in 15 days. About the 19 ult. a Colombian squadron, consisting of the corvette Bolivar, (formerly the Hercules, of New York,) and Vancadore brig, hove in sight off this harbor, and displayed their flags. An hour after, the Spanish frigate Maria Francisco, of 32 guns and 400 men (200 of whom were supernumeraries,) from Havana, for Porto Cabello, with 300,000 dollars, on board, (in specie,) also hove in sight, with the war schooner Constitution, of 10 guns—both fleets closed within gun shot. The Bolivar ranged up along side the enemy, and poured in a well directed fire—the Vancadore followed the movement of his Commodore (Daniels,) and also gave her a broadside. The cowardly Spaniard fired a gun to leeward, and surrendered his frigate without the least resistance. She was boarded by Daniels, manned, and ordered for Lagaira, where she has safely arrived. Daniels then came on shore here in his boat, and told us the name of his prize, &c. The Constitution made her escape to Bonair."

"The U. S. Frigate Congress, Capt. Biddle, arrived here six or seven days ago from Lautra, with the officers of the captured frigate Maria Francisco. The Congress put in here in distress, having lost her anchors at Lagaira during the disastrous gale that happened between the 20th and 23d ult."

"Accounts reached here to-day of a victory having been obtained over Gen. Morales by the Patriots near Maricao. The Spaniards had 350 killed and wounded, and 400 prisoners, besides several pieces of cannon, ammunition, &c."

We have been politely favored with the following extract of a letter:—"Curacao, 8th Jan. 1823. We have no particular news since our last—The Spanish frigate Ligera arrived at the Havanna with upwards of ninety inches of water in her, the Commodore writes from there that he had but just time to get his armament out before she sunk. The brig Hercules is here, and also the sch'r Constitution—Commodore Daniels is supposed to be off Porto Cabello with his squadron. The U. S. frigate Congress, Capt. Biddle, is off this port without anchors."
