By the President's Command.
GEO. SHORE, Adj. Gen.
Militia Forces.

Alms-House and Work-House.
COMMISSIONER FOR THE WEEK,
HENRY G. CLOPPER, Esquire.

We understand that last week at the Drill of the Sunbury Regt. of Militia, a dispute arose between Captain Ms and Captain Hs; in consequence of which a meeting took place, and after exchanging two shots each, the affair terminated happily and honorably to both parties.

Among the Passengers that arrived in the Steam Boat on Friday last was Capt. Barr, commanding Royal Engineers, and Major Allan, Inspecting Field Officer of the Militia Forces.

Married] In St. Marys on Saturday the 13th inst. by David M. Gibson, Esq. Mr. James Gilchrist, of Prince William, to Miss Jane, Daughter of Mr. David Good, gent. of Kingscliar.

At Queensbury, on Sunday the 14th inst. by the Rev. James Somerville, Elizabeth S. Long, to Catharine, fifth daughter of the late John Cunningham, Esq.

St. John, Sept. 11.
DIED] On Sunday morning last, of the Small Pox, ELIJAH MILES SMITH, son of the late Wm. H. Smith, Esq. in the 23rd year of his age, universally and sincerely regretted.

We regret to state that the Small Pox continues to make its appearance in every part of our city. It is our melancholy task this day to record in our Obituary List the death of a very promising young man who was carried off by this malignant disorder in the short space of one week, leaving a widowed mother and many affectionate friends to deplore the loss which society has sustained. We tremble to think of the extent to which this loathsome contagion may spread its ravages.

SLEP.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.
JULY--Parliament was this day prorogued to the 30th Sept. by commission. The Speech is a short one. The Commissioners say, "His Majesty has commanded us to inform you that he continues to receive from all foreign powers, the strongest assurances of their friendly disposition towards this country.

"Deeply as his Majesty still regrets the failure of his earnest endeavours to prevent the interruption of the peace of Europe, it affords him the greatest consolation that the principles upon which he has acted, and the policy which he has determined to pursue, have been marked with your warm and cordial concurrence as consonant with the interests, and satisfactory to the feelings of his people."

ASONG TO MY DEAR GARDEN,
By the Maid of the Wood.

OH, my dear little Garden, you late smil'd so gay,
Don't droop now thy head and look mournful I pray;
I see thy red blossoms pale turning with fear,
While the Maid of the Wood sings cold winter is near.

I love thee, my Garden, thy rustic and wild,
Well thou know'st thou wast growing for fancy's own child,
For the Maid of the Wood that has rovd thro' the trees,
To admire their rude forms, and lament with the breeze.

I have lov'd my dear Garden, each shrub of the field
And brake of the forest some pleasure could yield
To the Maid of the Wood, who with fanciful eye
Struck the true tones of Nature her works to admire.

Not a red rising morning, nor midnight's damp hour,
My Garden, nor dew-weeping grass nor fair flower,
Not a pale yellow leaf laid beneath its bare tree
But the Maid of the Wood there some new charm could see.

Not a tree, rock, or mountain, that's caught her wild eye,
My Garden, nor high moon, nor blue rolling sky,
Not a swift shooting star, nor a low setting sun,
But the Maid of the Wood's warm affection affections has won.

Then my dear little Garden, I love thee still more—
A peaceable neighbor, so mild at my door,
Whose towering bean branches a shelter have spread
For the Maid of the Wood's weary warm aching head.

Thy tall nodding flowers in yellow attire,
Have gazed on the sun, and extracted his fire,
Then gracefully bow'd—by his ardor inspir'd
And embrac'd while the Maid of the Wood has admir'd.

Round my lone humble windows thy vines have entwined
The glare of the gay from my tired eyes to blind,
Till the kind Moon at eve thro' the dark leaves has stole
To soothe the poor Maid of the Wood's troubled soul.

For soon my dear Garden thou'lt charm me no more,
And the bleak blasts of winter will rave round my door,
When no friends the poor Maid of the Wood's heart will warm
But their shades shiver 'round and complain in the storm.

Like thee, my dear Garden, all flesh must decay,
As the withering grass, and the flower fade away,
Oh! the Maid of the Wood warm with poetic fire,
In the cold arms of death must lie mute with her lyre.

When the Torpedo grass shall benumb her to clay,
May the Maid of the Woods' spark of Heaven fly away
To the wood bins of rapture, sweet groves of delight,
And with thousand times thousand bright songsters unite.
