

position on each flank to surround the enemy; the 3d Light Dragoons pursued.

The Cuirassier Brigade deployed into line; the Light Brigade formed in line in rear of the Cuirassiers.

The Line retired, and formed in contiguous columns.

The whole deployed into general line of parade: advanced in parade order, and gave a general salute.

Thus ended this brilliant military display. We never witnessed movements more admirably performed, and attacks, irresistible attacks, more incomparably executed. The impetus of the charge of the Cuirassiers was prodigious, and the activity and celerity of the Light Dragoons in the pursuit amazing. The whole scene was indescribably grand and imposing. We saw before us the greatest Capt. of the age, and a proud portion of the invincible troops, by which he achieved one of the greatest victories recorded in the annals of the world.

The Commander in Chief frequently expressed to the Officers around him his unqualified approbation of the movements and attacks of the troops. His Royal Highness retired with the Grand Cortège, highly gratified and delighted.

The ground was kept by the 14th Light Dragoons.

BRITISH SETTLEMENTS IN AFRICA.

Letters and papers from Cape Coast Castle to the 15. of April, have been received. The Owen Glendower, Driver, and Cyrene had recently arrived there. Sir Charles McCarthy, the active and able Gov. of the British territories on the western coast of Africa, embarked on the 14th, on board the Owen Glendower, for Accra. At his departure the inhabitants crowded to the shore, to testify their attachment to one, who, by his equitable and paternal government, had endeared himself to all classes subject to his command. On the 13th of last December his Excellency landed at Cape Coast Castle from Sierra Leone. A few weeks after his arrival he attended the opening of an excellent new road, which had been cut from Cape Coast to Annamabor, over woody mountains and plains, here, before, almost impassible. This, and every other improvement of the country, Sir Charles has zealously promoted. It is indeed gratifying to observe a British Gov. so indefatigable in spreading Christian knowledge and the arts of civilized life through regions involved in Pagan superstition and barbarous ignorance. Schools on the system of Dr. Bell have been established at all the settlements, and the Native Chiefs eagerly avail themselves of these means to have their children taught our language and arts. At the examination of the scholars the Gov. was present, and found their progress in reading and writing English to be really surprising. The native towns near Cape Coast are much improved: a market, a novelty to the African, was opened. British jurisprudence was gradually introduced, and native troops were organized under English Officers for the defence of the Settlement. This last measure appears to have had no small effect in deterring the King of the Ashanices, a most barbarous tyrant and plunderer, from a meditated attack on Cape Coast. The Fantees and other tribes in the neighbourhood, begin to look up to us for protection; and though the policy pursued by Sir Charles McCarthy was eminently conciliatory, yet it appears that spirit which he displayed in resenting a violation of our territory by the King of Ashanice had made the latter speedily desist from his menaced invasion.

The Slave Trade, we regret to find, was still carried on with hateful activity both by Portuguese and French vessels. Until that bloody traffic is declared, by the common consent of Nations, to be Piracy, no effectual means can be found for its entire suppression.

BOSTON, SEPT. 26.

By the ship Union, at New York, from Liverpool, London papers to the 21st of August, have been received. Tarragona has been supplied with arms, provisions, and money, by an English brig. Lord Nugent was about to proceed to Cadiz, to join the Spanish cause.

Letters have been received at Hull, stating the loss of the Neptune, on the coast of Greenland, and the fishery very unfavourable, as no fish had been seen since the middle of June.

The failure of the crops of Hops in England was so extensive, that the government duty had fallen £30,000 sterling.

A young man, named Miles, only 17 years of age, has been executed in London, for forgery.

Two Greek merchants were on the London Change, who escaped from Constantinople during one of those proscriptions of their unfortunate countrymen which occasionally emanate from the Turkish Government. They lost, of course, all their property, but found an asylum for their persons at Odessa, from whence they had travelled on foot across the Continent, enduring the greatest privations on the journey, for the purpose of taking shipping for England to join the Greeks in the Morea, and unite their support to the great struggle against the Turks.

The companions of Lord Byron, in his new crusade against the Turks, are Captains Wright, Roberts, and Trelawney, and the three Counts Gamba.

The Emperor of Russia has presented four beautiful horses to the King of England.

The number of English merchantmen is computed at near 23,000, manned by 160,000 sailors.

While Mina was lying sick in Barcelona, a sortie was made by the garrison. Hearing in his bed the firing of the musketry, he said—"it is cruel for me almost to see the battle, and not be able to give a lesson to these dogs, (the besiegers) who not content with being slaves themselves, would rivet fetters upon us also." His words were repeated to the people, who immediately assembled in crowds under the balcony, crying—"Long live Mina!—the Constitution or Death."—Nat. Gaz.

Ballasteros has written to the Cortes, that he is answerable that before fifteen days the King will be at liberty.

Great alarm prevailed in Smyrna on the 6th of August. The Turks and Greeks threaten the city in turn with dreadful slaughter. The quarters of the Franks had been closed. Alarm was depicted in every countenance.

HALIFAX, OCT. 6.

We received by the Billow, files of Philadelphia, New-York, and Boston papers. They furnish nothing of a later date from Europe, than brought by the Wilding.

We were this morning favoured with a New-York paper of the 27th ult.—but it is destitute of news.

The master of the sloop Selena reports, that a dreadful insurrection took place on the 18th of August, among the Negroes at some of the Plantations about 16 miles from Demerara.

The mal-contents amounted to several thousands, and they got about 100 stand of arms. The troops and militia were sent from the town; and the last reports were, that the Blacks, after doing much mischief, were nearly subdued, though not until about 300 of them had been killed. Happily, only one white person is said to have lost his life.

Barbadoes, Sept. 4.

By a recent arrival from Demerara, we are happy to have it in our power to state, that peace and tranquillity had been in a great measure restored; and that the revolted Negroes, (most of whom, we understand, had availed themselves of the clemency held forth by the Governor's proclamation) were returning to a sense of duty, and hastening to their respective Estates. A private letter mentions, that in consequence of some information which had been received, two Methodist Preachers, who, it is supposed, are principally engaged in exciting the misguided wretches, were in Jail. It is also reported, that two of the ringleaders were executed on the 25th ult.

ST. JOHN, OCT. 9.

A Court of Oyer and Terminer and Gen. Gaol Delivery commenced at the City-Hall, on Tuesday the 30th ult. at which His Honor Judge BLISS presides.

On Thursday last the following persons were brought up for trial.—

Hannah Essington, for the murder of her female Bastard child. Of this charge she was acquitted; but was convicted of endeavouring to conceal the birth.

This morning the prisoner was brought up for sentence, when she was adjudged to be confined one month in the Gaol, the Court having taken into consideration her former good character and previous long imprisonment.

Mary Lawrence, a woman of colour, for child murder.—Acquitted.

James M'Enesty, was convicted of Bigamy. This being the first case of the kind ever tried in the Province, it created a more than common portion of interest in the minds of those who crowded the Court-House during the proceedings. The Jury after a very short absence, returned with a verdict of Guilty.

M'Enesty was also brought up this morning and received the sentence of the Court—To be imprisoned two years in the Gaol, and there put to hard labor, and at the expiration of that term to pay a fine of twenty shillings.

On Saturday came on the trial of Moses Perley and William Munford, for Manslaughter, when after a full investigation of the case, the Jury found a verdict of Guilty. The Court sentenced the former to pay a fine of £10 and the latter £5. We trust that this decision will operate as a warning in all time coming against the incautious and improper use of fire arms in the neighbourhood of populous towns or navigable streams.

On Tuesday morning came on the trial of J. W. Barker, for the crime of Forgery, in having attempted to draw a Bill of Exchange purporting to be drawn in his favour by Gilmore, Rankin, & Co. of Miramichi, on Pollock, Gilmore, & Co. Greenock, which was proved to be a Forgery. The Bill was for the sum of £200 sterling. Verdict, Guilty.

Barker also received sentence of the Court, viz:—To be imprisoned one year in the Gaol of this City—and that he stand one hour in the Pillory on Thursday next between the hours of one and three.

Thomas B. Creech, was also indicted, tried and found guilty of Grand Larceny, when he was sentenced by the Court to be imprisoned six months, all other punishments to which he was liable by law being remitted on account of the ill health of the prisoner, who it appeared was subject to fits.

The Court it is expected will not rise until to-morrow.
