

against invasion, are yourselves the invaders, and, what is more, the unblushing allies of the savages, whose cause you have adopted. You have referred me for the rule of my conduct to the Treaty of Washington, which, like all other Treaties, which have received the constitutional sanction, is among the supreme laws of the land, and which the President is therefore bound to carry into effect, "by all the means under his control." In turn, I take the liberty to refer you to a Treaty of prior date, and prior ratification concluded at the Indian Springs, a copy of the Proclamation of which, under the sign manual of the President, I have the honour to enclose. On a comparison of dates, the President may think proper to remind the Congress that the old grant claims preference of the new, and that when vested rights have passed, the old Treaty, like the old grant, has preference of the new.

You have deemed it necessary, to the personal safety of Lieut. Vinton, to impose on him the injunction of profound secrecy, in the execution of your orders, whilst you cause to be published at Washington the very instructions which disclose those orders and enjoin that secrecy, and which in fact reached this place in the public prints even before Lieut. Vinton had had an opportunity to deliver your dispatch. You mistake the character of the people of Georgia. Officers of the U. States, engaged in the performance of their lawful duties, have only to deport themselves as gentlemen, to find the same security and protection in Georgia, as under the ægis of the government at Washington. I have the honour to be your obedient servant,

G. M. TROUP.

Hon. JAMES BARBOUR, Secretary of War.
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, GEO.

It is moreover enjoined on civil magistrates of this state, having competent jurisdiction of the same, to be aiding and assisting and inquiring into the cause of every such arrest or detention as aforesaid, that the person may be discharged forthwith, if illegally or unjustly detained, and in affording such redress to the aggrieved or injured party as by law he may be entitled to receive.

By the Governor,
