I look at Colombia to-day as a new born nation. God grant her prosperity under her Republican Laws. The Spanish General Cisnaus (the Abellino and Floardo of this country) is no more. He was defeated ten days ago in the vicinity of this city, in the mountains. His band of desperadoes (say 800) are all taken; he was a deadly enemy to Colombia.—New York Enquirer.

COLONIAL.—Among the several statesman...like objects contemplated by the late illustrious Premier, we understand the extension of the Colony of New-Brunswick, by promoting settlements in the interior, was a favourite measure, as it would not only form a better barrier than Canada to the ascendancy of the United States Government, but it is more accessible at all times of the year to British Commerce, and the population would be nearly all British instead of the mixed race of French and English, which constitutes the Canadian population, and which has constantly shown a preference for America rather than Great Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Hon. Edward G. S. Stanley, M. P. Grandson of the Earl Derby, has been appointed Under Secretary to the Colonial Department, vice Horton promoted. Mr. Huskisson who is at the head of the Department, it is said intends to make an entire change of the system pursued in it.

Two corps of the Ottoman disciplined army are said to be marching to occupy Moldavia and Wallachia, the event, if true indicates a decided resolution on the part of the Sultan to run the hazard of a war before he will consent to the degradation of

If this is the case and he shines as bright in the pulpit as he did upon the stage, he will be an acquisition of no ordinary value. MONTREAL, OCT. 5.
DINNER TO THE EARL OF DALHOUSIE.

On Thursday, about 230 of the most respectable gentlemen of this city gave His Excellency a dinner. The Hon. John Forsyth in the Chair. After the cloth was removed, the Chairman gave the following toasts:—The KING...Long may he live. God save the King.

Duke of Clarence and the Royal Family...Brunswick's March.

The Chairman then said...the toast, Gentlemen, which I will have the honour to propose, must, I am sure, be received with pleasure by every individual of this numerous and highly respectable company.

Upon the present occasion we are met, gentlemen, to pay that tribute of respect to His Excellency the Earl of Dalhousie which he so justly merits. Our object is to show to our noble Guest that deference and regard which it is, and ever ought to be, our pride to offer to so worthy a Representative of our Sovereign. In my mind we ought to conceive ourselves happy and fortunate, in having to preside over us a Nobleman of such elevated rank, worth, and talents.

Earl of Dalhousie, our illustrious Guest...Earl of Dalhousie's March.

This toast having been received and drunk with the most rapturous applause, Lord Dalhousie, leaving his seat and addressing the company, with much feeling and energy, briefly expressed his thanks to the following effect. He said that he felt deeply impressed by the marked attention and regard with which the large and respectable company then present had received the last toast, and that the impression left on his mind by this compliment would never be obliterated; that it was natural to infer that the manner in which he had thus the happiness to be treated by many of the most respectable inhabitants of Montreal and the vicinity, emanated from approbation of his public conduct. He would only say that ever since His Majesty had been graciously pleased to confide to him the Government of this Province, he could truly boast that all his measures had been directed to the good of the country. He flattered himself that he had in some measure been successful in promoting the improvement of Lower Canada; and so long as His Majesty should be graciously pleased to continue him in this Government he would undeviatingly pursue a similar and consistent course. He would assure them that such as they had hitherto found him in his conduct, such should he continue to be. He would again assure them of the high esteem with which he would ever cherish the remembrance of the honor which they had done him, and with the permission of the President, he would propose as a bumper toast, with three times three, "The prosperity of the Canadas."

His Lordship was frequently interrupted with the most enthusiastic applause.

Mr. RICHARDSON then rose and stated, that, from his long residence in the country he hoped he might be permitted to say a few words. The toast which had been drunk had been received from the greatest promoter of the prosperity of the Canadas; and he considered this a fit opportunity to declare that all those great public works which were already conferring such great benefit on the country, were principally owing to the suggestions of His Lordship to His Majesty's Government.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN, in the absence of Mr. Roux, begged leave to return thanks for the honour conferred. He passed an eulogium on the virtues of that reverend gentleman, stating, that not the least of his titles to the regard of the company was his unbounded esteem and respect for the Governor-in-Chief.

MORGAN.—The body of Morgan, who was supposed to have been forcibly carried away from New-York, and murdered at or near Niagara, on the Canada side, has at length been discovered, and no doubt remains of his abduction. A man of the name of Hill has surrendered himself to justice, and acknowledged that he is one of the five persons concerned in the act. The body has been recognized by Morgan's wife, and others who were familiar with him. This affair has caused an extraordinary sensation in the state of New York, and other parts of the Union; there cannot be a doubt that those who have perpetrated this crime have deeply wounded the peace, and are amenable to the laws of their country; but little sympathy is due to their wretched victim, who, for purposes of profit or malignity, could break through the obligations that he owed to the society of which he was a member, and whose mystical constitution he was bound to conceal.—Halifax Acadian, Nov. 2.
