It is surprising how much affinity and sympathy exists between the organs of smelling, hearing, seeing and tasting. Let any one who is skeptical of this fact place himself in the way of obtaining an attack of catarrh, or a severe cold in the head, as it is commonly called, and he will discover that all these organs are immediately affected in unison; nor is it infrequent for total or partial deafness, with inflamed eyes, to remain long after the other symptoms of catarrh have vanished.

The excellence of Richard's Dr. Abbott's Bitters seems generally to be admitted in the United States, where they are extensively used. They are said to give tone to the Stomach, to invigorate the system, and to assist, in every way, the functions of nature.

Let the afflicted use Dyer's Healing Embrocation. It has wrought wonders.

The day has gone by when discoverers in a science like that of medicine are to be ridiculed, because the discoverer claims a fair reward for years of experiment and sacrifice in bringing his remedies before the public.

NEW BOOKS.

GRACE TRUEMAN.—This Book has already attained considerable notoriety. Mrs. Ford's style is fascinating, the story is thrilling, the arguments forcible, and the portrayal of character excellent. While Grace's trials elicit sympathy, one cannot but admire her decision of character. Father Miller reminds of our fathers in the ministry who have gone to their rest. Mr. Lewis is a good example for our young lawyers who wish to be useful members of Society.

Theodosia Ernest.—The Editor of the Tennessee Baptist has the credit of being the Author of this Book. The arguments are clear, plain, lucid and convincing. It has more argument and less story than "Grace," but is no less interesting. Theodosia was very differently circumstanced from Grace; and possessing an enquiring mind was brought to know the truth and practice it. We will not compare the relative merits of the two books, but just say, read them both and judge for yourselves.

Spurgeon's Sermons, 2nd Series.—We need only say these are the 2nd Series of Sermons of the already celebrated Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, of London. It needs no further recommendation.

The above books can be had at the "Christian Messenger" Book Store, Halifax, Rev. John Chase, Wolfville, and Cutten & Co., Amherst. August 19.
