A telegram received from les, via Paris, and leaving the former city bursday, states that Garibaldi has at lenguarched against Messma. On the 3rd inst ral held a review of his veers at Palermo, and at that time he had ce of 9,000 men under his command; the 100 men who have joined him from Nrn Italy. A great the enthusiasm of the will probably compensate for its defect mother way. The Patrie says that the counder in Messina has received instructions tep within the walls of the town he is appoint defend. It is very likely these i structi were not needed, as they would probably gest themselves to the Italian general; but ether or no, the Patrie says that the King ordered his Sicilian general to act purely of defensive, to revictual and reinforce his gions by sea, and above all to act with ener. It is stated, through an authority which let be called unquestionable, that 20,000 de royal forces have refused to take part in thefence of Messina. It is also stated that a recilles house has ordered for eash payments following material, to be placed at the see of the Italian patriot ; 10, 000 six barrelyolvers, 6,000 muskets, 1,000 rifles, 11,000-linets, and three ships. Garibaldi has reall'dered two steamers at Liverpool. He wis them to be gunboats if possible, such as used in the British navy; but steamers of a kind he wants as a means of obtaining theedom of Italy. The ships, it is said, will sent out to Palermo immediately.
