A Portland paper says that Gen. Tom Thumb is to take a wife from that city, not only " one of Portland's fairest daughters," but "the handsome and accomplished daughter of one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens." She is said to be very " pretty, below the ordinary height, and heiress to quite a large estate."

The Times' special correspondent writes from Beyrout, Aug. 22. His details show that Fuad Pasha's vigour has filled the Moslems with consternation. The escaped Christians in Damascus were anxious to leave the city, but Faud Pasha had offered them a quarter of the town Kanawhat, whence he had expelled the Moslenis. Very few had accepted the offer. Up to the date of the last despatches the Christians had not opened their shops, nor, indeed, any in raised more wheat this year than any State in the town which, on the approach of the enemy, tion in the mountain. Kurschid Pasha was correspondent's account of the executions and "The Moslems fancied that no Moslem would suffer the penalty of death, although it was then known that there were 1,300 persons in prison, of whom 231 had been condemmed to death, and that out of this smaller number evidence of the committal of actual murder had been obtained against upwards of filty, and that the remainder had been proved to have plundered in the Christian quarter with arms in their hands. On Monday morning however States is removed; but, whether this be true those who funcied their creed would ensure them an immunity from punishment received a terrible shock, when they found fifty-seven Moslems-many belonging to the better, though not to the higher class-hanging in batches of from six to twelve in different parts of the city which had witnessed their atrocities. Among them where a merchant of considerable standing, and his son whose name have not reached me, -Mustapha Bey El Hawasaly, who was a protege of and owned his position to the late English Consul at Damascus, Mr. Wood, now Consul at Tunis, and who had made a handsome fortune during the Crimean war by trafficking in mules. This wretch, with his family and followers, butchered hundreds of Christians, including many who trusted for safry to his pretended friendship and to his profession of regard. It was by his orders, and by his people, that Mr. Graham was murdered, and he plotted the deaths of Mr. Frej and Dr. Meshallah, native The Times correspondent, writing on Mon- Protestant missionaries. FILLIBUSTER WALKER AND 70 MEN CAP-TURED. - Walker and Col. Kalder to be shot --Truxillo, Sept. 7 .- The British steamer learus, with transport and troops under Alvarex, proceeded to Rio Negro; where Walker's army were encamped. The boats of the learus proceeded up the river and captured Walker with 70 men. They were all brought to Truxillo and delivered up to the Spanish authorities.

Walker's men were very destitute, and many of them sick. They were permitted to return to the United States, on the condition never to again engage in an expedition against Central America. Walker and Col. Kalder were to be shot ar Guatamala. The expedition from Omoa arrived atter the capture of Walker.

are further particulars of this melancholy catastrophe :--

The books of the boat and the steward's desk containing some money and watches, were saved.

Statement of Michael E. Smith, of Octonagon. -1 was as eep in the mate's room at the time of the accident. The watchman' came in and told the first mate that the vessel had run into the steamer's port side, just forward of the Savoy, as it informed Louis Napoleon that the wheel house, and stove a hole in her. The mate King was utterly unable to resist any longer and myself went direc.ly on deck-found Capt. the current of Italian feeling. He must either Wilson there. The steamer had on board some 150 to 180 head of cattle. The captain ordered it. the cattle to be thrown overboard. - They were thrown over by the crew.

The first and second mates went in the life boat, to stop the leak. They found the hole so low that they could not get at it. The steamer was listed over, but they could not get at the leak. The captain ordered all the passengers to get lite-preservers ; I think most of them did. He then ordered the crew to take axes and break open the state room doors, so that none should be left in them; I think nearly every paasenger got out, although I pulled one out as we floated by the state-room.

A short time after this the engine fell through the bottom of the vessel; I thould think fifteen minutes after the schooner struck her; the hull deck floating ; a great portion of the passengers were on the hurricane deck when the hull went down; most of them jumped off very soon, thinking that would sink; the hurricane dack soon separated into five pieces ; there were twenty. five on the part on which I was; the captain was on this; there were some military from Milwaues went off with a number on each,

THE POSITION OF PIEDMONT.

"According to all appearances," says Th Times' Paris correspondent, " matters are drawing to a crisis, and Piedmont is on the point of throwing off the mask. It is confidently stated that the prohibition placed on the departure of volunteers from the Sardinian or not, the general tone of the letters and journels that reach us from Northern Italy encourages a strong belief that the Turin Cabinet is determined proniptly and actively to interfere Loss OF THE LADY ELGIN .- The following at Naples. I have reasons for thinking that for some time past the Piedmontese Government has held itself in readiness and made its preparations to interfere in Naples if things there took a turn dangerous to the general security and interests of Italy." It is very currently reported in Paris that Signor Farini, who went from Turin to compliment the Emperor at Chambery, carried with him an autograph letter from Victor Emmanuel. The letter was appropriately enough delivered on the soil of go in with it, he said, or be swept away by
