

ed to be nearly correct—Excursion party. 300; regular passengers, 40; steamer's crew, 35. Of these but 91 are saved.

Capt. Malou, of the schr. Augustus, states that when he first discovered the steamer's lights, both red and bright, he supposed her to be from a quarter to half a mile distant, and steering northeast. It was raining very hard at the time. We kept our vessel on her course east by south, until we saw that a collision was probable, when we put the helm hard up, struck the steamer two or three minutes afterwards, just abait the paddle-box on the port side; the steamer kept on her course with her engine in full motion; headed the Augustus around north, alongside the steamer but they got separated in about one minute, when the Augustus fell in the trough of the sea, and all head gear, jibboom, and stanchions were carried away. We took in sail and cleared away an anchor, supposing the vessel would fill. After clearing away the wreck got up the fore-sail and succeeded in getting before the wind and stood for land. We lost sight of the steamer in 5 minutes after the collision.

Up to 9 o'clock to-night only 21 bodies have been recovered, most of which are recognized by friends, as those of residents of Milwaukee.

European News.

SYRIA.

The measures taken by the Turkish Government, or rather by Pasha, who represents that Government in Syria, for the punishment and suppression of the disorders in that province; form a singular contrast to the apathy and carelessness which ordinarily distinguish all its movements. Partly from the character of the man, who in his recent reforms has shown no small energy and decision of character, as well as a clear idea of the nature of the changes required for the re-establishment of Turkish authority over the various provinces of the Empire, and partly perhaps from a well-founded dread of the feeling which these events must excite in the minds of the European Powers, the movements for the restoration of order in Syria have been taken with unusual promptitude and unusual success. Achmet Pasha and Kurshid Pasha, two of the great offenders, have been arrested and sent as prisoners to Constantinople. They have been degraded from their power and position, and are now, at the request of M. Lavelette, the French Ambassador, who probably had only poor ideas of the justice likely to be administered in Constantinople, sent back to Beyrout to be tried by a mixed Commission for the share they have taken in simulating, or at least for the indifference they have shown in suppressing, the Syrian massacres. The whole of the Lebanon has been surrounded by a strong body of troops, and the Druze chieftains are threatened with the utter destruction of their country if they do not surrender. Upwards of twenty have already been captured, besides a considerable number—800 it is said—of other persons supposed to have been more or less actively engaged in the massacres. A thousand camel loads of plunder taken from the Christians have also been recovered. The Sultan has delivered a speech to his Ministers, declaring his intention of punishing the offenders in Syria with the utmost severity. He also intends to address, it is said, an autograph letter to our Queen and the French Emperor, claiming the sole right to inflict punishment. Whether this will be granted or not, it is difficult to say; but probably not, unless good guarantees are given that the right shall be exercised with promptness and energy. The need for such an example is clearly shown from the fact that the very last mail brings the news of fresh massacres in Bealbee, but to what extent, and under what circumstances, we are not yet informed.

ITALY.

The Paris correspondent of the Liverpool Times says:—

"It is thus seen that events are advancing apace towards their solution. At the present moment the whole of the western portion of the kingdom, from the Gulf of Tarento to the Roman frontier, is lost to the Royal authority."

There are rumors of a convention between the Piedmontese Government and the Emperor of the French of a similar nature to that which is believed to subsist between Austria and Prussia.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GENERAL GARIBALDI'S AIDE-DE-CAMP IN LONDON.—A very large number of gentlemen, members and friends of the City of London Tradesmen's Club, assembled a short time since at Suter's Hotel, formerly known as the King's Arms, Snow Hill, to meet Captain E. Styles, an English officer attached to General Garibaldi's staff, who has come to England for the purpose of obtaining material aid to assist the general in the prosecution of his designs. Captain Styles, having been introduced to the club and requested to explain his objects, said he had been deputed by General Garibaldi to collect a battalion of English Volunteers. It was well known that he had already a noble English officer in his service, and there were eight or ten Englishmen in the ranks, and the general was so much pleased with the valor which they had displayed, that he had commissioned Captain Styles to visit England for the purpose of raising a battalion, and he was happy to say that in three days he had collected 500 Volunteers, many of them of the highest respectability, some of independent means. And while he had been compelled to take some of the lower class, for the purpose of servants, yet with these he had received characters for respectability. His object was to raise a battalion of at least 800 men; but he did not wish to take them empty-handed. All the money and ammunition which General Garibaldi had at his command he required for the troops he had there. He wanted, therefore, to collect sufficient to equip the English battalion, and when he reached Garibaldi, say, "Here we are, ready to fight!" (Loud applause.) A number of toasts were then given, the last being "Success to Garibaldi and freedom to Italy," and the meeting separated.

A bronze statue of the late Sir John Franklin is about to be erected at Spilshy, Lincolnshire. The statue will be placed on a granite pedestal. The Arctic hero was born at Spilshy, and hence the townspeople are anxious to pay a tribute of respect to his memory.

We have put up and sold this article for over ten years, and CAN SAY, IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW" after ten years experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILLMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.
