

cludes a history of Shipbuilding in New England and the middle and southern colonies; of Saw Mills and the Manufacture of Lumber; of Grist and Flour Mills; of Printing and Paper Mills, Type Foundries and Printing Presses; of Brick Making and Glass works; of Brewing and Wine making; of the manufacture of Salt, Clothing, and Dry Goods; of Tanning and Leather making; of manufactures in Iron and other Metals, &c. &c. Over six hundred large octavo pages are devoted to the consideration of these subjects. They abound in interesting facts, novel incidents, and valuable suggestions, and illustrate how States, as well as individuals, have become prosperous.

THE BAPTISTS OF NOVA SCOTIA.—The Christian Watchman, in an article on Ministerial Education, says, in reference to this Province, "The Baptists in Nova Scotia many years ago perceived the importance of sanctified learning for their sons, and also the necessity of knowledge and mental discipline for their ministers. Those venerable men whose memories are so dear to our brethren, rested not until the Institutions at Horton were provided. What has been the result? The churches in Nova Scotia are in a state of comparative efficiency. New churches are continually arising. Ministers are more happily and permanently settled than with us, denominational enterprises are prosecuted with greater energy, and the Baptist people are advancing in intelligence, and increasing their already powerful influence."

News Summary.

OUR London dates by the last mail are up to the 16th ult.

In Great Britain nothing important has occurred in political or domestic matters. The great point of commercial interest is the short supply of cotton, and the distress likely to ensue in throwing out of employment large numbers of people in the manufacturing districts.

In France much distress already exists, in consequence of a very short crop. Such an event, in a country so densely populated as France, with comparatively so little foreign commerce, and where the maintenance of an Army of more than half a million of men, within the limits of her dominions, must of necessity produce an artificial and restless state of society, is often attended with very serious consequences. The Government interferes so much with all the employments of the people that whenever scarcity or stagnation of business prevails, all classes naturally look to the Executive for relief or employment, and discontent and turbulence are the certain result. A foreign war is too often resorted to, as the remedy to divert the popular mind, ever greedy as it is in that country of military glory. The consequence of such a recourse is, in the end, but to increase the evil, by accumulating the national debt, and perpetuating embarrassment. This, in a great measure, among so versatile a people as the French, has been the secret of the numerous revolutions and changes that have taken place in France within the past seventy years, and it is much to be feared the same round of events has not yet reached its termination. It is said that Louis Napoleon is about to make large reductions in his Army and Navy. It is greatly to be desired that such may be the case, as the continual augmentation of his warlike preparations for these four years past has kept all Europe in a state of feverish excitement, and compelled a similar course of proceeding.

There has been very little during the week to vary the American news. Telegraph reports are daily received of partial skirmishes or successes, on one side or the other, but in the end they turn out to be either false or trifling. On the whole, however, we think the Federalists are improving in their position and prospects.

The Trial for Murder.

This trial was not brought to a close till Thursday evening.

It was argued by J. W. Ritchie Esq., that the absence of the city seal from the capias to take Lane the captain, rendered the constables both Gardner and Fraser trespassers. He demanded a verdict of acquittal for Lane, and modified manslaughter for Burdell. The addresses of counsel on both sides were very able and eloquent.

Hon. Mr. Johnston argued from the facts that murder with malice aforethought could not be sustained—the law could not be so construed; and as to vengeance demanding the life of the unhappy prisoner, that should never be permitted for a moment to occupy a place in the breast of a sinful man against his fellowman. Instead of such a motive influencing them he said vengeance belonged to God alone to execute. No motive of reward or other inducement was attributed to Burdell, but a sudden fit of temper of which any other man might be the subject, had induced him to resist the efforts of the law officers, in what they supposed was their duty.

The Attorney General's address occupied the rest of Wednesday.

On Thursday the Chief Justice charged the Jury, occupying four hours in quoting cases and laying down the law relating to murder and manslaughter. His closing words to them were,

"I dismiss you to the most grave and responsible duty that men can perform. As, in regards this man, Burdell, the issue, murder or manslaughter? If you can see in this evidence, upon the principles which I have laid down, anything that, in your consciences, will justify and vindicate the finding of the lesser offence—pronounce that verdict; and if there be a doubt, give him the benefit of that doubt. You have not, upon British principles, the right to convict him of murder unless you have an unanimous conviction that it is a case of capital punishment.—Your opinions of capital punishment have nothing to do with the matter—it is the law of the land that murder should be avenged. You will give your verdict, I am sure, upon the conviction of your solemn responsibility.

As regards the other man, I leave it entirely open to you, if you think he is guilty to some extent, and should be punished, find him guilty, of manslaughter. But the responsibility is not with the Crown Counsel not with the defence, not with the Court, but between you and your God is this grave and important issue. Do it, as I feel you will as British subjects and Nova Scotians; and hereafter, you will feel no remorse."

After deliberating about two hours the jury returned into Court and gave a Verdict of Manslaughter against both Burdell and Lane.

SUNDAY BANDS.—In consequence of a memorial to the Major General commanding, signed by a number of clergymen and others setting forth the injurious results, arising from crowds being gathered by the military bands playing to and from the Garrison Chapel on Lord's Days, and praying for a discontinuance of the practise, there has been no music with the troops on their way to public worship for the past two weeks.

CIVIC.—The tender of Mr. Connors to supply horses for the Steam fire-engines; when required, to May next for the sum of $260 is accepted.

James Hutt is appointed constable in place of the late Matthew Gardner.

The City Council have granted the sum of £200 to the family of the late constable Gardner, on the following conditions: The Mayor and City Treasurer to be trustees of the fund the interest of which is to be paid to Mrs. Gardner during her lifetime or until the youngest child comes of age, when the principal is to be divided amongst them.

A supplementary Subscription is also to be raised. His Worship and the City Council have expressed their intention of heading the same.

Steps were taken for the purpose of reorganizing the Police Force.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that a sad accident occurred at the Ovens Gold Diggins, Lunenburg, on Tuesday last. Mr. James R. McDonald, of Pictou, Superintendent of one of the Mining Companies, was accidentally shot dead by Mr. F. Traunweizer, of this city. Deceased was about 40 years of age, and leaves a widow. The following particulars were received by telegraph last evening:

Lunenburg, Nov. 27.

Traunweizer and others were firing at a mark with a revolver. Supposing the shot all discharged, Traunweizer put the revolver in his pocket, and turned to go to his shop. Deceased at that moment came up, and Traunweizer, laughing, presented the revolver and told him to stand off, at the same time snapping what he supposed to be an empty pistol. One charged had been left in, and it exploded, the ball penetrating the right corner of the left eye, causing instantaneous death. The Coroner's Jury rendered a verdict of Accidental Death.—Chronicle.

Mr. McDonald is a brother of the Queen's Printer His remains arrived in this city on Friday last and were conveyed to Truro, from thence they will be sent to Pictou, to be interred.

The steamer Eastern State was to leave New York for this port on the 21st inst. The knowing ones say that her visit here was for the purpose of laying off the harbour and intercepting the Cunard steamer, and ascertain if Messrs. Breckenbridge and Hunter were on board. No doubt the Cunarder would find a formidable opponent in the Eastern State.—Journal.

SYDEY, C. B. Nov. 23d.—We learn that several ships are immediately expected here, which have been chartered by Messrs. Cunard & Co. of Halifax, to carry 2,500 tons of coal to Havannah, for the French Squadron there.—News.

We are pained to learn that a man named Malcolm Gillis, was accidentally killed on the Railroad at the North Bar, on Thursday night last. Whilst carrying a stick of wood across the road, he stumbled and fell, and the wood falling on his head, crushed his skull, causing death.—Jb.

We regret to learn by telegraph that a man was shot dead by a Constable at St. Peter's, on Saturday last. The officer had a warrant against the deceased, who resisted his apprehension, and lost his life in his unwise obstinacy. The Constable will, doubtless, be put upon trial, when the extent of his justification, if any there be, will be established.—Jb.
