

bly without delay. The proclamation expresses great gratitude at the protecting powers, and declares the wish of the other States. The document contains nothing to show whether the revolutionary chiefs do or do not entertain the aggressive intentions imputed to them. Telegrams from Athens state that the new Government is everywhere recognised throughout Greece. The students of the University have organised a guard for the capital. The private property of the King and Queen has been delivered up to the representatives of their Majesties. The more we learn of the manner in which King Otto has left his kingdom, the more complete and ignominious is his overthrow shown to be. On the 23rd ult. the news from the provinces determined the disaffected of the capital to make a movement. The people and the garrison were immediately assembled in the principal "place," and the deposition of the dynasty was forthwith proclaimed. No dissenting voice seems to have been raised on behalf of the absent sovereign. On the same day the King and Queen arrived in the port, ignorant of all that had passed, and found themselves shut out from their capital. The foreign representatives begged the King not to land, but go away, and his Majesty replied that he would take time to think the matter over. Next day the Provisional Government ordered their Majesties to leave the Greek frigate in which they were, adding that if they remained on board their safety could not be ensured. Thereupon the King and Queen embarked on board the English ship Scylla, and sailed for Venice. It thus appears that the overthrow of King Otto's power was so complete that he could not even command the ship whose deck he trod. The new Government has taken the title of "The Government of the Hellenic Kingdom," and is presided over by M. Bulgaris. A telegram from Munich mentions the arrival of the deposed sovereigns at Munich, where they have been "enthusiastically received." The Emperor of Austria, who appears to be desirous of having his country ranked as a naval power, has ordered a frigate, corvette, and two gunboats, of the first-class, into the Grecian Archipelago. The sole object of despatching the fleet there is said to be the protection of Austrian subjects and Austrian commerce. A letter from the Paris correspondent of The Daily News asserts that the three protecting powers have agreed to abstain from a further interference in Greece; for the present, at least. The writer of this communication says this is "beyond all doubt." France and England are completely in unison on the point, and Russia has given her assent to it.

RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, 15th.—Journal de St. Petersburg contains reply of Gortschakoff to note of Drouyn de L'Hays. After recalling constant efforts of Russia in favor of conciliation, it says it is requisite above all to avoid appearance of any pressure whatever, capable of chilling public opinion in America, or of exciting the susceptibility of the nation. We believe that combined measures of Powers, however conciliatory, if presented in official or officious character, would risk arriving at result. Is opposed to pacification. If, however, France should persist in intervention and England should acquiesce, instructions shall be despatched to Baron Stoeckel at Washington, to lend to both his colleagues, if not official aid, at least moral support.

INDIA AND CHINA.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 20th.—Nothing definite ascertained with reference to cause or extent of recent conspiracy at Shanghai. Shanghai quiet. Engagement near Rungpoo between Ward's contingent. Ward killed. Rebels arrived in great force, determined to re-take Rungpoo. Charles Lennox and Richardson of Shanghai murdered. Vengeance of Foreign Powers averted by British Minister, whose interference increased residents' indignation.

Information from Shanghai and Canton continues to show the troubled state of the Chinese empire. The Mahometans who revolted at Shensi have been so far successful in their revolt as to root out every appearance of Imperial authority in the neighbourhood where the outbreak took place. Twenty-five cities have been taken by them, and all the Mandarins in them killed. The Taipings have, however, retired from Shanghai, leaving the country round about quiet. On the other hand, Canton is disturbed by the discovery of a wide-spread conspiracy in which the Taipings are concerned. The objects of the conspirators is said to have been to burn the city and kill the Mandarins. Numerous arrests have been made.

CLOSE OF THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

On Saturday Nov. 1st the public were admitted for the last time to the International Exhibition of 1862—now a thing of the past. Beyond the simple ceremonial of singing our national hymn no formality of any kind marked the occasion. There were crowds of visitors. The familiar faces of aristocratic and distinguished visitors again thronged the nave, visiting again and inspecting their favourite courts and classes for the last time. Their Imperial Highnesses the Prince and Princess Napoleon were there, with the Princess Edward of Saxe Weimar, the Duke of Cambridge the Princess Ananie of Schleswig-Holstein-Augustenburg, the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland, the Duke and Duchess of Buckingham, &c. As the clock struck four the well-known words of our National Anthem were begun, at first with diffidence, but gradually swelling out in a loud which, if it did not fill the building, at least sent its clear, solemn tones up the nave, bringing together the scattered groups from all parts, hurrying down on tip-toe and bareheaded, to assist by their presence at what to all Englishmen is almost a religious ceremony. It was curious to watch the great mass of quiet upturned faces as they listened with that peculiar mingling of pride and reverence to every strain—listened with an earnestness of feeling and attention not common even in this country. For a few moments after its close there was a pause, and then, as at a signal, a loud cheer broke forth, with clapping of hands and waving of handkerchiefs, which was renewed again and again, and "one cheer more" led to another and a louder, till there was no method of restoring silence but by singing "Parant pour la Syrie." To this compliment to our foreign visitors the same respectful attention was paid and the same cheering greeted its termination, when again and again came the heavy rolling cheer and calls for an encore which made the building, large as it is, echo again. To this fresh demand the members of the Society kindly lent an indulgent ear, and sang "Rule Britannia," and to do them justice, the audience spared no efforts to make them sing it half-a-dozen times more, so loud and long-sustained was their applause. But there was no response to this emphatic and vigorous encore. Some concession was, however, made to popular opinion by playing "Auld Lang Syne," but even the plaintive strains of this fine old melody were soon overwhelmed under the tremendous clamour with which every bell in the building commenced "ringing out." It was quite six o'clock before the place was clear, and for the last time, as an Exhibition, given over to the custody of the police, who from the commencement have guarded its contents so well, and who, when marshalled in the centre transept and their last daily reports given in, openly rejoiced that their long monotony of duties at the building was at length over.

There will be a deficit in receipts as compared with expenditure, which will, we believe, be less than £25,000. Notwithstanding the famine in our manufacturing districts—a famine of the worst kind, as arising from the enforced idleness of the people; notwithstanding the death of the great originator of the plan, with a Court absent and in mourning, a wet summer, a bad harvest, and trade generally in such a state of depression as has seldom been in before in this country, the Exhibition has in all popular and practical results surpassed the hitherto unapproachable standard by which all similar efforts have been judged, the Exhibition of 1851.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We learn from the London Gazette that at the Privy Council on Saturday Nov. 1st. the Queen gave her consent to the marriage of the Prince of Wales to the Princess Alexandra Caroline Maria Charlotte Louisa Julia of Denmark. The consent was ordered to be signified under the Great Seal.

LIBERTY OF THE PRESS IN SPAIN.—The Clamor Publico, published at Madrid, was seized for publishing the following paragraphs in allusion to the persecutions of Protestants in Spain:—"The Emperor of China has published a decree establishing freedom of worship in his dominions. And in Spain, what is being done in respect of the same question? There are those in some of the provinces of Andalusia who can answer. For ourselves, remembering the vulgar saying, 'Comparisons are odious,' we make none, because we do not wish to be odious to anybody."

LORD RUSSELL AND THE JAPANESE AMBASSADORS.—A Paris letter in the Gironde says:—"The Japanese ambassadors, it is said, met with a disappointment at London. Most of the European Governments have kept them at the expense of the Treasury, and they imagined that it would be the same in Great Britain. They, however, moderated their expenses, and their bill only amounted to the modest sum of 100,000fr. They sent the document to Earl Russell, who replied to them, 'I cannot pay it. The English constitution does not authorise me, and I should require a bill of indemnity from Parliament.' They then paid the money like persons who know how to expend when necessary."

THE FRENCH ARMY IN MEXICO.—A letter from Admiral La Graviere says that the forward movement of the French army from Orizaba cannot be commenced before the first week in December. He is of the opinion that nothing can prevent the French reaching the city of Mexico in the course of January, although the army may have to fight the enemy once or twice on the way.

The Picton Standard states that the brigantine Mary Jane, Capt. Roberts, bound from Tatamagouche to St. John's, N. F., with a cargo valued at £800, was lost at Broad Cove, C. B., on the morning of the 11th inst., during a heavy gale and snow storm. The vessel struck the bottom about half a mile from the shore, and was driven by the violence of the storm, to within 300 yards of the shore, the sea breaking over her and those on board, with the exception of the captain, who stood by the tiller, taking refuge in the rigging. After the vessel grounded, the captain and one of the hands made an attempt to reach the land in a boat, which was upset, but finally succeeded in getting ashore, being washed on to the rocks by the surf. A line was subsequently floated from the ship to the shore, and all on board succeeded in getting ashore except the first mate, Charles Ba ter, who was unfortunately drowned by the upsetting of the boat.
