THE CENSUS OF CANADA.—The Quebec Chronicle, in an article on the late census of Canada, gives the following:

"Of the 2,506,755 inhabitants of Canada, 1,917,777 were born in the Province. The native Canadians of British and those of French origin are nearly equal, being 1,037,170 and 880,607, respectively.

"Coming the question of religions, we perceive that 1,200,870 are Roman Catholics, and that the Church of England, with 374,887 followers, stands next.

"Comparing our condition in 1861 with that in which we were in 1852, we note that the total population of the country has increased 36 per cent, from 1,842,265 to its present figure.

"If we compare our progress with that of other countries, we have every reason to be satisfied.—Great Britain increased its population only about 18 per cent, from 1840 to 1850; our rate of increase is more than three times as much, and although the States augmented their figures from 23,191,857 in 1850 to 31,429,891, it will be seen that this is an increase of but 35 per cent, and therefore inferior to ours."

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The Federal loss at Fort Donelson was eleven hundred killed and wounded. The Confederate loss was not so great, as they fought behind entrenchments.

Latest from Europe!

GREAT BRITAIN.

The steamship Bohemian arrived at Portland on the 20th, from Liverpool. Both Houses unanimously voted an address in response to the Queen's speech.

The Earl of Derby thought America assented with bad grace. Lord Palmerston said the manufacturing districts would not warrant interference.

Parliament was opened on the 6th inst. Her Majesty's speech was read by the Lord Chancellor.

The first paragraph refers to the death of the Prince Consort, and declares that Her Majesty's sorrow has been soothed by the sympathizing affections of all classes of the people.

Her Majesty's relations with all the European Powers continue to be friendly and satisfactory, and her Majesty trusts there is no reason to apprehend any disturbance of the peace of Europe.

Reference is made to the Trent affair. It is stated that that matter having been settled by the disavowal, by the United States Government, of the act of violence committed by their Naval officer, the friendly relations between the two Governments are now unimpaired.

Her Majesty willingly appreciates the loyalty and patriotism which have been manifested on this occasion by her North American subjects.

In the House of Commons Sir J. Trevelyan gave notice that he would move for leave to bring in a bill for the abolition of Church rates.

FRANCE.

Letters from France describe the distress prevailing in the manufacturing districts of the country as very heavy indeed.

What is experienced in England, the distress is accompanied with "deep discontent," and the authorities find it necessary to encourage the manufacturers to keep up their work if possible.

An encouragement which in its turn keeps up the idea of intervention in the matter of the Southern blockade.

FRANCE AND ITALY.—The Pope and the Emperor have had another diplomatic battle, the details of which the latter has published to all Europe.

What is his design in so doing? Is it, or is it not, to justify himself in leaving the Pope to the care of Italian soldiers, and to relieve himself from the odium of thwarting Italian aspirations to be governed from their natural capital; also, no unimportant object to him just now, to save himself the cost of the army of occupation?

The summary of the negotiations is—France asks whether the Pope, without just now adverting to any particular mode of doing it, is willing to accept facts as they are, and to entertain the question of adapting his position to facts with adequate securities for his independence and dignity—and by so doing to re-unite himself to Italy.

The reply is—We change not—we make no terms with the spoilers of the Church—we cannot yield—we will wait events.

The French Ambassador, therefore, M. Lavalette, informs the Foreign Secretary, M. Thouvenel, that, to his great regret, his Holiness and Antonelli are immovable.

They even pretend that their "relations are excellent with the Italians." If so, it is hard to see why Louis Napoleon should not leave these gentlemen to the Italians.

In the sitting of the Corps Legislatif on the 28th ult., the President, Count Morny, in his opening speech, said:—"In the whole world there does not exist a single government, nor a single people, which is not distressed by a grave crisis.

Old societies are dissolving, new ones are becoming modified. Amid this work of transformation, and notwithstanding the difficulties in commercial and agricultural affairs, France alone has remained calm, confident and prosperous."

Very great distress prevails among all the manufacturing classes in France.

The discovery of the fossil bones of a new and gigantic saurian, in a cutting recently made for a railway near Poligny, has just been announced.

The animal must have been between 90 and 120 feet in length, and must have existed towards the end of the Triassic period.

ITALY.

According to advice from Rome, a band of brigands, 100 strong, had been despatched from that city to a place on the coast, ready to be transported to the Neapolitan provinces, with the object of provoking an insurrection.

The land frontier is not so available for the passage of such persons since the French troops have received orders to assist in suppressing brigandage, but so long as the headquarters of the movement in Rome are protected, we may be sure that means will be found to carry disorder into the provinces lost to Francis II.

The health of the Pope, which has not been good for some time past, is said to have improved.

FLORENCE, Feb. 3.—A popular demonstration took place to-day in this city. The populace traversed the streets with flags and bands of music, shouting "Rome is the capital of Italy!" "Down with the Pope!" "Long live Victor Emmanuel!"

Before dispersing the crowds proceeded to the residence of the French Consul.

The National Guard and the municipality refuse to accept the money. They say they will not take succour from hands dripping with Italian blood; and, probably, this rebuff will show the unfortunate exile how little he has to hope for from the sympathy of the Italians.

THE WINDHAM LUNACY COMMISSION.—This case terminated on Thursday, the 30th, the thirty-first day of the inquiry.

The jury, after a careful examination of Mr. Windham, in which he was interrogated with regard to the leading events of his life, retired to consider their verdict. After half-an-hour's deliberation they returned with their verdict, that Mr. Windham was of sound mind, and capable of taking care of himself and his affairs.

The decision of the jury excited great enthusiasm among the people in court.
