

churchmen. The use of this term—Dissenters—in Nova Scotia, we have before had to remark, is altogether inappropriate. We know that in England all who are not in the Episcopal church are termed Dissenters, whilst in Scotland Episcopalians themselves are Dissenters, but in Nova Scotia there being no established church, we may say again there are no Dissenters. We question whether the use of that term is likely to attract any who are not Churchmen to the halls of Kings College.

ORDINATION OF REV. J. E. HOPPER.—We have the following information in the Visitor respecting the ordination of the Principal of Fredericton Seminary:—

The Western Association having passed a resolution at its recent meeting requesting the ordination of Bro J. E. Hopper at an early period, this new church, (the newly-formed Baptist Church at Fredericton to be called the Queen Street Baptist Church,) in compliance therewith, unanimously requested his ordination. The above Council, (invited respecting the formation of said new church,) with the addition of Dr. Hurd, having been invited to deliberate on the matter, and having listened with great pleasure to the Christian experience, call to the ministry, and theological views of our brother, proceeded at once to his ordination. Ordaining prayer by Rev. W. Harris, hand of fellowship by Rev. T. Todd, charge to the candidate by the Rev. J. C. Hard. The service was exceedingly solemn and witnessed with marked attention by a large audience. Closing prayer by Rev. W. Downey (Free-Baptist), and benediction by the Pastor, T. Todd, Secretary.

Fenianism in England.

As it is now so long between the time when, by the telegraph cable, we receive intimations of movements in Great Britain, and when the details thereof arrive by mail, we are liable to lose sight of what occurred two or three weeks ago, whilst we are making enquiries respecting what is now occurring. It will be seen, however, by the following, which we copy from the Christian World, that the secret bands of Fenians are not so harmless as it was hoped and supposed:

Fenianism has assumed a more serious aspect than ever. It is now only too plain, from the facts which have transpired since our last, that the evil was scotched, not killed. About nine days ago the police of Manchester came upon four men, who proved to be armed with revolvers, loitering in the streets in the middle of the night. They were challenged, and two of them were arrested, their companions escaping. Of the two arrested, one was Colonel Kelly, the chief colleague of the notorious Stephens, and the other was Captain Deasy, also a man of mark in the Fenian brotherhood. On Wednesday they were brought up at the Manchester Police-court, and were remanded. The prison van was escorted to the jail by a posse of eleven constables, seven going with the van and four following in a cab. On its way the van had to pass under a railway arch, and it had no sooner reached this point than a body of about forty or fifty men, for the most part better dressed than ordinary workmen, suddenly came out from the shadow of the arch into the open road, and shouted to the driver to stop. The leader of the band was one O'Mara Allen, and he followed up his command to the driver to stop, by firing at the police. This was the signal for a volley of pistol-shots and stones from the ranks of the assailants. The police were beaten off, both horses were shot, the driver knocked off his box by a heavy stone, and other constables more or less wounded. The roof of the van was battered in, and the lock of the door smashed by the repeated discharge of a revolver. Upon the door being at last burst open, Allen called upon Brett, the turnkey of the van, who rode inside and carried a cutlass, to give up his keys, and upon Brett's refusal shot him through the head. Allen then released his friends, several other prisoners also escaping, and there was a general retreat of the Fenians. Kelly and Deasy escaped, but Allen, the leader, was caught, and before midnight a score of prisoners were lodged in the gaol. Kelly and Deasy were seen to enter a postage handcart, and to quit it a few moments later with their hands free. No trace of them has since been obtained. Arrests continue to be made, and the Manchester police are now armed with Colt's revolvers. This is the story, and the perusal of it cannot fail to give rise to unpleasant reflections. That in a city like Manchester, and in broad daylight, two prisoners can be rescued from custody, is a fact calculated to fill one with serious alarm. We are not surprised to find that the news has been received by certain malcontents in Dublin, with the wildest expressions of delight. On Thursday and Friday nights bonfires were lit upon the hills around Cork, and bands of music, with yelling mobs, marched along the road with military step, rejoicing at the rescue of Kelly and Deasy from Manchester, and the escape of Osbourne from Clonmel Gaol. It appears now that there is sufficient life yet in Fenianism to do a good deal of mischief, and we can no longer comfort ourselves with the assurance that it has been effectually suppressed.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The present great trouble of Europe, and it a serious one, is the disturbed and threatening state of Italy. Garibaldi notwithstanding his second capture and confinement to his island in the Mediterranean, evinces the firm determination to eject the Pope from his temporal dominions, and restore Rome and the papal territory to the Italian kingdom, and thus realize the fact of a United Italy. The vast majority of the Italians, including the subjects of the Pope, amounting to more than half a million, are enthusiastically bent on effecting this object, and seem resolved to make every sacrifice for its attainment. Bands of armed Italian insurgents under Garibaldi's son, Menotti, are making incursions on every side into the Papal borders, where they meet a ready welcome from the subjects of the Pope, and in several cases are said to have repulsed the Papal forces sent against them. Victor Emmanuel and the Italian Government are thus placed in the most embarrassed condition. They are under treaty engagements, agreed on by what is called the September Convention, of which the French Emperor and the King of Italy were the principal parties, to sustain the Pope in the possession of his temporal power. Their great difficulty now is, that they find almost the whole population of Italy resolved on expelling the Pope, in the face of the Treaty, and have little power to oppose the movement. In the mean time the Emperor, Louis Napoleon, finds himself seriously compromised, and is bound, if possible, to fulfil his guarantee to the Pope. Active preparations are said to be making in France to interfere. If so, and the Italian government are unable to control their people, a war with France would in all probability be the consequence, and as Prussia, since the late German war, is a warm ally of Italy, and is not on very good terms with France, it is not unlikely that she and other Powers, would be brought into the quarrel. In the natural course of events, it seems a moral certainty that Rome and the Papal possessions must in a very few years, make part of the kingdom of Italy, if that kingdom should maintain its present unity. It seems therefore to be regretted that Garibaldi should have hurried on the great object of his life, at the risk that is involved in his present attempt. But as he is an honest, resolute and persevering patriot and is personally wholly unselfish and unambitious; refusing all place, honors and profit, his will would seem to be above all law and all treaties with his countrymen.

LECTURES.—The first lecture of the course before the Acadia Athenaeum, delivered by the Rev. Dr. Cramp, on the 11th inst, was a pleasing resume of Geological history and its intimate connection with Divine revelation. Many facts and data were enunciated which were new probably to a large number of the audience, and which the respectful attention of the meeting throughout showed to be duly appreciated. The Rev. Dr. has the happy faculty, like King Midas, of turning all he touches to gold, and did not fail in this instance to make the old grey strata show their yellow spots, and throw an interest around his subject that showed an intimate acquaintance with it in all its bearings.—Id.

The Rev. G. M. W. Carey, of St. John, N. B., lectured before the Athenaeum, on Friday last. The lecture was said to have been a masterly production.

The CITY OFFICIALS were elected during the past week. With a trifling exception or two, the present incumbents were re-elected.

DARTMOUTH.—The Examination of the Public Schools in this place called together a large company of visitors and friends on Friday last. Several original essays were read, and the pupils joined in singing some appropriate songs, prizes were presented to those who had been most regular in their attendance, and diligent in their studies.

Mr. Rand, Provincial Superintendent of Education, addressed the people briefly, pointing out the great advances apparent in the schools since their previous examination; and expressing his conviction that the labour and capital expended by Dartmouth on its schools would be found to be a good and wise investment. Although the schools had been in operation but one year, he believed they gave every promise of ranking among the foremost in the Province. This was a high compliment, but he felt persuaded it was deserved.

Hon. Mr. Howe, M. P., said he had never witnessed in Dartmouth any proceeding of a public nature which gave him so much delight as what he had seen there on that occasion. He expressed himself entirely in sympathy with the idea of Free Schools and assessment, and congratulated the youngsters of Dartmouth on the great advantages they enjoy, and the evident good use they are making of them. He expected yet to see some of the boys then before him taking part in the public affairs of the Province, and perhaps, on a wider arena, helping to shape the destinies of all British America.

Mr. Miller, Inspector of Schools for Halifax, and Mr. Parsons, Principal of the new school in Brunswick street, also gave brief and well timed addresses.

We learn from the Bridgetown Free Press that the store of Mr. E. Hardwick, Middleton, Annapolis Co. was destroyed by fire on the 11th inst. Mr. H. was in Halifax at the time, and no one had been in the Store during the preceding day. None of the goods in the store were saved. It is suspected that the fire was the work of an incendiary who had first robbed the store.—The store of Messrs. Dickie, Rand and Tupper, Canning, was broken open and robbed one night last week. There appears to be a gang of burglars prowling about the western part of the Province. Many depredations have been committed, but none of the offenders have been discovered.
