ON PLANTING TREES.

So much has been written on this subject that it is scarcely possible to say anything new in reference to it; but things of so much importance will bear reiterating, and indeed require to be brought the more prominently under notice when we do not see the present advantages of our work, and when it does not bring the dollars into our pockets, or at least when we cannot see it if it does.

Let the planting of trees in the spring be as much the work of the farm as ploughing and sowing. Set apart two days at least every year for this important work. Let all hands go at it with a will, and do the work well, for ten trees well planted are better than a hundred ill done. Plant shade trees in each nook and corner of your fields, for the protection of your stock from the scorching rays of the sun. Plant fruit trees by the road side and prevent orchard robbing. Plant trees along the north and west sides of your farms, for wind-breaks, and you will have better crops of fall wheat. Plant trees on all hill sides and places which cannot be cultivated, for timber and fuel to the rising generation. Plant a good orchard of the best kinds of apples, pears, cherries, &c., and evergreens around your orchard to protect it from winds. In fact, plant trees everywhere you may think it necessary. Plant evergreens and deciduous trees, fruit-bearing and nut-bearing trees, trees for ornament and for profit, but plant as if you intended and expected that they should grow. Do not undertake to do too much in one year, but still something might be done every year, and as we gain a little experience in the matter, it can be done more easily and with better success.—Cor. Canada Farmer.

WILL CHEESE-MAKING IN SMALL DAIRIES, OR BY SINGLE FARMERS, PAY?—We are inclined to think not. At least, we would advise such to give their attention to butter-making rather than the manufacture of cheese, for the reason that they cannot hope to compete in the market with the cheese-produced-under the factory system, where capital and talent combine to produce an article of first-rate quality, at a much less cost than can be done in small dairies. Cheese-making is a nice and intricate business to carry out to perfection, and few indeed there are possessed of the knowledge and knack of applying it that is requisite to ensure perfect success in producing a superior article of cheese. Butter-making will, we think, commend itself to those who have a small herd of good milk cows, and we think will pay the best, especially if such an article is produced as can be commended for its sweetness of flavour and perfect cleanliness, by those among our wealthier classes who can and will appreciate and pay for a really good article.—Id.

LOAM DEFINED.—A good loamy soil is one that is neither too sandy nor too clayey—one that when moderately moist will squeeze tight in your hand and retain the traces of your fingers, and yet when dryish will crumble into pieces. If very sandy it will not be cohesive enough. If there is too much clay it will be too close. Sandyloam, such as you find at most roadsides, is the best for plants. Turfy loam, is a loam taken from the green sward of a pasture, or the sides of roads and lanes, taken off thin, from one to two or three inches in thickness, and allowed to decompose for a few months after being piled in a heap. When broken up for use such loam will be found full of decayed vegetable fibre, and hence its use for nourishment and keeping the soil open.—Cottage Gardener.

A novelty was introduced at the recent Barrow-in-Furness Dog and Poultry Show in the shape of prizes for different kinds of cats. The winner in one class weighed eleven pounds.

A correspondent of the New England Farmer says he raised thirty heads and 6,441 kernels of oats from one kernel of seed.

A correspondent of the Journal of the Farm says he has raised 1,200 bushels of sugar beets to the acre on soil not over six inches in depth.

Women are employed instead of men in some of the fashionable hairdressers' shops in London.

WHAT ONE HUNDRED LETTERS a-day say from patients all over the habitable globe:

'Dr. Maggiel, your pill had rid me of all biliousness.'
 'No more noxious doses for me in five or ten pill taken at one time. One of your pills cured me.'
 'Thanks, Doctor. My headache has left me. Send another box to keep in the house.'
 'After suffering torture from bilious cholera, two of your pills cured me, and I have no return of the malady.'
 'Our doctors treated me for Chronic Constipation, as they called it, and at last said I was incurable. Your Maggiel's Pills cured me.'
 'I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me hearty one.'
 'Your pills are marvellous.'
 'I send for another box, and keep them in the house.'
 'Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache—that was chronic.'
 'I gave half one of your pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear young thing got well in a day.'
 'My nausea of a morning is now cured.'
 'Your box of Maggiel's Pills cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some Salve behind my ears, and the noise left.'
 'Send me two boxes—I want one for a poor family.'
 'I enclose a dollar—your price is twenty five cents, but the Medicine to me is worth a dollar.'
 'Send me five boxes of your pills.'
 'Let me have three boxes of your Salve and Pills by return mail.'
